MEDIA INFORMATION

CREDENTIALS: Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home games should be made in writing on company letterhead to Rick Brewer in the Carolina Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514. Requests may be sent via fax, but all requests, mailed or faxed, should be sent so that they reach the SID Office at least a week prior to the game.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies which cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Tickets will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they can be picked up before 5 p.m. on Friday at the Sports Information Office from secretary Lee Snyder. Those credentials not picked up by 5 p.m. on Friday will be left for Saturday pickup at Kenan Stadium Will Call which is at Gate Six (6), directly behind the press box. Will Call opens two hours prior to kickoff.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses, dates and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America. There is no cheering in the press box.

PRESS BOX SERVICES: Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game. Press box announcer Dave Lohse will announce abbreviated statistical information after the first and third quarters.

A meal will be served before each game and at halftime behind the main working press area. Soft drinks and coffee will be available throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the press box 90 minutes prior to each game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field. Credential holders not working will be asked to leave the sidelines.

We ask for the safety of the players and officials that you please do not leave equipment unattended on the sidelines. If you are shooting with a tripod, please keep a safe distance from the playing field.

GAMEDAY PARKING: Press parking at Kenan Stadium is available on an extremely limited basis. Requests for parking passes should be made well in advance to Rick Brewer. Parking passes tend to run out quickly and the SID office has parking available to it in just one area.

The parking lot is located on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive, a five-minute walk from the press box.

POSTGAME INTERVIEWS: Coach Mack Brown will meet with the media following each game after a brief cooling-off period and a short interview with Woody Durham for the Tar Heel Sports Network's live broadcast. At Kenan Stadium these postgame press conferences will be in the second-floor auditorium of the Student-Athlete Development Center adjacent to the locker room.

The Tar Heel locker room is closed. Members of the media wishing to interview players may do so in the team's weight room following Brown's press conference. This is the large room directly across from the locker room on the ground floor of the Development Center. (On ground level on the side of the field opposite from the press box). Student assistants from the Sports Information Office will walk through the press box and take player requests from the media midway through the fourth quarter.

Away game procedures will vary, depending on available facilities.

PHONES: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones along press row for writers to transmit stories. There is a bank of phones stationed along press row. All long distance calls must be by credit card, collect or billed to a third number.

Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell at least two weeks prior to the game. If you are calling from within the 919 area code dial 780-2800. However, if you are calling from outside the 919 area code, then you must dial 1-800-919-2800.

Note: the on-campus building number for the press box at Kenan Stadium, for which you will be asked, is #519. Rick Brewer should be listed as the stadium contact for placing the phone.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one fax machine which will be available for filing. Writers should make a representative of the UNC Sports Information Office aware of their fax needs prior to the end of the game.

INTERVIEWS WITH COACH BROWN: Mack Brown will be available to the media at a press luncheon each Tuesday during the football season. Television tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch being served at 12 noon. The press conference follows the meal in the Rams' Room of Kenan Fieldhouse. These may be taped for radio broadcast.

Parking for the press conference is inside Gate Four (4) — directly behind the end zone at the opposite end of the stadium from the fieldhouse. Please note that parking at the Fieldhouse end of the stadium is extremely limited and University parking monitors will ticket cars which do not have the proper permits.

Interviews with Brown at other times during the week can be set up by contacting Becky Medford, Coach Brown's secretary in the football office. The best way to reach the coach is to call between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Thursday. If Coach Brown is unavailable at that time, he will make every effort to return the call as soon as possible. Staff meetings are conducted during the morning. The football office number is (919) 966-2575.

PLAYER INTERVIEWS: All player interviews should be arranged through the Sports Information Office. Players have been instructed to conduct no interviews unless they have been set up in this manner. The interviews will generally be around lunch time — after the player's classes and before practice. There will be at least one player available at Coach Brown's press conference.

The majority of in-person player interviews will be conducted at Chase Dining Hall (located at the corner of Manning and Bowles Drive). Some interviews may also be conducted in the lobby of the football office at Kenan Fieldhouse. There is no phone at Chase Dining Hall so telephone interviews are conducted at the player's convenience. Usually they are handled just before or immediately after practice.

Requests for telephone interviews will be handled by players returning calls to the media. No home numbers for players will be given out and players have been told not to accept calls from anyone asking football-related questions. Interviews are not allowed on the day preceding a game.

Please do not show up and wait for players unannounced at either the dining hall, the weight room, the locker room, players' housing or the football office. The players have been instructed to politely decline the request and refer the person to the Sports Information Office.

Players will not be available for live call-in radio shows.

PRACTICE COVERAGE: Carolina football practices are generally open to the media. Admission to practice can be obtained by contacting the Sports Information Office. If you wish to attend practice please contact the SID Office ahead of time so we can be sure to assist you. Attendants at the practice site are instructed not to allow any access to the practice facility if a member of the Sports Information staff is not present, so be sure to call ahead of time.

Players are not available for interviews on the practice field, whether they are competing or not. Coach Brown will be available following the conclusion of each session.

Once the team goes into pads in the fall, photographers will be allowed to shoot only warm-ups, stretching drills and the first two periods of work (10 minutes). Team meetings after practice are private.

Practices will be closed the weeks Carolina plays Duke, N.C. State and Wake Forest.

Once the school year starts, practice generally begins with stretching exercises at 3:45 p.m. and the first period of drills at approximately 4 p.m. The team, in general, does only light running and stretching on Sunday and does not practice on Monday.

SPORTS INFORMATION OFFICE: The University of North Carolina Sports Information Office is located on the main level of the Dean E. Smith Center, less than one mile away from Kenan Stadium. Parking is available with a visitor's pass in the lot behind Koury Natatorium and can be accessed from Skipper Bowles Drive. Enter the building via the sidewalk which runs between the Smith Center and the Natatorium. The SID office is on Level 2 directly across the hallway from the men's basketball office.

FAXBACK SERVICE: The Atlantic Coast Conference and its member institutions provide statistics, schedules, notes and releases on a fax-on-demand service. Each school places full postgame boxscores and play-by-play on the service and updates its football release by no later than 5 p.m. Monday afternoon. This is a media information service. Phone numbers are not to be distributed to the general public. If you wish to use this service, please call the Sports Information Office or the ACC Service Bureau for further information.

File numbers for Carolina information are as follows: Monday morning release, including notes from the previous game, a preview of the upcoming contest, injury updates and statistics (file #61050, available Monday by 12 noon); pregame notes (file #61051, available Friday afternoon by 1 p.m.); team statistics (file #61052, available Sunday evening by 9 p.m.); complete box scores with team and individual statistics, scoring summary, play-by-play and postgame coaches' quotes (file #61053, available as soon as possible following the completion of the game); 1995 schedule and rosters (file #61054, available at any time)

SATELLITE FEED AND TELECONFERENCE: A highlight clip of each Atlantic Coast Conference school is available weekly via satellite transmission. Coordinates and time of the transmission can be obtained by contacting the ACC Service Bureau in Greensboro (910) 854-8787.

All of the league's head coaches are also available each week to the media on a teleconference. Starting time is 11 a.m. every Wednesday. The teleconference feed is of broadcast quality. The phone number for the media to use in becoming a part of this teleconference can be obtained through the Carolina Sports Information Office or the ACC Service Bureau.

DIRECTIONS TO PRESS PARKING
(access only with authorized parking pass)

From Eastern North Carolina and/or Raleigh/Durham International Airport: Take I-40 West to Chapel Hill. Stay in the left or middle lane because the road splits about five miles past the airport and the right lane heads towards Durham. Stay to the left and follow I-40 West to Exit 273-B. Signs marking this exit are marked in any of the following ways: UNC-Chapel Hill/ Carrboro, Kenan Stadium - Dean E. Smith Center, 54 West. Exit 273-B is a right-hand exit. Stay straight on 54 West for approximately three miles. Exit right onto Route 15-501 South/ 54 West and follow for one mile. Turn right at the traffic light onto Manning Drive. Follow up the hill, stay straight through the intersection (Smith Center will be down the hill on your left) and turn right at the next traffic light. That is the intersection of Manning Drive and Gravely Drive. An attendant will check for your pass and allow you to turn into the lot.

From North of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 South to Durham. I-85 will split at exit 174. The right-hand lane takes you to I-40 and Greensboro, N.C. Stay in the left-hand lane and take exit 174 (a left-hand exit) for 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South all the way to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass until you turn right onto Manning Drive. See above

From Charlotte and West of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 North to I-40 East. 85 and 40 split in Hillsborough, just west of Chapel Hill. Take I-40 to exit 270 and exit onto Route 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South all the way to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass until you turn right onto Manning Drive. See above

From South of Chapel Hill: Take I-77 North to I-85 and then follow the same directions as from Charlotte. Or take I-95 North to I-40 West. 95 and 40 converge just north of Benson, N.C. Then take I-40 all the way to Chapel Hill and follow the directions from the airport. See above

SPECTATOR PARKING NOTES: Express bus service is provided for each Carolina football game. Service starts 90 minutes before kickoff and return trips begin immediately after the game and continue for an hour. One-way fare is $1.50. The Tar Heel Express may be picked up at the following four locations: on Route 54 West at the Carrboro Plaza Shopping Center; on Route 54 East at the Park & Ride Lot adjacent to the Friday Continuing Education Center; on Route 15-501 at the Omni Europa Hotel; and Route 15-501 at University Mall at Estes Drive. For 24-hour special event parking information call 558-5961.

Service from downtown and the UNC campus is also available on the U Route. The one-way fare is $1.00. Chapel Hill transit fares are subject to change. For the latest information on fares, call 968-2769.

All-America candidates Marcus Jones, Leon Johnson and Marcus Wall headline a cast of 10 returning starters as the 1995 University of North Carolina football team pursues its sixth consecutive winning season and fourth straight appearance in the postseason.

Head coach Mack Brown, in his eighth year in Chapel Hill, welcomes back 40 lettermen from last season's team which went 8-4 and played in the Sun Bowl. Brown's teams have won 40 games over the last five years, including 27 wins from 1992-94. That is the fourth-highest three-year victory total in Carolina football history.

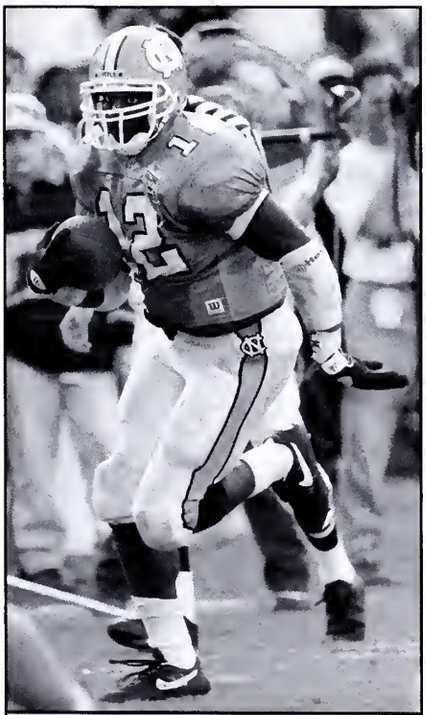
Only two other times in the first 104 years of football at UNC have the Tar Heels strung together at least six consecutive winning seasons and Brown has his team on the verge of just that feat in 1995. Six returning starters on offense and a fresh burst of speed on defense have most pundits predicting another fine season for the Blue and White.

Jones is a 6-6, 270-pound defensive tackle whom The Sporting News rates the top defensive lineman in the country. He was a first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection in 1994 when he made 12 and one-half tackles for losses, including seven and one-half quarterback sacks. Jones, who also made the Associated Press' All-America third team, was named the Tar Heels' defensive player of the week six times last year and was selected the squad's Defensive Most Valuable Player.

Jones played defensive tackle his first two years at Carolina and shifted outside to end in 1994, but will slide back inside to tackle for his final year. His massive size and strength will be better served by rushing straight ahead and the fact he likely will be double- or triple-teamed by opposing blockers will open pass-rushing lanes for other defenders. Jones is a likable, hard-working player who is as classy as he is talented. A bright future in the professional ranks seems certain to follow.

Defensive tackle MARCUS JONES is* The Sporting News' *pick as the best defensive lineman in the country. He is third alltime in career sacks at Carolina with 17. (Bill Richards)

Johnson, a 6-1, 210-pound junior, is one of the top running backs in the country. He has rushed for 1,817 yards in his first two collegiate seasons, the third-highest figure by a Carolina player entering his junior season. Only Amos Lawrence and Natrone Means rushed for more yards as freshmen and sophomores.



Keith Worrell

LEON JOHNSON has rushed for 1,817 yards and scored 26 touchdowns in just two seasons. He is one of the country's top all-purpose backs.

What makes Johnson especially dangerous is that he's a legitimate triple threat. He is not only a great offensive weapon running the ball, but he also is an outstanding pass receiver and kick returner. In fact, he has 58 career receptions, three shy of the Tar Heel record for receptions by a running back. Last year, Johnson led the team in punt return average and had an 88-yard return for a touchdown at SMU.

"Leon Johnson is as talented as any running back in the country," says Brown. "He will have to be in better condition, better shape and stronger that he has ever been. He will probably have more of the offense on his shoulders because he will probably not be sharing as much time early in the year until the younger backs gain some experience. We need him to have the kind of year he is capable of having."

Johnson has scored 26 touchdowns in just two years, the eighth-highest total in the Tar Heel record book. He has rushed for 21 scores, caught four touchdown passes, returned one punt for a score and added a pair of two-point conversions for 160 total points.

Marcus Wall, a senior co-captain at flanker, is another multi-talented, versatile performer who excels in making electrifying catches and runs. Wall was perhaps the most overlooked player in the ACC last fall, but his performance in the final three games should propel him into the spotlight this season.

Over the final three contests, Wall combined for five touchdown catches, scored on punt and kickoff returns, and was named the Most Outstanding Special Teams Player of the Sun Bowl. He was voted Carolina's MVP for both offense and special teams and was elected a co-captain by his teammates after 1995 spring drills.

"Marcus Wall is a productive player," says Brown. "He leads other people and the players have tremendous respect for him. He makes every other player on our football team better. He is an outstanding playmaker as a wide receiver, but he is also one of the best kickoff and punt return men in the country. We will get him more involved in the punt return game."

A 5-10, 165-pound speedster with great hands and stalwart courage, Wall was responsible for 13 touchdowns, including a pair of scores in the postseason. He caught 10 touchdown passes, rushed for a score, had an 87-yard kickoff return at Duke and an 82-yard punt return against Texas.

Wall was third in the country and tops in the ACC in kickoff return average, led the circuit with a 19.6 yards-per-reception average, was second in the league in touchdown catches and third in the conference in all-purpose yards.

MIKE THOMAS threw for 210 yards and two scores in the Tar Heels' win at Duke last year and then completed 23 passes for 298 yards in the Sun Bowl against Texas.

Quarterback Mike Thomas also had an eye-opening late-season stretch. Taking over the starting job for an injured Jason Stanicek against Clemson, Thomas came on to throw for 583 yards and six touchdowns in the final 11 quarters. He is the clear starter this season and is coming off his finest performance in spring practice. The 6-3, 230-pound senior appears ready to have his biggest and best season as a Tar Heel.

Thomas was spectacular in the Sun Bowl against the Longhorns as he completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. He completed 20 of his first 29 attempts and set Carolina bowl-game highs for passing yards and completions.

One of Thomas' favorite targets was 6-1, 189-pound split end Octavus Barnes, who led the Tar Heels with 32 receptions for 609 yards. Barnes set an ACC record for single-season receiving yards by a freshman and established a Sun Bowl record with nine catches for 165 yards.

Thomas found Wall and Barnes to be very receptive to his aerials, connecting on three touchdown passes to Wall at Wake Forest and hooking up with Barnes on numerous game-breaking plays.

Barnes scored the winning points at SMU with a 66-yard reception from Thomas, scored the winning touchdown on a 71-yard catch-and-run from Thomas at Duke, and caught a 50-yard scoring pass from Thomas in the Sun Bowl.

Barnes, who also led the ACC in punt returns, had 165 yards receiving against Duke and added another 165 yards versus Texas. Both figures are the third-highest single-game receiving yardage totals in Tar Heel history.

"Octavus Barnes is quickly becoming one of the better receivers in our conference," says Brown. "After midseason last year he came through as one of the top players on our football team, especially in making the big play and catching the deep ball. He has athletic talent to take the underneath ball and take it the length of the field and score."

Jones is one of only four returning starters on defense. Fuzzy Lee returns at cornerback and Sean Boyd and Eric Thomas return at safety, although they have switched responsibilities. Boyd, a 6-3, 205-pound senior, started at strong safety the past two years. Thomas, a 6-0, 200-pound senior co-captain, started every game last fall at free safety. This year Boyd is battling junior Ronald Thomas for the job at free safety and Eric Thomas is competing with sophomore Omar Brown for strong safety duties.

Lee, a 6-0, 195-pound senior, made several big plays last year, including a pair of forced turnovers in the Duke game. He caused a fumble late in the first half as Duke was nearing the Tar Heel goal line and he intercepted a pass after Boyd broke up the play on the Blue Devils' second-to-last drive. Lee was selected Carolina's Most Outstanding Defensive Back in 1994.

Lee and Marcus Jones were named to the NFL Scouting Combine's preseason list of the top 24 seniors in the country.

The Tar Heels will have to replace some key players off last year's squad. Gone are five starters on offense and seven on defense as well as place-kicker Tripp Pignetti, who finished his career as the number three alltime scorer in school history.

Headlining the departed players are Stanicek, the school's alltime total offense and passing record holder; fullbacks William Henderson, a third-round draft pick of the Green Bay Packers, and Malcolm Marshall; first-team All-ACC tight end Greg DeLong; tailback Curtis Johnson, the ninth-leading rusher in school history; cornerback Jimmy Hitchcock, a third-round pick of the New England Patriots; linebackers Mike Morton, Kerry Mock and Eddie Mason; and defensive linemen Oscar Sturgis, Greg Black and Riddick Parker.

Morton was drafted in the fourth round by the Los Angeles Raiders and Carolina will have to replace his leadership as well as his play on the field. The Tar Heels have improved team speed and quickness, but also are very inexperienced defensively. Six sophomores or red-shirt freshmen will likely start against Syracuse in a nationally televised game on September 2nd and 11 of the 22

• SEASON TICKETS are available from the Carolina Athletic Ticket Office. There are three different types of season tickets. All regular-season tickets are $120 and are located throughout Kenan Stadium.

There is also a special discount package. The North Side (visitor's sideline) package is $90 with seating in sections 2C and 11C.

Individual tickets for the Syracuse and Ohio University games went on sale June 1. Tickets for the remaining four home games will go on sale (subject to availability) September 5. Ticket prices are $22 for all home games, except the Florida State game which is priced at $25.

The Carolina Athletic Ticket Office also has tickets on sale for all five of the Tar Heels' road appearances (subject to availability).

On home game days, tickets are on sale at Gates 2 and 6 at Kenan Stadium, starting two hours prior to kickoff. Day of game ticket sales are cash only.

For ticket information, contact the Carolina Athletic Ticket Office at P.O. Box 3000, Chapel Hill, NC 27514, or call 1-800-722-HEEL.

The ticket office is located at the front of the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium, adjacent to the Dean E. Smith Center, on Skipper Bowles Drive. The ticket office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

players on the defensive two-deep have no more than one year of experience.

"We have asked the players to do their very best in practice each day and the only goal we have asked them to reach is to do their very best to win the next ballgame," says Brown. "We told them to quit worrying about trying to do what last year's team did. We still continue to have the same goals of having a winning season, going to a bowl game, winning a bowl game, winning the state championship and all of that should be done based on working day-to-day to be the best football player you can possibly be."

With Mike Thomas, Leon Johnson, Wall, Barnes and four starters on the offensive line returning, Carolina hopes to put some big numbers on the board. Two major factors in the running game, however, the exceptional blocking provided the last three years by DeLong, Henderson and Marshall, and the loss of Curtis Johnson to the NFL, will have to be addressed. Leon Johnson will likely have to play more of a dominant role in the running game, rather than the two-tailback system employed the past two seasons.

FREDDIE JONES is the likely choice to replace All-ACC Greg DeLong at tight end. (Richards)

"We will continue to have the same type of offense that we have had the last several years," says Brown. "We would like to be balanced 50-50 running and passing. Mike Thomas gives us the ability to throw the deep ball,we have very good talent level and experience at wide receiver and Freddie Jones and Marc Montoro had a good spring at tight end. Hopefully we will be very balanced and move the ball around from position to position."

With Boyd and Eric Thomas switching safety spots and Marcus Jones moving back to defensive tackle, there is just one defensive starter back at the same position from a year ago. All three linebackers have been replaced with new starters and untested backups and three-fourths of the defensive front are red-shirt freshmen or sophomores. Carolina should have a more aggressive, quicker-to-the-ball style of defense, but getting the players in the right position at the right time will be the main emphasis of preseason workouts.

"Our defense will be really inexperienced but probably will have the most speed since we have been at Carolina," Brown says. "We do feel like we have to pressure more, but we will have to remain balanced on defense, as well, in terms of being 50-50 in man or zone coverage. We will be more aggressive, but some of that will be a more aggressive style of attacking by our defensive ends and defensive linemen."

POSITIONAL ANALYSIS

For the first time since Mack Brown became the head coach at North Carolina the Tar Heels enter the season with an overwhelming favorite to start at quarterback and virtually no experienced players to serve as backups. Over the last three years the Tar Heels have been fortunate to be able to alternate between Jason Stanicek and Mike Thomas, but this year the job to ignite the offense belongs to Thomas.

Oscar Davenport, a 6-4, 190-pound red-shirt freshman from St. Petersburg, Fla., and Tucker Perry, a walk-on from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., are the leading contenders for the top backup role. Perry, a 6-2, 190-pound senior, has played in six games over the last two years, but has attempted just one pass. Toney Coles, a 6-2, 225-pound red-shirt freshman from Richmond, Va., is also is contention for the number-two job.

Thomas has completed 117 of 241 career passes for 1,932 yards and 12 touchdowns. Those numbers, however, do not reflect the fact that he helped lead the Tar Heels to the 1993 Peach Bowl victory over Mississippi State or the 23 for 39 passing day against Texas in the 1994 Sun Bowl. He threw for 298 yards and two scores against the Longhorns. That followed a three-touchdown passing day against Wake Forest and a 210-yard passing effort in the 41-40 win at Duke.

"Mike Thomas has only lost one game in high school or college in which he started and that was the Sun Bowl and he gave us every chance to win the game because of his outstanding play,"

• The University of North Carolina installed a new DRAINAGE SYSTEM and GRASS FIELD at Kenan Stadium this past offseason, giving the Tar Heels one of the finest playing fields in the country. The $600,000 project was the first major renovation of the playing surface itself in the last 30 years.

As originally built the Kenan Stadium surface was crowned — the field level was lower at the sidelines and rose to a peak at midfield. The idea was for water to drain off the field. The new field, however, is nearly flat and designed so that water will drain through the playing surface.

Workers dug down two and one-half to three feet and removed all the dirt and installed a maze of cross-hatch drains which blankets the playing area.

The drains are covered with a rock base and a sand/topsoil mixture. The mixture has a high percentage of sand, according to United States Golf Association standards, which allows water to drain at a high rate.

Rather than cover the field with sod, the field was sprigged in early June. That is, sod was washed to removed the dirt from the roots, so as not to disturb the delicate sand/topsoil mixture, and then ground into the mixture. The grass, a hybrid Bermuda, is called Bermuda 419.

TAR HEEL EXPRESS

Quarterback Mike Thomas completed 45 of 80 passes for 704 yards and six touchdowns in his three starts last season.

says Brown. " I think this year Mike will be one of the best leaders in the country and one of the top quarterbacks. I am really looking forward to watching him play."

The Hamlet, N.C. native averaged more than 18 yards per completion last fall. He saw his first significant action coming off the bench at SMU after Stanicek was injured and threw two scoring passes, including a 66-yard game-winner after the Mustangs had rallied for a fourth-quarter lead. Stanicek was injured again in week nine against Clemson and Thomas completed 11 of 24 attempts for 177 yards and two touchdowns against the Tigers.

He made his first start of the season at Wake Forest and led Carolina to a 50-0 triumph. In the regular-season finale at Duke, Thomas was 10 for 14 for 210 yards and added a 17-yard scoring run. The Blue Devils struck for two scores in the final quarter to lead 38-34, but Thomas hit Octavus Barnes over the middle for a 71-yard scoring play with just over 2:00 left in the game as Carolina beat Duke for the fifth consecutive year.

Leon Johnson has had much to do with the last two wins over the Blue Devils as the Morganton, N.C. native rushed for 142 yards and scored four touchdowns versus Duke in 1993 and ran for 140 yards last year. Johnson is rated one of the top four running backs in the country by The Sporting News and has had a remarkable first two seasons. He is already 12th in school history in rushing with 1,817 yards, 13th in scoring with 160 points, 13th in all-purpose yards with 2,625 and 18th in receiving with 58 catches. Only one other Tar Heel running back, Natrone Means, has more receptions than Johnson.

The two-time second-team All-ACC tailback is a gifted athlete who was drafted as a baseball shortstop by the San Francisco Giants, has finished second in the long jump at each of the last two ACC Indoor Track and Field Championships, is a fantastic basketball player, can throw a football 60 yards and can punt one in excess of 50 yards.

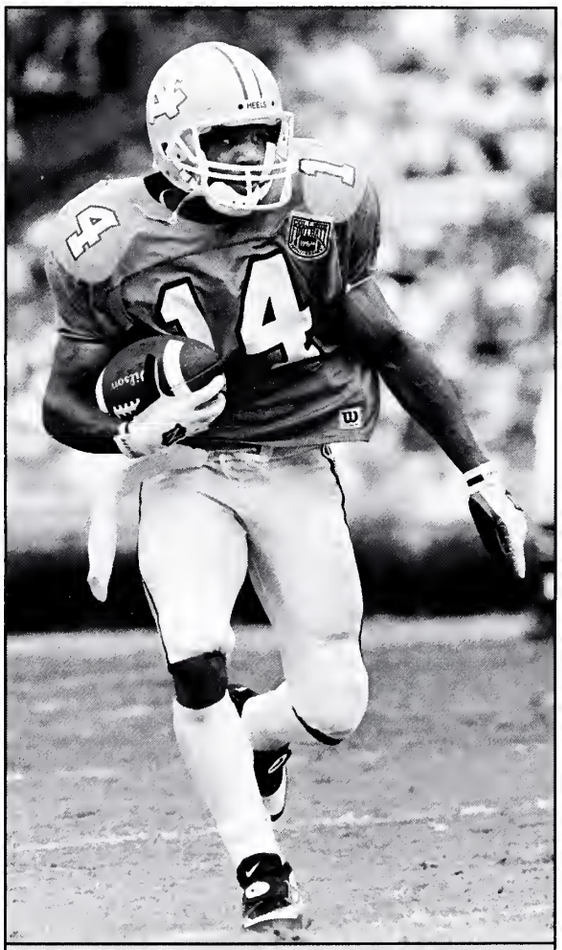
Johnson has rushed for 100-plus yards in eight career games, including 133 in the 31-17 win over N.C. State last year. He ran for one score and hauled in a pair of short touchdown passes in that game.

Over the last two seasons Johnson alternated at tailback with Curtis Johnson, usually switching after each series or every five plays. This year Leon Johnson will handle a majority of the snaps until Mike Geter or Jonathan Linton mature and gain additional experience. Geter is a 5-11, 200-pound sophomore from Arlington, Va. who had 11 carries last fall for 56 yards. Linton, a 6-2, 245-pound sophomore from Catasauqua, Pa., can play tailback or fullback. He had six carries for 19 yards in 1994.

"We will have to find out what kind of load Leon Johnson will be able to handle simply because he shared time with Curtis the last two years," says Brown. "However, in our system we need two tailbacks and we want to look at Andre Barkley, an incoming freshman, and see the progress made by sophomores Mike Geter and Jonathan Linton. Both of those young men need to stand up and take a leadership role."

Chris Watson, a 5-11, 235-pound junior from Clayton, N.C., should start at fullback. Watson had 11 carries for 65 yards last fall and has seen significant playing time in his first two seasons as a third back in the Tar Heels' "full house" backfield. Watson is a good runner and very adept blocking back, and he also has shown soft hands in catching the football.

Maurice McGregor, a 6-2, 250-pound junior from Marietta, Ga., will alternate with Watson at fullback. McGregor has a dozen carries in two years and really started to come on this spring. He has big-back size with often-explosive speed.



MARCUS WALL set a school record with nine touchdown catches and finished third in the country in kickoff returns. (Bill Richards)

Last year the running backs ran behind a vastly revamped offensive line as just one starter returned from 1993. By midseason, that one returning starter, center Pat Conneely, had been shifted to guard, was subsequently injured and missed much of the season. This year, however, three starters and three other top reserves return. The younger players are coming on so quickly that two of the returning starters are not even certain of maintaining that status.

Returning starters include left tackle Byron Thomas, left guard Jerness Gethers and right guard Mike Hobgood. Only Hobgood, a 6-3, 265-pound sophomore from Durham, N.C., seems certain to start against the Orangemen. Thomas, a 6-4, 310-pound junior from Oxford, N.C., had an inconsistent spring after a very productive sophomore season. When playing his best Thomas may be one of top linemen in the league.

Thomas is battling Ryan Hoffman for the job at left tackle. Hoffman, a 6-4, 275-pound sophomore from Orange Park, Fla., was the most improved player on the entire squad in spring drills and has a chance to be the starter at either left or right tackle. Hoffman has quick feet, is very strong and has made great strides in picking up the offense.

OCTAVUS BARNES set an ACC freshman record last year with 609 yards receiving. Barnes led the Tar Heels with 32 receptions in the regular season and nine in the Sun Bowl against Texas. (Keith Worrell)

If Hoffman is not the starter at right tackle, then that assignment will go to Russell Babb, a 6-4, 290-pound senior from Wilson, N.C. Babb started three games at right guard last fall before his season came to an end due to a fractured bone in his lower leg. He had his most consistent set of practices to date in the spring and appears ready to accept the mantel of senior leadership. A Morehead Scholar, Babb spent the summer in Australia.

Jeff Saturday, a 6-3, 265-pound sophomore from Tucker, Ga., should start at center. He started three games and played more than 440 snaps last year as he split time with Don Meredith. Conneely, who started at center in all 13 games in 1993, is the top backup. He suffered a knee injury at SMU last fall and saw very limited action the rest of the season.

Gethers started all 12 games in 1994 at guard, 11 of them on the left side. A 6-3, 255-pound junior from Dunn, N.C., Gethers was the most consistent performer on the line a year ago. He is being challenged, however, by 6-4, 275-pound sophomore Mike Baxter from Warminster, Pa. Baxter played on just 132 snaps last fall but had a terrific spring and has an equal chance to get the starting nod.

Hobgood took over an injury-plagued right guard position midway through last season and started the final five games, including the Sun Bowl. He had an excellent performance in the win against N.C. State as the Tar Heels rushed for 280 yards. Backing him up is Brian Honeycutt, a 6-4, 265-pound junior from Benson, N.C.

Scott Overbeck, a 6-3, 290-pound senior from New Canaan, Conn., was the starter at right guard during last preseason but he suffered a broken leg in a scrimmage and missed all of last season and all of spring practice. He may be able to get back into the lineup this fall.

Others to watch in the offensive line are tackle John Surigao, a 6-5, 260-pound red-shirt freshman from Durham, N.C., and tackle Jeff Wertalik, a 6-5, 298-pound red-shirt freshman from Wayne, N.J.

Like the offensive line, the receiving corps came into last season with little game experience and lots of questions. By season's end, however, three solid receivers and a cast of talented youngsters shed new light on those questions.

Marcus Wall and Octavus Barnes emerged as one of the top receiving tandems in the country and Darrin Ashford showed rapid improvement to be a solid backup at both flanker and split end.

Wall, a Fayetteville, N.C. native, made 29 receptions for 569 yards and set a Tar Heel single-season record with nine touchdown grabs. Wall gained at least a first down on 21 of his 29 catches and paced the ACC with a 19.3 yards-per-catch average. He scored the game-winning touchdown on a 61-yard catch-and-run against Texas Christian, put the Tar Heels into the lead for good with a 39-yard scoring reception against Maryland and scored on a five-yard run against N.C. State. He tied the school record with three touchdown receptions against Wake Forest, including a 66-yard play, the longest of his career.

Barnes led the team with 32 receptions for 605 yards and was Carolina's Rookie of the Year. He showed unflappable poise and great instincts in scoring game-winners at both SMU and Duke. In each instance, Carolina trailed in the fourth quarter, Barnes caught a short over-the-middle pass and then out sprinted the defense to the end zone. At SMU he raced 66 yards for the score; at Duke he went for 71 yards down the right sideline. The Wilson, N.C. native made another big fourth-quarter play, albeit in defeat, in the Sun Bowl when he scored on a 50-yard pass play.

Ashford, a 5-11, 180-pound junior from Richton, Ill. was probably the biggest surprise on the team last year. Not listed on the preseason depth chart, he came out of a pack of inexperienced receivers to haul in 17 receptions, including a pair for touchdowns.

A trio of young receivers gives Carolina excellent depth at this position. Greg Williams, a 6-1, 185-pound sophomore from Bolingbrook, Ill., L.C. Stevens, a 6-5, 200-pound red-shirt freshman from Clinton, N.C., and Darien Johnson, a 6-2, 190-pound red-shirt freshman from Houston, Texas, will vie for playing time in reserve roles. Williams played some as a true freshman last year and had three kickoff returns, but no receptions.

Freddie Jones and Marc Montoro will work to replace first-team All-ACC choice Greg DeLong at tight end. DeLong had just 14 receptions last year, but was one of the top blockers and hardest workers in the league.

Jones, a 6-5, 250-pound junior from Landover, Md., has 13 career receptions and possesses the physical attributes — size, speed and quickness — to be a standout player. He was hampered last season by lingering effects of offseason shoulder surgery, but should be at full speed this year.

Montoro, a 6-4, 230-pound junior from Marietta, Ga., has physically matured to the point where he can contribute in the running game. Montoro has soft hands, runs good patterns and has been an effective receiver. Two years ago he hauled in a three-yard touchdown reception at N.C. State.

Defensively the Tar Heels are led by Marcus Jones, a defensive tackle rated by many as one of the top players in college football. Jones was in on 62 tackles last year and has 27 career tackles for losses, including 17 quarterback sacks. Two years ago when he played the tackle position, he registered eight and one-half sacks for 76 yards. His sack totals are the highest by a Tar Heel since William Fuller, now with the Philadelphia Eagles, and Tim Goad, now with the Cleveland Browns, played at Carolina in the early-to-mid 1980s.

By moving back inside Jones can better use his straight-ahead, bull-rush techniques and is still powerful enough to shed blockers. Since he will likely be the recipient of extra-man blocking schemes, that will also open pass-rush lanes for other Tar Heel linemen and linebackers.

Jones, a native of Jacksonville, N.C, is the only starter back among the defensive front seven. Three-fourths of the line and all three linebackers who started in 1994 have departed. Jones will likely be joined up front by tackle Rick Terry and ends Greg Ellis and Mike Pringley.

"Marcus Jones has already become one of the more dominant linemen in college football," says Brown. "We look forward to Marcus being as good as any defensive player in the country this year. We need him to dominate ballgames like we know he can."

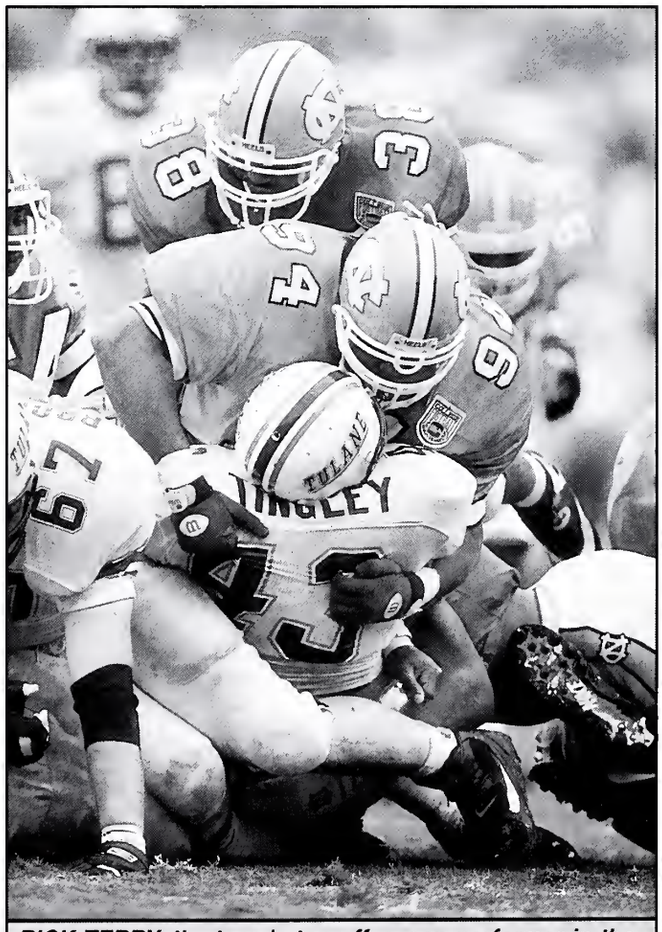
Terry, a 6-5, 285-pound junior from Lexington, N.C., played in all 12 games last year for an average of 23 plays per contest. Terry had a very solid spring and was selected the recipient of the Morris Mason Award as the top offseason worker in the weight room.

Jones and Terry will be backed up by Vonnie Holliday, a 6-5, 260-pound sophomore from Camden, S.C., and Andre Purvis, a 6-5, 295-pound junior from Jacksonville, N.C. Holliday was one of three true freshman to play last fall. He made 12 tackles and pressured the quarterback six times and finished the season as the top backup to Riddick Parker. Purvis had four pressures and three tackles for losses. Two years ago Purvis gained notoriety by falling on two blocked punts in the end zone for touchdowns at Tulane.

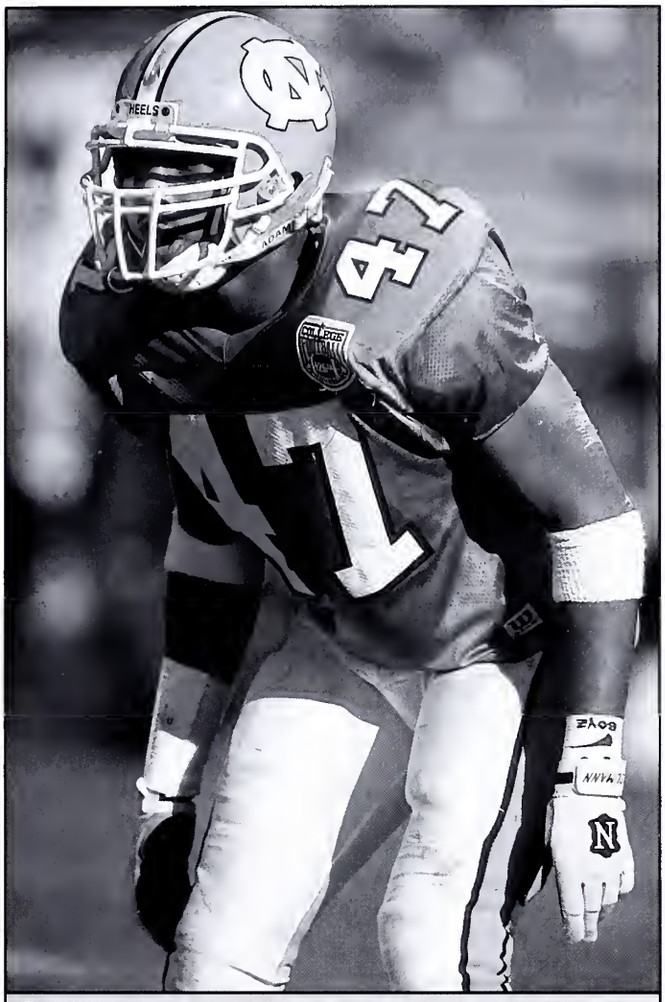
The Tar Heels have plenty of young and talented defensive ends, led by Ellis, a 6-6, 250-pound sophomore from Wendell, N.C. Ellis, picked by The Sporting News as a member of its preseason second-team All-ACC squad, started the Sun Bowl in place of Oscar Sturgis, who was injured. He was second on the team last fall in quarterback sacks with four for 27 yards. He has the size, speed, strength and savvy to be an excellent pass rusher.

"Greg Ellis is tall and rangy and we must get an outstanding pass rush from him this fall," says Brown. "Hopefully he has overcome his shoulder injury from last fall and have a super year."

Nate Hobgood-Chittick, a 6-5, 250-pound sophomore from



RICK TERRY, the team's top offseason performer in the weight room, was third on the team last year with nine quarterback pressures. Terry should start at defensive tackle this year. (Bob Donnan)



FUZZY LEE was the ACC Defensive Back of the Week for his play against Georgia Tech last year and was the co-recipient of the Tar Heels' Defensive Player of the Week award after he caused a fumble and picked off a fourth-quarter pass at Duke. (Bob Donnan)

Allentown, Pa., will be the top backup behind Ellis. Hobgood-Chittick was moved outside to end to take advantage of his quickness. He saw action on mostly special teams last year.

A pair of red-shirt freshmen anchor the other defensive end slot. Pringley, 6-5, 230 pounds from Linden, N.J., and Russell Davis, 6-4, 260 pounds from Fayetteville, N.C., are two promising rookies. Pringley is The Sporting News' pick as the ACC's top defensive newcomer. He was a first-team Parade All-America and was picked as one of the top 24 high school seniors in the country by Reebok in 1993. Davis was a first-team all-state pick in 1993 by the Associated Press and made three tackles in just two quarters of action in the Shrine Bowl, an all-star game made up of top high school players from North Carolina and South Carolina.

Other players to watch along the defensive line are Seth Everett, a 6-3, 245-pound red-shirt freshman from Fayetteville, N.C., and Marcus Dow, a 6-2, 265-pound red-shirt freshman from Thomasville, N.C.

One set of positions at which Carolina has gone from very experienced to remarkably inexperienced is linebacker. Gone are 1994 seniors Mike Morton, Eddie Mason and Kerry Mock. Morton and Mason were NFL draft picks of the Raiders and New York Jets, respectively, and Mock signed a free agent deal with Tampa Bay. Last year that trio was one-two-three on the team in total tackles and combined to make 277 hits.

The scheduled starters at linebacker may be just as talented and probably more athletic than their predecessors, but they don't have the game experience yet. Kivuusama Mays, a 6-4, 245-pound sophomore from Anniston, Ala., will start at middle linebacker. Mays made 16 tackles in 1994. He has good size for the position and excellent athletic ability. In fact, he once scored 69 points in a high school basketball game in San Antonio to break the school record held by current NBA all-star Shaquille O'Neal.

Outside linebackers James Hamilton and Brian Simmons are future all-stars. Hamilton, a 6-6, 225-pound junior from Hamlet, N.C., did start seven games at the rover outside linebacker position last fall. He was sixth on the team in tackles with 59, had a big interception which led to a touchdown at Florida State, made nine unassisted tackles against Georgia Tech and had a season-high 11 hits at Virginia.

Simmons, a 6-4, 220-pound sophomore from New Bern, N.C., has the speed and size to be an exciting player to watch. He reminds the coaches of past all-stars Tommy Thigpen and Dwight Hollier with his athletic ability and work habits. He made 23 tackles a year ago.

"Brian Simmons has the ability to be as good a linebacker at his position as any player we have had here at Carolina," says Brown. "He's very similar to Thigpen in quickness and speed and he is a very intelligent player."

A pair of red-shirt freshmen back up Mays at middle linebacker. They are Jamie Carrick, 6-3, 225 pounds from Albemarle, N.C., and Todd Weeks, 6-0, 220 pounds from Raleigh, N.C.

Kevin Addis, a 6-3, 215-pound senior from Union, S.C., moves from safety to outside linebacker and will back up Hamilton. Addis, who will also be the deep snapper, is by far the most experienced player among the second-unit linebackers. He has seen extensive action on special teams over the last three years and has played at both strong and free safety.

Other backups at outside linebacker are Shane Pierson, a 6-4, 240-pound red-shirt freshman from Kingsport, Tenn., Mark Dunn, a 6-3, 200-pound red-shirt freshman from Waldorf, Md., KeKe Spinks, a 6-1, 190-pound red-shirt freshman from Ramseur, N.C., and Beau Parry, a 6-1, 210-pound senior from Cincinnati, Ohio.

The secondary, like the offensive line, was decimated early last season by injuries to cornerbacks Jimmy Hitchcock and Tim Smith. That forced several red-shirt freshmen into the fray at corner and limited the amount of blitzing and man-to-man coverages.

This year the secondary returns almost intact, although somewhat repositioned. Seniors Sean Boyd and Eric Thomas flip-flop at safety and are facing stern challenges for their starting roles.

Bill Richards

SEAN BOYD has started every game the past two seasons at strong safety, but will shift to free safety this year. Boyd has broken up 19 and intercepted six career passes.

ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE 1995 POSTSEASON

1. BOWL ALLIANCE

— champions of the ACC, Big East, Big Eight, Southeastern and Southwest are guaranteed a spot in the Alliance

— if Notre Dame is not ranked among the top 10 bowl-eligible teams of the Associated Press or the CNN/USA Today poll, there will be one more Alliance slot available to any bowl eligible team. The bowls will have the freedom to select that team with the only qualifying criteria being that the team must have eight regular-season wins.

—if the Fiesta Bowl has the number-one ranked team in either poll the payouts will be as follows: Fiesta $8,580,000 per team; Sugar $8,330,500 per team; Orange $8,330,500 per team

— if the Fiesta Bowl does not have the number-one ranked team, the payouts will be as follows: Fiesta $8.25 million per team; Sugar $8 million per team; Orange $8 million per team

2. GATOR BOWL -- ACC #2 vs. Big East #2

Gator Bowl, Jacksonville, Fla. -- Jan. 1, NBC

— the Gator Bowl will have the first pick of ACC teams after the Aliiance picks

— should two ACC teams be chosen for the Alliance, the Gator Bowl has the option of selecting Notre Dame in place of an ACC team

— the Gator Bowl shall have the right to select any team in the conference so long as the team has achieved within one win of any other conference team available

— the payout guarantees a minimum of $1.3 million per team

3. PEACH BOWL -- ACC #3 vs. SEC #4

Georgia Dome, Atlanta, Ga. -- Dec. 30, ESPN

— the Peach Bowl will have the second pick of any ACC teams after the Alliance picks

— the Peach Bowl shall have the right to select any bowl-eligible team in the conference

— the payout is a minimum of $750,000 per team

4. CARQUEST BOWL -- ACC #4 vs. Big East #3

Joe Robbie Stadium, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. -- Jan. 1, TBS

— the Carquest Bowl will have the third pick of ACC teams after the Alliance picks

— the Carquest Bowl shall have the right to select any bowl-eligible team in the conference

— the payout is a minimum of $750,000 per team

Fuzzy Lee anchors one corner and Terry Billups is the favorite to start at the other corner.

Lee, a senior from Clinton, N.C., was one of the nice surprises last fall as he made 63 tackles, caused three fumbles, broke up two passes and picked off one. He had a career-high 11 tackles against Maryland, was the ACC Defensive Back of the Week against Georgia Tech when he made 10 tackles and forced a fumble, and stopped two drives by forcing turnovers in the win at Duke.

"Fuzzy was forced into an immediate starting role last fall due to injuries and wound up playing very well," says Brown. "He ended up being one of our better defensive backs and we look forward to his being one of the leaders on defense this fall."

Billups, a 5-10, 165-pound sophomore from Orlando, Fla., has the speed and tenacity necessary to handle speedy wide receivers in man-to-man isolation. Billups missed all of spring practice due to corrective shoulder surgery, but he did make three starts last year and had one interception. He is expected to be back to full health in time for preseason drills.

Reggie Love, 5-11, 180-pound sophomore from Durham, N.C., Jomo Legins, a 5-11, 180-pound red-shirt freshman from Winston-Salem, N.C., and Chuckie Parquet, a 6-1, 170-pound red-shirt freshman from Marrero, La., are the top backups at corner. Love played as a true freshman last season, especially early on before Hitchcock returned to the lineup, and had a school-record-tying 100-yard interception return for a touchdown against Tulane.

Boyd, a senior from Gastonia, N.C., has started the last two years at strong safety, but will move to free safety this year. Eric Thomas, a senior from Hamlet, N.C., started every game last fall at free safety, but will switch to strong safety this year. Both positions are very similar in responsibilities with the major adjustments in where each player lines up prior to the snap.

Boyd is the most experienced member of the secondary. He has 19 career pass breakups and six interceptions. Boyd was the ACC Defensive Back of the Week for his play at Florida State and he helped seal the win at Duke with a crushing hit late in the fourth quarter.

"Sean has the ability to make the big play at any time," says Brown. "We have to get consistent play out of him this year for our defense to be effective."

Thomas, a co-captain this season, was the ACC Defensive Back of the Week last year against Texas Christian and tied for second on the team with eight pass breakups.

Boyd, who had a very solid spring, will compete with Ronald Thomas, a 6-1, 175-pound junior from Paterson, N.J. for the starting job at free safety. Thomas has played cornerback and safety at Carolina and has 28 career tackles.

Omar Brown started twice last year at cornerback and will compete with Eric Thomas for the number one job at free safety. Brown, a 5-11, 190-pound sophomore from York, Pa., had an interception against N.C. State and made eight tackles at Wake Forest. He had an impressive spring in his new position and could develop into an all-star in the future.

Wendell Camp, a 5-11, 200-pound senior from Forest City, N.C., has earned a scholarship and is the fifth safety.

Scott Caparelli, a senior from Virginia Beach, Va., and Chris Welch, a junior from Greensboro, N.C. will vie for place-kicking duties. Caparelli handled kickoffs for most of last season, but has yet to attempt an extra point or field goal at Carolina. He did connect on 35 of 38 field goal attempts in high school.

"Scott Caparelli has the edge for the starting position and he has some game experience in kickoffs last year, but we still did not have the consistency in field goals in the spring," says Brown. "We also have two incoming freshmen, Derrick DePriest and Josh McGee, who will have a chance to come in and earn those positions in the fall."

Mike Thomas will once again be the number-one punter. Thomas has usually proved to be a better punter when he is playing quarterback, so hopes are high for him to return to the form which made him a first-team All-ACC selection and Freshman All-America in 1992 when he averaged 43.1 yards on 56 kicks. Last year he averaged 39.4 yards on 45 kicks and had his best games at Florida State when he averaged 43.3 yards on six punts and against Georgia Tech when he averaged 46.8 yards on four kicks. Caparelli and DePriest, an incoming freshman from Homestead, Fla., will back up Thomas at punter.

Marcus Wall will handle kickoff returns again. Wall was third in the country and first in the ACC in return average in 1994 as he averaged 27.5 yards a return. He scored on an 87-yard return at Duke and had a 65-yard return against Maryland. Wall set a UNC single-season record with 743 yards on kickoff returns.

The Tar Heels have three quality punt returners in Barnes, Leon Johnson and Wall. Carolina was sixth in the nation in punt returns last fall as Barnes topped the ACC with 10.8 yards per return. Johnson led the team with 199 yards on 13 returns, including an 88-yard return for a touchdown at SMU. That return is the second-longest in Carolina history. Wall's first college punt return came in the Sun Bowl and he went 82 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

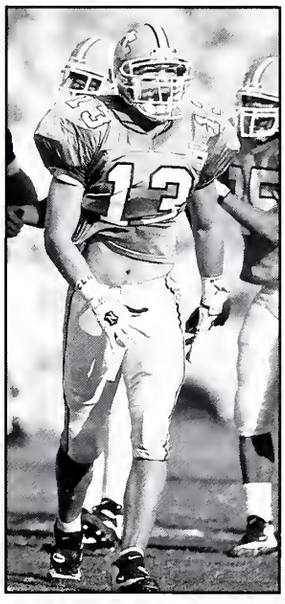
13 - KEVIN ADDIS

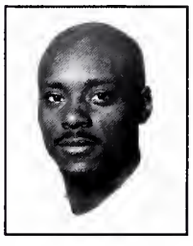
Outside Linebacker
6-3, 215, Sr.
Union, S.C.

Moves to outside linebacker after playing safety for the last three seasons...A versatile player who also excels on special teams...Has gotten bigger and stronger in the offseason, but still must be more a physical player...Shows great enthusiasm for the game...Begins the fall as the top backup at outside linebacker behind starter James Hamilton...Could be the Tar Heels' long snapper...1994 — Averaged 23 plays per game...Made eight hits, including three primary tackles and five assists...Returned to the active roster last fall after a season-ending knee injury midway through 1993.



1993 — Injured an anterior cruciate ligament in the seventh week of the season on a special teams play against Wake Forest...Made 12 tackles, including a season-high four at N.C. State...1992 — Played as a backup at free safety behind Rondell Jones...Made 17 tackles...Recorded a season-high five tackles at Clemson...1991 — Was red-shirted...Came to UNC as a quarterback prospect but moved to the secondary in the preseason.

High School — Quarterbacked Union High to a 14-1 record and the class 4-A, Division II state title as a senior...Completed 124 of 248 passes for 2,210 yards and 22 touchdowns...Started for South Carolina in the Shrine Bowl...Greenville News and Associated Press all-state selection...Set every school passing record...Coached by Shell Dula...Also lettered in basketball, golf and track...Personal — Majoring in communication studies...Born Kevin Ray Addis on Feb. 24, 1973.

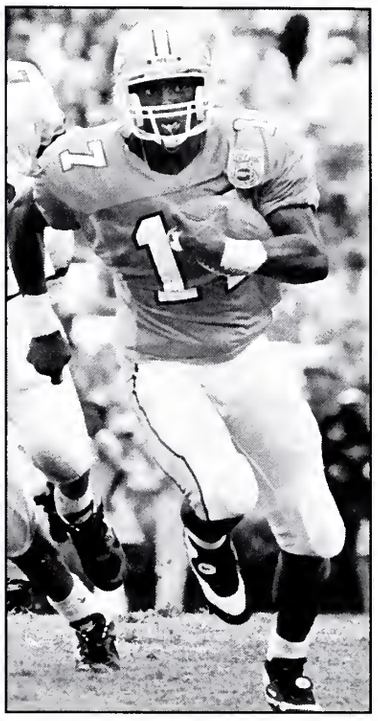


17 - DARRIN ASHFORD

Wide Receiver
5-11, 180, Jr.
Richton, Ill.

One of the most improved players on the team last season...Improved in all areas of the game...Gained a great deal of confidence from early-season successes...Continued to show improvement in spring practice...Has the ability to play all of the receiver positions...Enters preseason as the number two split end and flanker.

1994 — Saw action in all 11 regular-season games and the Sun Bowl...Played on 232 snaps...Was the fourth-leading receiver on the team with 17 catches for 240 yards...Averaged 14.1 yards per catch...Two of his receptions were for touchdowns...Caught at least one pass in each of the first nine games with a season-high three against Maryland and Virginia...Fourteen of the 17 receptions were for first downs...First collegiate reception was for seven yards against Texas Christian...Had 26-yard and 31-yard grabs against Tulane...Caught a 15-yard scoring toss from Jason Stanicek to give UNC a 14-3 lead in the second quarter at SMU...Had a 19-yard touchdown against Georgia Tech which evened the game at 7-7...His 13-yard catch for a first down led to a go-ahead score against the Yellow Jackets...Hauled in three catches — for 13, 13 and 16 yards — all for first downs on the same drive against the Terrapins...Those three led to a touchdown and 24-10 UNC lead...The 16-yarder and the first of the 13-yard catches both came on third-and-10 plays...Was red-shirted in 1992...Played in two games but did not have a reception in 1993.



Bob Donnan (Addis); Bill Richards (Ashford)

4 - OCTAVUS BARNES
Wide Receiver
6-1, 189, So.
Wilson, N.C.

One of the outstanding young receivers in college football...Has soft hands and blazing speed...Showed as a freshman a unique ability to turn medium-range gains into game-breaking plays...Displayed great poise for a young player...Was called upon to make big plays in critical late-game situations and he responded on numerous occasions...Is a very good run-blocker...Also a threat returning kicks...Was sensational down the stretch of the 1994 season...Caught 15 passes for 330 yards and two scores over the last two games against Duke and Texas...Helped UNC land the Sun Bowl berth by scoring the game-winning touchdown to cap one of the wildest Carolina-Duke games of all time...Set Sun Bowl and UNC records in the postseason...Also a member of the UNC varsity men's basketball team last year, seeing reserve action at small forward.

1994 Regular-Season — One of the top freshman wide receivers in the country...Finished tied for second in balloting for the Atlantic Coast Conference's Rookie of the Year Award...Led the Tar Heels in receiving with 32 catches for 609 yards...Broke the ACC record for receiving yards in one season by a freshman...The previous record was 593 yards by Greg Lester of Georgia Tech in 1987...Averaged 19 yards per reception and hauled in three touchdowns...Made at least one catch in 10 games and at least three in seven games...Only game he did not have a catch was against N.C. State...Started all 11 games at split end...Was selected by the UNC players and coaches as the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding Freshman Player.

His last 16 receptions covered at least 10 yards...The last seven receptions and 15 of the last 16 were for first downs...Had a team-leading 26 receptions for first downs...Had 28 catches for 10-plus yards, eight for 20-plus and three for 30-plus...Three longest receptions were a 71-yard touchdown catch-and-run at Duke, a 66-yard touchdown catch-and-run at SMU and a 44-yard over-the-shoulder grab against Tulane.

Set a UNC record for freshmen with 165 yards on receptions in the wild 41-40 win at Duke in the regular-season finale on November 19...The previous record for receiving yards by a freshman was 134 by Corey Holliday against Maryland in 1990...The 165 yards are the third-highest total in Carolina single-game history...Made six catches against the Blue Devils, including the game-winning, 71-yard sprint with just 2:01 to play...Duke had taken a 38-34 lead with 2:47 to play, but four plays later Barnes caught an over-the-middle pass from Mike Thomas, turned to his left and raced down the right sideline...He beat the entire Duke secondary to the end zone for the winning score...It was the longest play from scrimmage this year by the Tar Heels...It tied the 14th longest pass play in Carolina history...Also threw a 48-yard touchdown pass against the Blue Devils...With UNC trailing 7-0 in the opening quarter, Barnes caught a 22-yard pass from Thomas on a third-and-15 play...On the next snap, Barnes took an end around hand-off from Thomas and then floated a pass to a wide open Marcus Wall for a 48-yard touchdown...Barnes also had receptions of 16, 23, 19 and 14 yards in that game.

Also had a game-winning reception at SMU...With UNC behind 24-21 early in the fourth quarter he caught a pass over the middle from Thomas, cut straight up the field and raced by three SMU defenders to the end zone for a 66-yard score...That score came on a third-and-15 play.

First college catch was for one yard against TCU...Had three catches in that first game, including a twisting 11-yarder for a first down late in the game...Caught three for 69 yards versus Tulane, including a 44-yarder on third-and-17 on the Tar Heels' third play from scrimmage...Had four catches for 48 yards at Florida State...Caught three for 20, 14 and 66 yards at SMU...Had five receptions for 97 yards against Clemson...Five grabs against the Tigers were for 12, 16, 23, 17 and 29 yards...The 23-yarder came on a third-and-20 play late in the first half and led to a Thomas to Wall touchdown...Made a 29-yard touchdown catch early in the fourth quarter which cut the Tigers' lead to 22-17.

Officially he led the ACC in punt return average with 10.8 yards per return...Had 14 returns for 151 yards with a season-long return of 35 yards against Georgia Tech...Was 12th in the country in punt return average.

Bill Richards (2)

N.C. Collection / UNC-CH Library

1994 Sun Bowl vs. Texas — Set Sun Bowl and Carolina bowl game records for most receptions and most yards receiving...Had nine catches for 165 yards, including a 50-yard TD reception early in the fourth quarter which gave UNC a 10-point lead...Broke Sun Bowl records for both catches and yards, established a new school mark for receiving yards and tied the school mark for catches...Corey Holliday also had nine grabs in the 1993 Gator Bowl vs. Alabama...Both marks were the second-highest figures by any player in bowl games last year...(Oregon's Josh Wilcox had 11 catches and Southern Cal's Keyshawn Johnson had 222 yards receiving)...All nine of Barnes' receptions were for first downs...Had receptions of 16, eight, 26, 11, 17, 50, 11, 14 and 12 yards...It was his second consecutive game with 165 yards receiving...The 50-yard TD catch-and-run came with 9:13 to play and gave UNC a 31-21 advantage...1993 — Was red-shirted.

High School — Shrine Bowl selection from Hunt High...Opened 1992 at quarterback and played the first six games there before being shifted to receiver...Played quarterback as a sophomore and junior...Completed 17 of 43 passes for four touchdowns...Rushed for 315 yards and three scores...Caught six passes for 131 yards and one TD...All-area selection for two straight years and all-conference choice three times...Coached by Randy Raper...Earned four basketball letters and two in track...Named all-conference in basketball three times and in track twice...Offered basketball scholarships to Division I schools...Personal — Majoring in sociology...Born Octavus Yvonne Barnes on Nov. 1, 1974.

A CONVERSATION WITH LEON JOHNSON

How do you feel about carrying a little more of a load at tailback instead of sharing that role?

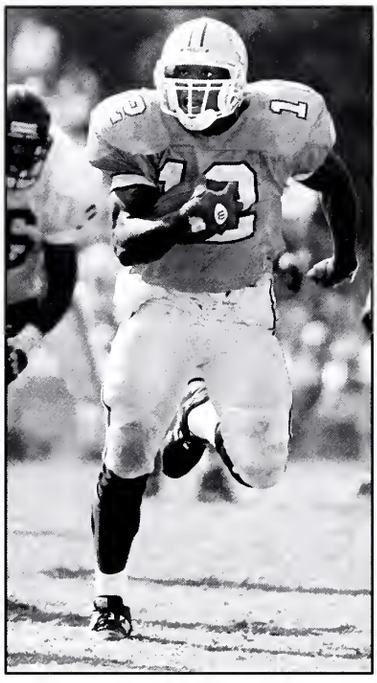
Leon Johnson: "It feels good. Hopefully I can take advantage of the situation, find the holes and make some good runs. It'll be hard on me because I'm used to the rotation of five plays in, five plays out. I'll have to work a little bit harder on my endurance so I can stay in there on long drives. It gives me the chance to be in the game more and be involved a little more. It should help me out as far as getting into the flow of the game."

You came to Carolina as a quarterback and now you're a preseason All-America as a running back after just two seasons. Did you ever imagine that happening?

LJ: "Not really. I thought that if I had to switch positions, it might be to defensive back or wide receiver. But then a space opened up at running back and I took an interest in it. I never thought it would get this far. I knew I had the abilities and that wherever I played I was going to work hard, but even though preseason All-America isn't as important as the awards after the season, it feels really nice."

If you had your choice of playing any position, which would it be and why?

LJ: "I'd have to choose running back. As far as quarterback goes, you handle the ball but you don't get to run with it. As a running back, you can get the ball, do things yourself and make the play. I don't really miss being a quarterback. You can throw the ball or lead a scoring drive, but when you're running the ball and you're able to put your moves together and make people miss you, that's the thrill that makes me want to stay at running back."



Bill Richards

Only Amos Lawrence and Natrone Means have had more rushing yards than you have at this point of your career. Do you feel like a part of the UNC tailback tradition?

LJ: "I want to be part of that tradition. I really don't look at stats, but as far as going back and looking through the record books at some of the guys who have played here, that pushes you a little bit more. I want to be one of the best here at this University to keep that tradition going."

If you were a linebacker assigned to cover Leon Johnson, what would worry you the most?

LJ: "Probably my one-on-one skills. If I was a linebacker, I wouldn't want to face myself in the open field. I think playing quarterback for so many years where you drop back and are scrambling helped me. I've been able to carry over those moves to being a running back. If I'm running toward somebody, I'm able to incorporate those old quarterback moves into carrying the ball as a running back."

If you could break a 50-yard touchdown run, catch a screen pass and take it in for a long touchdown or return a kick for a score, which would you choose?

LJ: "I'd want to return a kick because I like being in the open field. You've got your blockers, but it's all up to you and it's your moves that will bring a gain or a loss. Making people miss, that feels good. When you're returning kicks, all the responsibility is on you, but you have more chances to make things happen."

Are there any players in professional football that you follow or pattern your game after?

LJ: "I'm a big fan of the NFL as far as wanting to get there myself and play, but I don't really know every player and everything about them. I like to keep my own style as a running back. When I was growing up, I was a Randall Cunningham fan. I liked his style as a running quarterback and I was kind of the same build as him, so he was probably the guy I watched. As for now, I like watching all the running backs and looking for which guys are the best. Hopefully, I can think like them and be able to go into a game and dominate."

You were drafted out of high school by the San Francisco Giants to play baseball, you took second place in the long jump at the 1994 and 1995 ACC Indoor Track & Field Championships, you were a standout high school quarterback and you can punt a football 50 yards. Where do you get that athletic talent?

LJ: "When I talk to people around my hometown, they always tell me my mom was a good athlete and that my dad was a good athlete. They played basketball, football, a variety of sports. That got me into watching them and got me interested in all different sports. My dad's a big softball fan and if I had my chance, I'd love to go out there myself and play some softball."

What are your goals for 1995?

LJ: "I have goals to be one of the best backs in the country as far as helping the team win, accomplishing the little things. I may never reach the status of being one of the best backs in the nation, but that's something to shoot for as I practice and work out during the summer and the fall. There are a lot of backs out there. I just want to work hard and then maybe people will mention me with some of those great runners."

12 - LEON JOHNSON
Tailback
6-1, 210, Jr.
Morganton, N.C.

Developing into one of the premier offensive threats in all of college football...Is a multi-talented, versatile athlete who is equally adept running with or catching the ball...Is high on the list of a number of Carolina statistical categories...Preseason 1995 Playboy All-America selection...Named by The Sporting News as one of the top four running backs in the country...An all-around back who is physical enough to run inside the tackles and shifty enough to break runs around the end...Has solid speed, strength and agility...Is just three receptions shy of tying Natrone Means' school record for career receptions by a running back...Was a standout high school quarterback who can also punt a football in excess of 50 yards...A remarkable all-around athlete...Was drafted out of high school by the San Francisco Giants...Placed second in the long jump at the 1994 and 1995 Atlantic Coast Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships...Long-jumped 24-7 3/4 at the 1995 conference meet...Will have to carry the ball more at the beginning of the season than the tailbacks have been accustomed to the last two seasons.

Career — In just two seasons at Carolina he is 12th in school history in rushing, 13th in scoring, 13th in all-purpose yardage and 18th in receiving...Has been named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference second team in each of his first two seasons...Rushed 330 times for 1,817 yards, an average of 5.5 yards per carry...The only UNC players with more yards in their first two seasons are Amos Lawrence and Natrone Means (Lawrence had 2,254 en route to a four-year record total of 4,391; Means had 1,879 en route to a three-year total of 3,074)...Johnson has scored 26 touchdowns and two two-point conversions for 160 points...He has rushed for 21 scores, has four touchdown receptions and one on a punt return...His 160 points are the most any player has scored in his first two seasons and the fifth-highest total in consecutive seasons by any Tar Heel player...His 26 touchdowns are the eighth-highest total at Carolina...Has 2,625 all-purpose yards...Only Don McCauley (2,993) and Charlie Justice (2,663) had more in their first two seasons...Has 58 receptions, three shy of Means' record for a Tar Heel running back.

1994 — Second-team All-ACC selection...Selected the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding Offensive Back...Led the Tar Heels and was fourth in the league in rushing with 73.2 yards per game...Totaled 805 yards rushing on 151 carries, an average of 5.3 yards per carry...Rushed for more than 100 yards on three occasions, all of which were UNC wins...Had a season-high and UNC-best 140 yards against Duke, 133 yards against N.C. State and 110 yards against Georgia Tech...Suffered a hip-pointer early in the season, an injury which hampered him for most of the first half of the season...Had just 184 yards over the first four games, an average of 46 yards per game...Compiled 621 yards over the final seven games, an average of 88.7 yards per game...Each of the last seven games was an ACC contest.

Was the third-leading scorer on the team with 60 points...Had seven rushing scores, two touchdown receptions and one punt return for a score...Was third on the team in receptions with 29 for 266 yards, an average of 9.2 yards per catch...The 29 receptions tied his own record for UNC receptions by a running back...Also led the team in punt return yards and average per return...Returned 13 punts for 199 yards, an average of 15.3 yards per return...Returned the first punt of the game against SMU 88 yards for a touchdown...It was the second-longest return in school history and the longest since Johnny Branch's 96-yarder against Maryland in 1930.

Finished second in the ACC in all-purpose yards with 1,359, an average of 123.6 yards per game...That placed him 37th in the country...Also was 11th in the ACC in scoring...was selected the Tar Heels' Offensive Player of the Week a team-high three times...Earned that award for his efforts against Georgia Tech (co-recipient with Curtis Johnson), Virginia and N.C. State...Was the ACC Offensive Back of the Week against Georgia Tech.

Played his best game in the 31-17 win over N.C. State as he rushed for 133 yards and one touchdown and caught five passes for 46 yards, including two scores...It was the third time in his career he had scored at least three times in one game...Opened the scoring with a three-yard run late in the first quarter, upped the lead to 14-0 with a 21-yard screen pass which he took in for a score and then made it 21-3 late in the second quarter on another screen pass, this time from 11 yards...Had 201 yards of all-purpose running in the N.C. State game...Rushed 22 times for 110 yards in the win over the Yellow Jackets...Scored two rushing touchdowns in that game, a pair of one-yard runs in the second half...The second one was the game-winner with 2:27 to play...Gained the last 22 yards on four plays on the winning drive...Had 90 yards on 13 carries (6.9 per carry) against Maryland...Caught a career-high six passes for 83 yards at Virginia...Rushed 23 times for 140 yards and added four receptions for 26 yards at Duke...Carried 20 times for 131 yards in the second half of that win over the Blue Devils...Rushed 15 times for 70 yards and caught three passes for 13 yards against Texas in the Sun Bowl.

1993 — Selected the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding Freshman Player...Responsible for one of the most outstanding freshman seasons in Atlantic Coast Conference history...A runaway winner as the ACC's Rookie of the Year and a second-team All-ACC selection at running back...First-team Freshman All-America as named by Football News...Became just the second Tar Heel and fourth ACC player to rush for 1,000 yards in his freshman season...Led the conference in scoring with 100 points, the 10th-highest single-season total in league history...The 100 points broke the previous record for ACC freshman by 16 points...Set a Carolina record for receptions by a running back...Scored 16 touchdowns, 14 by rush and two by pass receptions and added a pair of two-point conversion runs...Had five 100-yard rushing games...Previously only Amos Lawrence and Charlie Justice had five 100-yard games in their freshman seasons at UNC...Set an ACC freshman record with 26 points in one game (Duke)...Twice tied the ACC freshman record of four touchdowns in one game...Combined with Curtis Johnson to score 28 touchdowns, the most by any two players in Carolina history.

Rushed the ball 179 times for 1,012 yards, the 23rd 1,000-yard season in Carolina history, an NCAA record...Averaged 5.7 yards per carry and 84.3 yards per game...Only one other player in the ACC, Wake Forest's John Leach, had more carries...Had the fourth-fewest carries among UNC's 23 1,000-yard campaigns...Lawrence, in 1977, was the only other Tar Heel freshman to rush for 1,000 yards...The other two ACC players were Wake Forest's James McDougald in 1976 and N.C. State's Joe McIntosh in 1981...Reached the 1,000-yard mark on a four-yard carry in the fourth quarter of the Tar Heels' win over Duke.

Was only the third Tar Heel to be named ACC Rookie of the Year and the first in 15 years...Lawrence was the recipient in 1977 and linebacker Darrell Nicholson won the award in 1978.

His 16 touchdowns were the most by a Tar Heel since Kelvin Bryant had 18 in 1981...The 100 points were the fourth-most in school history behind Don McCauley (126 in 1970), Mike Voight (110 in 1976) and Bryant (108 in 1981)...Scored an ACC freshman-record 26 points vs. Duke on four TDs and one two-point run...Earlier in the year vs. UTEP he tied the ACC mark with 24 points on four TDs...That tied Ted Brown of N.C. State, who had 24 points vs. Clemson in 1975...Scored 50 points in those two games — only 12 players in the ACC had as many points the entire season...Had at least one touchdown in eight different games.

Made 29 pass receptions for 233 yards, an average of 8.0 yards per catch...Was the second-leading receiver on the team in terms of number of receptions...Had two TD catches, both long runs on screen passes...The first was a 15-yard TD at Georgia Tech and the second was a 29-yard screen against Duke...The previous record for receptions in a season by a UNC running back was 25 by Ethan Horton in 1984...Had at least one reception in 11 of the 12 games (Ohio U. the only exception)...Season-high four catches vs. Southern California and Tulane...Season-high 47 receiving yards vs. Duke.

Had a season-high 147 rushing yards on only 12 carries vs. Ohio U...Also had 142 yards (on a UNC season-high 24 attempts) vs. the Blue Devils...Other 100-yard games included 101 yards vs. Maryland, 106 yards vs. UTEP and 119 yards vs. Wake Forest...He and Curtis Johnson each rushed for 100 yards in the same game three times...Made 26 runs of 10 yards or more, including a season-long play of 62 yards for a touchdown vs. Ohio U.

Made his collegiate debut with 94 yards on 10 carries and four receptions for 35 yards at the Disneyland Pigskin Classic vs. Southern Cal...Scored the first UNC touchdown of the season on a 19-yard, second-quarter run...Set up the final TD of the night on a 31-yard run...Made his Kenan Stadium debut with 147 yards, including TD runs on consecutive carries of 15 and 62 yards, vs. Ohio U...That set a rushing yardage record for players making their first Kenan Stadium appearance...Justice held the previous record with 102 yards vs. VPI in 1946.

Scored on runs of 57 and one yards in the 59-42 win over Maryland...Scored four times and rushed for 106 yards vs. UTEP...Had TD runs of two, one, nine and 15 vs. the Miners...Had 119 yards on 16 carries, including a TD run of seven yards, vs. Wake Forest...Set up Carolina's only touchdown at Virginia with a remarkable shoestring catch-and-run for 20 yards...Gave the Tar Heels a 7-0 lead against Clemson with an 11-yard TD run...Against the Blue Devils he scored on a 29-yard first-quarter screen, a nine-yard second-quarter option pitch from Jason Stanicek, a 10-yard third-quarter run, and a five-yard third-quarter run...He tacked on the two points after that final TD...Needed 130 yards in the season finale to get to 1,000 and he had only 27 at the half...In the third quarter, however, he reeled off consecutive runs of 37, 10, 10 and 12 yards to come within 33 yards...Carried the ball eight straight plays and 10 times in 11 snaps, though, early in the fourth quarter...Rushed just two times for 24 yards and also caught three passes for another 24 yards against Alabama...Eighteen-yard run and 10-yard reception set up UNC's first-half touchdown.

1992 — Was red-shirted...Played quarterback with the scout team...Began working at tailback the week of practices prior to the Peach Bowl.

High School — Passed for 654 yards and seven touchdowns in eight games in 1991...An option quarterback who completed 49 of 102 passes at Freedom High...Also gained 741 yards rushing and scored six TDs...Named to the Greensboro News & Record all-state team on defense...All-Piedmont choice in the secondary by The Charlotte Observer...Coached by John Anderson...Used in the Shrine Bowl as a wide receiver, a position he had never played before, and caught five passes...Chosen for the East-West All-Star Game...Lettered three times in basketball, baseball and track...Two-time all-conference selection in basketball...Set a 4-A record in the long jump at the state track meet in 1992 with a leap of 24 feet, 7 3/4 inches...Also won state long jump title in 1991...Personal — Majoring in physical education...Born William Leon Johnson on July 13, 1974.

71 - MARCUS JONES
Defensive Tackle
6-6, 270, Sr.
Jacksonville, N.C.

Selected the Preseason Defensive Player of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference by The Sporting News...The same publication also named him the number-one defensive lineman in the nation...Selected to the Playboy Preseason All-America team for the second consecutive season...Named by the NFL Scouting Combine as one of the top 24 seniors in America...The top defensive lineman at Carolina during Mack Brown's tenure in Chapel Hill...One of the strongest players on the team...Extremely quick and agile for his size...A relentless pass rusher...Had a terrific 1994 season despite constant double- and even occasional triple-team efforts to thwart him...Graded out a winner by the UNC coaches in every game...One of the premier power linemen in the country...Also has the speed and agility to rush around blockers to get to the quarterback...Is the Tar Heel defender whom opposing offensive coaches must account for on every play...Has the ability to disrupt an offensive attack all by himself.

Has moved back to defensive tackle after one season at end...Prefers to play inside where he can use his massive, straight-up-the-field pass rush...Even though he may be double-teamed more easily inside, he has the strength and quickness to fight through that and will create pass-rushing lanes for his teammates...Has outstanding upper-body strength and is working hard to improve his leg strength...Made significant progress in the spring in using his hands to fend off blockers.

1994 — A first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection at defensive end...He was the first Tar Heel defensive lineman to be named first-team all-conference since nose guard Carlton Bailey (now with the Carolina Panthers) and defensive tackle Tim Goad (Cleveland Browns) both made it in 1987...Voted by the players and coaches as the Tar Heels' Most Valuable Defensive Player...Was second in the ACC in quarterback sacks...Was the ACC Defensive Lineman of the Week for his play at SMU...UNC coaches picked him as the Tar Heels' Defensive Player of the Week a remarkable six times, all in the last eight weeks of the season...Last year no player was named player of the week more than three times...Named to Playboy's Preseason All-America Team...The fifth-leading tackler on the UNC defense...Made 39 primary tackles, assisted on 23 others, for a total of 62 hits...Was the top tackler among defensive linemen...Led the team with 12.5 tackles for losses, seven and one-half quarterback sacks, nine batted down passes and 21 quarterback pressures...The 21 pressures were the most since Goad had 24 in 1985.

Had a season-high nine tackles in a dominant performance at Virginia...Had eight hits against Clemson and Duke and six in four other games...At SMU he had three and one-half quarterback sacks for 22 yards in losses among his six tackles...Also batted down a pass and pressured the quarterback into two bad throws...Had three tackles for losses, including a sack, among six hits against Maryland...Played perhaps his finest game as a Tar Heel in the win against N.C. State as he made six tackles, caused a fumble which led to a UNC touchdown, batted down three passes and pressured Terry Harvey into two incomplete passes...Had two sacks, three pressures and six total hits at Wake Forest...Had a season-high four pressures, knocked down three passes, had one sack and made eight overall hits in the win over Duke...Had two primary tackles, one for a five-yard loss, and two quarterback pressures against Texas in the Sun Bowl.

1993 — Selected to the All-ACC second team...A fierce pass rusher who spent a lot of time chasing after the quarterback...Led the Tar Heels with 8.5 quarterback sacks and was tied with fellow second-team All-ACC tackle Austin Robbins for the team lead with 10.5 tackles for losses...The 8.5 quarterback sacks were the most by a Tar Heel since William Fuller had nine in 1981...It was the third-highest total since defensive stats were first kept in 1978...Lawrence Taylor set the record with 16 in 1980...Jones' 8.5 sacks caused 76 yards in losses, the second-highest total ever and the most since Taylor's 16 sacks dropped opponents for 127 yards in losses...Second-team Sophomore All-America as named by Football News.

Overall Jones was the top tackler among the Tar Heels' defensive linemen...He made 30 primary stops and 20 assists for 50 total hits...Caused one fumble, batted down five passes and pressured the quarterback 15 times...That was second-best behind Robbins' 19 pressures...Made a season-high seven tackles in three games, vs. Ohio U., Florida State and Virginia...At N.C. State he had two tackles, one for a loss, one pressure and batted down two

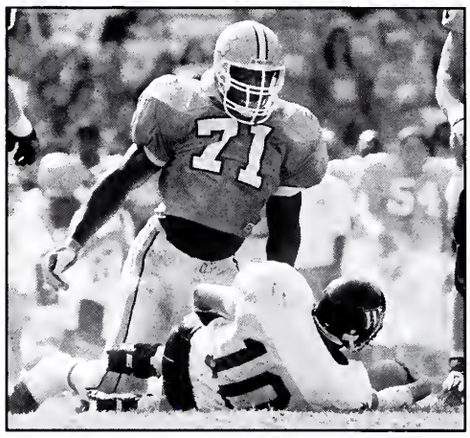
A CONVERSATION WITH MARCUS JONES



How does it feel to be the player on Carolina's defense that opposing offenses have to worry about stopping on every play?

Marcus Jones: "I'm not as concerned about it as everyone might think. It's going to play a role in the defense itself because they moved me back inside, which might mean teams could double-team me easier, but that will open up spots for other people on our defense. I don't really feel like the center of attention because the center of the defense is the defense itself. Whether or not one person plays well doesn't matter. If the whole defense plays well, it's a good thing. If the whole defense plays badly, it's a bad thing. I'm one of many. One guy doesn't make a defense."

How do you feel about moving back inside from defensive end to your original position, defensive tackle?

MJ: "Right now I'm feeling really comfortable inside because it gives me a chance to make a play or two more a game than playing outside because if you're on the outside [opposing offenses] can run away from you a little bit more or you always have to chase down the ball. When you're inside you're a little bit closer to the ball. I played inside on a couple of plays in certain defenses last year and really enjoyed it because it gave me the ability to go straight forward and make a play. I was sort of asking to play a little bit more inside and [the coaches] saw the film of last year and thought I did pretty well so they gave me the shot to move back inside this year."

You are a power lineman with good size and strength, but you also have rare speed and agility for a man your size. What do you think is your greatest asset?

MJ: "My greatest asset as a defensive player is not to take the game too strongly. I see the game as a game and enjoy playing it like someone would enjoy playing chess, their men against the other person's men. I see myself in that situation. I go out there and try not to get too worried. I look at my opponent and try to match my skill against his skill and see what I can do to mess his game up. It helps me not to get discouraged if I'm blocked well on a few plays in a row. At times, even the best chess player has obstacles in his way."

Some people might think that a 6-6, 270-pound man looks pretty scary, but you are a kind, soft-spoken man off the field. How do you balance your off-field demeanor with the nature of football?

MJ: "It has to come from a little home training. When I got to a certain age, my parents sat me down and discussed certain things with me. One of them happened to be that even though you're a big man in stature, you don't have to act like one. Everyone is going to be able to see you. If you're in a crowd of normal-sized people, everyone will be able to see you so let them see you for what you are and not for what they want you to be. Because you're a big person, they think you're going to stand out and be macho and stuff like that, but let them see you for what you really are as a person. I carry that over to everything in my life and it seems to work."

Do you have any personal or team goals for this season?

MJ: "I have a couple of personal goals. I think personal goals help the team goals. If everyone has a personal goal to be the best they can be, then the team itself will do pretty well. That's my personal goal — just to be the all-out best I can be. It's hard to set statistical goals for yourself because you might get discouraged along the way [if you don't reach them]. Just do the best you can every single time and everything else will fall into place."

How does it feel to be named preseason All-America and get all of the attention that goes along with that recognition?

MJ: "Personally, it feels good to know that someone else thinks you're pretty good, but until you satisfy yourself I don't think anything else can be accounted for."

You came to Carolina as the North Carolina High School Player of the Year and an All-America and now you're in position to graduate college as an All-America. How do you concentrate on your goals?

MJ: "It's all about what you view the game as being. I'm happy that other people think I'm pretty good, but until I think I'm good I won't think too much about it. My standards for myself are far higher than what everyone else sets for me. I don't really fear losing or failure. I understand the concept of losing and I understand that there might be somebody out there who is better than me since I'm just one of many people who are trying to do the same thing. I understand these things, and when you understand them you don't let failure get to you because that failure means you have to work a little bit harder to be better than that person the next day."

If things continue to develop for you as they have in the past, there is a good chance that you might have an opportunity to play in the National Football League next year. How do you deal with that possibility?

MJ: "The possibility of playing after college is always grand, but right now I'm thinking about how I can be the best player this year and how I can help my team. I've put some thought into it as far as everyone dreams about which team they'd like to play for, but the real aspects of playing professional football I haven't thought about too much. I think about the next game or the next time we play teams in the ACC."

Do you watch NFL games?

MJ: "I watch when everybody else in the house watches it. My coaches have been telling me I should pay more attention to what they do in professional football, but I feel that if you're a good player and you know how to play the sport, it's always going to be there without having to watch other people. Of course it's good to learn, but at the same time, when you don't know what everyone else knows, you tend to make up things yourself. Those things can carry on and then the next person might want to know how you learned how to do that."

15 - MIKE THOMAS
Quarterback/Punter
6-3, 230, Sr.
Hamlet, N.C.

One of the most talented players in college football...Finally is gaining the experience necessary to take full advantage of his skills...Took over for an injured Jason Stanicek late in the 1994 season and threw for 881 yards over the last four games...Led the Tar Heels to wins over Wake Forest and Duke and was spectacular in the Sun Bowl versus Texas...A tall, powerful quarterback who has the ability to throw the deep ball...Has also shown an ability to throw the touch passes...Seemed fully in command of the offense late in the 1994 season and appears ready to be the offensive catalyst in 1995.

Career — Has completed 117 of 241 passes for 1,932 yards and 12 touchdowns...Averages 40.5 yards for 134 career punts...Longest punt was a 65-yarder in 1992...Longest completion was a 71-yarder to Octavus Barnes against Duke in 1994...He also had a pair of 66-yard passes last year and a 53-yard completion to Bucky Brooks in the 1993 Peach Bowl...Started and went the distance in the 21-17 win over Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl...Also started and was outstanding against Texas in the 1994 Sun Bowl...Completed seven of 16 passes for 106 yards in the Peach Bowl, including a 53-yard bomb to Brooks on the fourth play of the third quarter...Completed 23 of 39 for 298 yards and two TDs against the Longhorns...Is the only UNC quarterback to have three of the 25 longest pass plays in Tar Heel history...His biggest regular-season passing day was for 299 yards against Duke in 1992...That is the most yards ever in one game by a UNC freshman and helped him set a UNC record for freshman single-season passing yards (831).

1994 Regular Season — Saw significant playing time at quarterback in five games...Made starts in each of the last two games and came off the bench twice with Jason Stanicek injured...Played 315 snaps this year, including punting, 154 of which came in the last two weeks of the season at Wake Forest and Duke...Completed 39 of 83 passes for 715 yards...Threw for eight touchdowns and was picked off three times...Connected for a touchdown once every 4.9 pass completions and once every 10.4 attempts...Averaged 18.3 yards per completion...Twenty-seven of his 39 completions were for 10-plus yards, 11 were for 20-plus yards and four were 30 yards or longer.

Helped direct Carolina to a remarkable 41-40 win over Duke in the regular-season finale...Completed 10 of 14 passes for 210 yards and one touchdown and rushed for 38 yards, including a 17-yard touchdown...Was the ACC Offensive Back of the Week for his efforts at Duke...After the Blue Devils took a 38-34 lead with 2:47 to play, Thomas hit Barnes on a crossing route...Barnes turned upfield and raced 71 yards for the winning score...Thomas and Barnes hooked up six times for 165 yards vs. Duke...They connected on a 22-yarder on a third-and-15 play in the first quarter...Hit Barnes for 16 and 23 yards to set up a first-half field goal...Broke a 24-24 tie with a 17-yard scoring run around the left end in the third quarter.

Made his first start of the season in week 10 at Wake Forest and completed 12 of 27 passes for 196 yards and three touchdowns...Threw scoring passes of 19, 66 and 29 yards to Marcus Wall...The 19-yarder came late in the first half to give UNC a 17-0 lead and the 66-yarder came on the first play of the second half to up the lead to 24-0...It was the first three-touchdown passing day by a Tar Heel since Mark Maye threw four against Georgia Tech in 1987.

Came on in relief of Stanicek late in the first half against Clemson and completed 11 of 24 passes for 177 yards and two scores...On one drive just before intermission he hit Greg DeLong for 22 yards, Barnes for 23 on third-and-20, Darrin Ashford for 12 and Wall for an 11-yard touchdown...Later in the game he hit Barnes for 29 yards and a touchdown.

Also relieved Stanicek at SMU and led UNC on a pair of second-half scoring drives...He read a Mustang blitz and found Wall all alone in the end zone for a 23-yard score to give Carolina a 21-3 lead...After SMU rallied to go ahead, 24-21, he hit Barnes on a third-and-15 crossing route for 66 yards and the winning score.

Was fifth in the ACC in punting with a 39.4 average...His longest kick of the season was 55 yards against Georgia Tech...Had six kicks this year of 50 yards or more...Averaged 40 yards or better in four games...Was the ACC Specialist of the Week for his efforts at Florida State (six kicks for 43.3 average and two downed inside the 20) and Georgia Tech (four kicks for 46.8 average, two inside the 20).

1994 Sun Bowl — Posted one of the finest passing days in Carolina history...Set UNC bowl game records for pass completions, attempts and yards and tied the school mark for touchdown passes...Completed 23 of 39 for 298 yards and two scores...Was 20 for 29 prior to last-minute desperation drive...Nearly led the Tar Heels to victory in one of the school's wildest games in history...Set a personal collegiate high for completions before halftime..Threw a 50-yard scoring pass to Octavus Barnes and an eight-yard scoring toss to Marcus Wall...Completed 15 of 19 for 168 yards and one score in the opening half...Broke Jason Stanicek's school records for postseason yardage (225 vs. Alabama in the 1993 Gator Bowl) and completions (19 vs. the Crimson Tide)...Second-quarter touchdown pass to Wall was a beautifully-thrown fade route to the back left corner of the end zone...That score cut UT's lead to 21-17 just before intermission...That play capped a drive on which Thomas led UNC 74 yards in nine plays in just 1:48...With the Tar Heels leading 24-21 in the fourth quarter, Thomas hit Barnes on a deep post for 50 yards and a score.

1993 — Thomas made one start at quarterback, at N.C. State (fifth career start)...He was sacked on the first series, however, and suffered severely bruised ribs which forced him out of action for the rest of the game as well as the following week vs. UTEP...Completed 20 of 37 passes for 336 yards...Had a 47-yard touchdown throw to Brooks vs. Maryland...Was four of seven for 82 yards vs. the Terps...Came off the bench in relief of an injured Jason Stanicek vs. Florida State and was five for 12 for 90 yards...Completed eight of 14 passes over his last five games...Played at quarterback in 10 games in 1993...Did not play against UTEP or Virginia...Replaced Stanicek in the second half vs. Tulane and led the Tar Heels to two touchdown drives...With UNC ahead just 14-10, he moved UNC 80 yards in 13 plays and had two completions which converted third-down chances...Scored on a four-yard run late in the Tulane game.

Punted 31 times in 1993 for an average of 37.7 yards...He had a long punt of 56 yards...His best game was vs. Florida State when he averaged 41.6 yards on seven kicks...He also averaged 45.4 yards on four punts at Virginia.

Missed all of spring drills prior to the season as he was rehabilitating a left pectoralis muscle injury...Suffered a muscle injury while lifting weights in the off-season and underwent surgery March 3 to repair the tear...Did not play baseball in the spring or summer with the Baltimore Orioles.

1992 (Quarterback) — Selected as the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding First-Year Player...Completed 54 of 114 passes (47.4 percent) for 831 yards...Threw for three touchdowns and four interceptions...Also rushed 44 times for 171 yards and one touchdown...The 831 yards are the most by a UNC freshman passer, breaking Matt Kupec's record of 751 set in 1976...Set several

You are the only experienced quarterback on the roster this fall. How does it feel to know that as you enter the preseason?

Mike Thomas: "I'm still going to take the same approach that I've always taken and not take anything for granted. I still have to go in and earn the position. I just want everyone on the squad to play to their potential and go out there and turn it loose on Saturday afternoons. I just need to do the things I can do and be myself and hope everybody will be clicking together as a team.

What about being a senior after sitting out a year with the medical red-shirt and fighting through some adversity to reach your final year of college?

MT: "It feels great to be a senior and be getting ready to graduate on time. Sitting out was hard. Looking back, maybe I did need a red-shirt year to understand and learn the system. I think it helped me mentally because the things I went through have helped make me strong. I think it worked out for the best even though I didn't want to get hurt and have to take a medical red-shirt. The only thing I can do now is keep on moving forward. As far as being a leader on the team, you have to accept the role that's given to you as an older player. I'm just going to try to be myself and do the things I can do well. I think the guys respect that."

You finished 1994 very strongly at Wake Forest and Duke and in the Sun Bowl. Were you happy with your performance? How do you want to build on that this fall?

MT: "I may have played well, but I feel like we didn't get all we wanted to get as a team. We didn't win the ACC championship. I look at my performance as doing what I was supposed to do but not doing enough to get the job done. Even if I'm throwing the ball well, it's not enough unless the team is doing well."

Has getting more playing time helped you get more consistent as a quarterback?

MT: "Repetitions and just being out there during games are the main thing. If you haven't been out there a whole lot, things are not going to go as smoothly. Practice is a little bit different. But once I took the approach of practicing with the same intensity as in games, it helped me out a lot. Then I had the opportunity to play against Clemson [in 1994] and the things I had worked on in the past helped me deliver during games."

Does having a talented set of receivers with Marcus Wall, Octavus Barnes, Darrin Ashford and the younger players give you confidence that the team can continue to improve in 1995?

MT: "It helps a lot. We're all friends, we hang out. If I put the ball out there, I know those guys are going to go get it no matter where it is. It feels good to have a real good team chemistry and attitude around us. Those two things can go a long way, especially if you're having a hard time or things aren't going exactly right. All of us can pull together and work as a whole very well. I think we all have the desire to win and we can work together as one to get it done."

What is your biggest strength as a quarterback?

MT: "I'd say the physical part. I'm still learning more and more about the game. The more you study and work at it, the better you get and the more your physical skills can take over. I think I'm a big, strong quarterback and a good passer with some athletic ability."

How have you most improved your game here at Carolina?

MT: "I've improved emotionally since going through the injury (prior to 1993). Things didn't go well for me at the beginning of that season season as far as who was going to start between Jason [Stanicek] and I. Jason had a good year, but things didn't happen the way I would've liked. I had to grow out of that mentally, and I think from then on I've matured a lot. That's helped me learn the system and improve my game."

Do you prefer punting or playing quarterback?

MT: "I love to play quarterback and punting is like a hobby. I enjoy them both, though. If I get a chance to do either one at the next level I'd like it."

How has playing professional baseball helped your football skills?

MT: "I like both of them and both of them have a different feel to them. Football is more physical and is all full-speed and baseball is a slower game. Baseball has helped my hand-eye coordination and being able to accelerate quickly, which helps me in football a lot. It's also helped a lot with maturity, being your own man and being on your own all summer."

14 - MARCUS WALL
Wide Receiver
Fayetteville, N.C.

Elected by his teammates as co-captain of this year's team (along with strong safety Eric Thomas)...Has developed into one of the top all-around players in the Atlantic Coast Conference and certainly one of the most unheralded stars of the 1994 season...If the ACC had a position on its all-conference team for all-around excellence, Wall would have to be considered a candidate...Named to The Sporting News' 1995 Preseason All-ACC team at both wide receiver and special teams...He led the team in yards per reception, set a school record for touchdown catches, led the ACC and was third in the nation in kick return average, scored a rushing touchdown, set a school record for kickoff return yards in one game and a season, and had at least one reception in every game this year...Scored almost every way possible this year...Including the bowl game he caught 10 touchdown passes, rushed for one score (against N.C. State), returned one kickoff for a score (at Duke), and returned one punt for a score (vs. Texas).

He was named honorable mention All-ACC, the sixth-leading vote-getter among wide receivers...Returned punts for the first time in his career in the Sun Bowl against Texas and on his very first return he raced 82 yards for a go-ahead touchdown...Was the Special Teams MVP of the 1994 Sun Bowl.

Regular-season stats include 52 career receptions for 835 yards and 10 touchdowns...Has two rushing touchdowns, one against Southern California in 1993 and another against N.C. State in 1994...Also has returned 67 kickoffs for 1,628 yards...Is second alltime at Carolina and seventh in ACC history in kickoff return yards...Averages 24.3 yards per kickoff return, the third-highest average in school history...Is 14th alltime at UNC in all-purpose yardage with 2,514 yards.

1994 — Voted by the UNC players and coaches as the Most Valuable Offensive Player and Most Outstanding Special Teams Player...Was tied for second on the team with 29 receptions and was second with 569 yards receiving...Led the team with 19.6 yards per catch...Set the UNC record with nine touchdown catches this year...That broke the former record of eight by Mike Chatham in 1979, Mark Smith in 1983 and Earl Winfield in 1985...Caught a pass in every game and at least two in eight games...Gained at least a first down on 21 of his 29 grabs...Had 20 catches for 10-plus yards, 10 for 20 yards or more and seven of at least 30 yards...Made a season-high seven catches for 148 yards at Wake Forest...Tied the Tar Heel record for scoring receptions in one game with three touchdowns against the Deacons...Four other players had accomplished that feat, the latest being Randy Marriott against Georgia Tech in 1987...Wall had TD receptions at Wake Forest of 19, 66 and 29 yards...His 148 yards are the ninth-highest total in school history.

Led the ACC in kick return average, was third in all-purpose yards behind only Robert Baldwin of Duke and Leon Johnson of UNC, was sixth in scoring and had the sixth-highest single-game receiving yardage total...He also had the highest yards-per-catch average in the ACC and the second-highest number of TD catches in the league.

Scored a pair of touchdowns in the first quarter in the 41-40 win over Duke...Caught a 48-yard scoring pass from split end Octavus Barnes to even the game at 7-7 and then returned a kickoff 87 yards for a score to draw Carolina even at 14-14...The kickoff return was the first of his career, the second-longest overall return of his career (had a 91-yarder but did not score against Duke in 1993) and the 16th-longest in Tar Heel history.

Finished second on the team in scoring with 11 touchdowns for 66 points...Also had touchdown receptions against Texas Christian (61 yards), Tulane (17 yards), SMU (23 yards), Maryland (39 yards), Clemson (11 yards) and a scoring run of five yards against N.C. State.

Against TCU he made two catches for 95 yards, including the 61-yarder which gave the Tar Heels the lead for good at 21-14 early in the second quarter...Caught two for 35 yards against Tulane...Had five receptions for 62 yards at Florida State, including a 31-yard grab in the third quarter which set up the UNC score to cut the lead to less than two scores...Had two receptions for 49 yards against Maryland...His 39-yard scoring catch gave UNC the lead for good at 14-7...Scored on a five-yard end-around play against N.C. State which gave Carolina a 31-3 lead in the third quarter...Caught four for 53 yards against Clemson.

Set Carolina single-game records for kickoff returns and yards and a single-season record for kickoff return yards...Had 27 returns for a record 743 yards...Averaged 27.5 yards per return, the highest figure in the ACC and the third-best in the country...Set a pair of school marks against Clemson as he returned eight kickoffs for 184 yards...The previous records were seven returns by Don McCauley and Eric Blount and 174 yards by McCauley.

Wall did not return return kickoffs until the fifth game of the season...Suffered a severely bruised right shoulder in the preseason and Carolina's coaches did not want to risk his health further by having him return kicks...Had five returns for 154 yards at Duke, including the 87-yard score...That return was the first by a Tar Heel against Duke since 1959...His best return game was at Virginia when he brought back four for 125 yards...His returns started drives at the Carolina 24-, 40-, 40- and 48-yard lines...Had a 65-yard return against Maryland which set up a UNC touchdown...Was the ACC Specialist of the Week against Maryland.

1994 Sun Bowl — Turned in one of the most spectacular performances by a Tar Heel in recent memory...Selected by the media as the Most Valuable Special Teams Player...His standout play, however, was not limited just to special teams action...Returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter...That play gave Carolina a 24-21 lead...It was the first punt Wall had ever returned at UNC...It was the eighth-longest punt return in school history and the third-longest ever in NCAA bowl game history...Also had seven pass receptions for 82 yards, including an eight-yard touchdown catch in the second quarter...Compiled 227 all-purpose yards, the highest figure by an ACC player in NCAA bowl game history...Had receptions of 24, 14, six, seven, eight (TD), 11 and 12 yards...Wall also added a a 30-yard run off a reverse.

1993 — Was fourth on the team in receptions with 22...Averaged 11.6 yards per catch...Set UNC records for most kickoffs returned in one season (31) and most kickoff return yards in one season (734)...Had a 91-yard kickoff return against Duke, which is the longest non-scoring kick return in Carolina history...Was third in the ACC in kickoff return average...Had receptions in eight regular-season games with a season-high five at Virginia and four against Wake Forest and Duke...Caught a 16-yard touchdown pass with three seconds left in the first half vs. Wake Forest...Also scored on a six-yard run in the third quarter vs. Southern California...Knocked the Trojans' starting strong safety out of the game in the first quarter when the USC player was trying to make a tackle on Wall's 19-yard run...Wall's hit was one of the most memorable plays of the season.

Opened the second half at N.C. State with a 41-yard kickoff return which placed the ball at midfield...On the next play Curtis Johnson rushed 50 yards for the go-ahead touchdown and UNC never trailed again in that game...All four of his catches against Wake Forest were for first downs...Had receptions in that game for 16, 24, six and 23 yards...Four of his five catches at Virginia came in the fourth quarter.

1992 — Played in eight regular-season games plus the Peach Bowl...Saw action on 29 plays at Clemson and 21 in the Peach Bowl...Made one reception for 10 yards at Clemson...Also returned nine kickoffs for 151 yards, an average of 16.8 yards per return.

High School — Recorded the third-highest single-season rushing total in state prep history in 1991 with 2,501 yards at South View High...Played tailback and had 334 carries in 15 games...Scored 27 touchdowns on the ground...Finished the year with 29 total TDs and three conversions for 180 points...Averaged 9.4 yards on punt returns and 26.8 on kickoff returns...Team captain as a senior and conference player of the year...As a three-year starter, helped South View to a combined record of 30-8 and the 1991 state 4-A title...MVP in the state championship game as he rushed for 178 yards...Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and named all-state by the Associated Press and the Greensboro News & Record...Coached by Bobby Poss...Selected for the East-West All-Star Game...Member of a state championship 4x100 relay team...Personal — Born Marcus Terrell Wall on Dec. 10, 1973...Majoring in physical education.

A CONVERSATION WITH MARCUS WALL

Bill Richards

You led the ACC in yards per catch in 1994, were third in the nation in kick return average, returned a punt for a touchdown in the Sun Bowl and have shown that you can run the reverse very well. Do you have a favorite aspect of football?

Marcus Wall: "Having the ball in my hands is my favorite part of the game. I think I'm pretty good at a little bit of everything and there's not really one thing that actually stands out. I think it's more quickness than speed for me. I do have fairly good speed, but I'm very quick."

You're one of the top all-around players in the Atlantic Coast Conference, yet you were only the sixth-leading vote-getter in the All-ACC balloting at wide receiver last year. Do you feel a little unheralded or unappreciated?

MW: "I don't know if I would call it unappreciated because I am appreciated by my team and that's what counts to me. I definitely think that there's no reason to have an All-ACC team if you're not going to put the best players on it. I feel like I can be one of the best receivers in the conference and in the country and I'll just have to work hard and go out there and prove that."

If you were a defensive back assigned to cover Marcus Wall, what would you fear most?

MW: "I think quickness is the best thing I have. Just being quick is definitely something that defenders watch out for. Running the ball is something that comes naturally to me, making moves and things of that nature. I used to play running back and slot back, so I've been running with the ball for as long as I can remember. That really helps me run with the ball after I make a catch. I guess I'm a receiver with a running back's ability to find the holes."

Do you have a favorite moment from last year?

MW: "I would say probably the reverse I had against N.C. State was my favorite play. Not the one for a touchdown, but the one going toward the field house [in Kenan Stadium] that was called back because of a clip or some other penalty. I liked that play because a lot of different things took place all on that one play, a lot of different moves. It was exciting for me to watch on film later. That would've been a long one if they hadn't called it back."

How do you like the idea of being co-captain of the team this fall?

MW: "I like it a lot. You have to show a lot of character to be a captain. It shows that the team respects you and thinks that you can definitely lead them to what everybody strives for across the country, and that's the title, a national championship. I'm looking forward to it."

Will you have to do anything differently as a leader of the team?

MW: "I'm not going to be the leader of just the receiving corps like I was last year. I need to be more open to everybody, not only the other receivers, see their views and evaluate things from the standpoint of the entire team. The team will have good times and it will have bad times also. You have to evaluate that and take the ideas of the group and report them to the coaches. I think I'm vocal enough to handle the job."

With Octavus Barnes, Darrin Ashford and some of the younger receivers, you are the veteran of a very talented group of Tar Heel pass-catchers. How do you fit into the receiver mix?

MW: "I'm a little shorter than some of those guys, but mental toughness helps me overcome that. I think I'm more of a deep threat, but I also do go across the middle. I was the only guy who actually had experienced the playing time and knew what was going on at the beginning of last fall. I thought it was great for me to be in that position and be able not only to follow in the footsteps of the guys who helped me out, but to help the guys who are younger than me."

How would you like to build on being voted the most valuable player of the Carolina offense last year?

MW: "That honor felt really good because there were a couple of guys who could have won. I want to improve in every category, from blocking to touchdowns. I don't want anything to be the same and I want everything to be better. As for the team, all I want is the national championship."

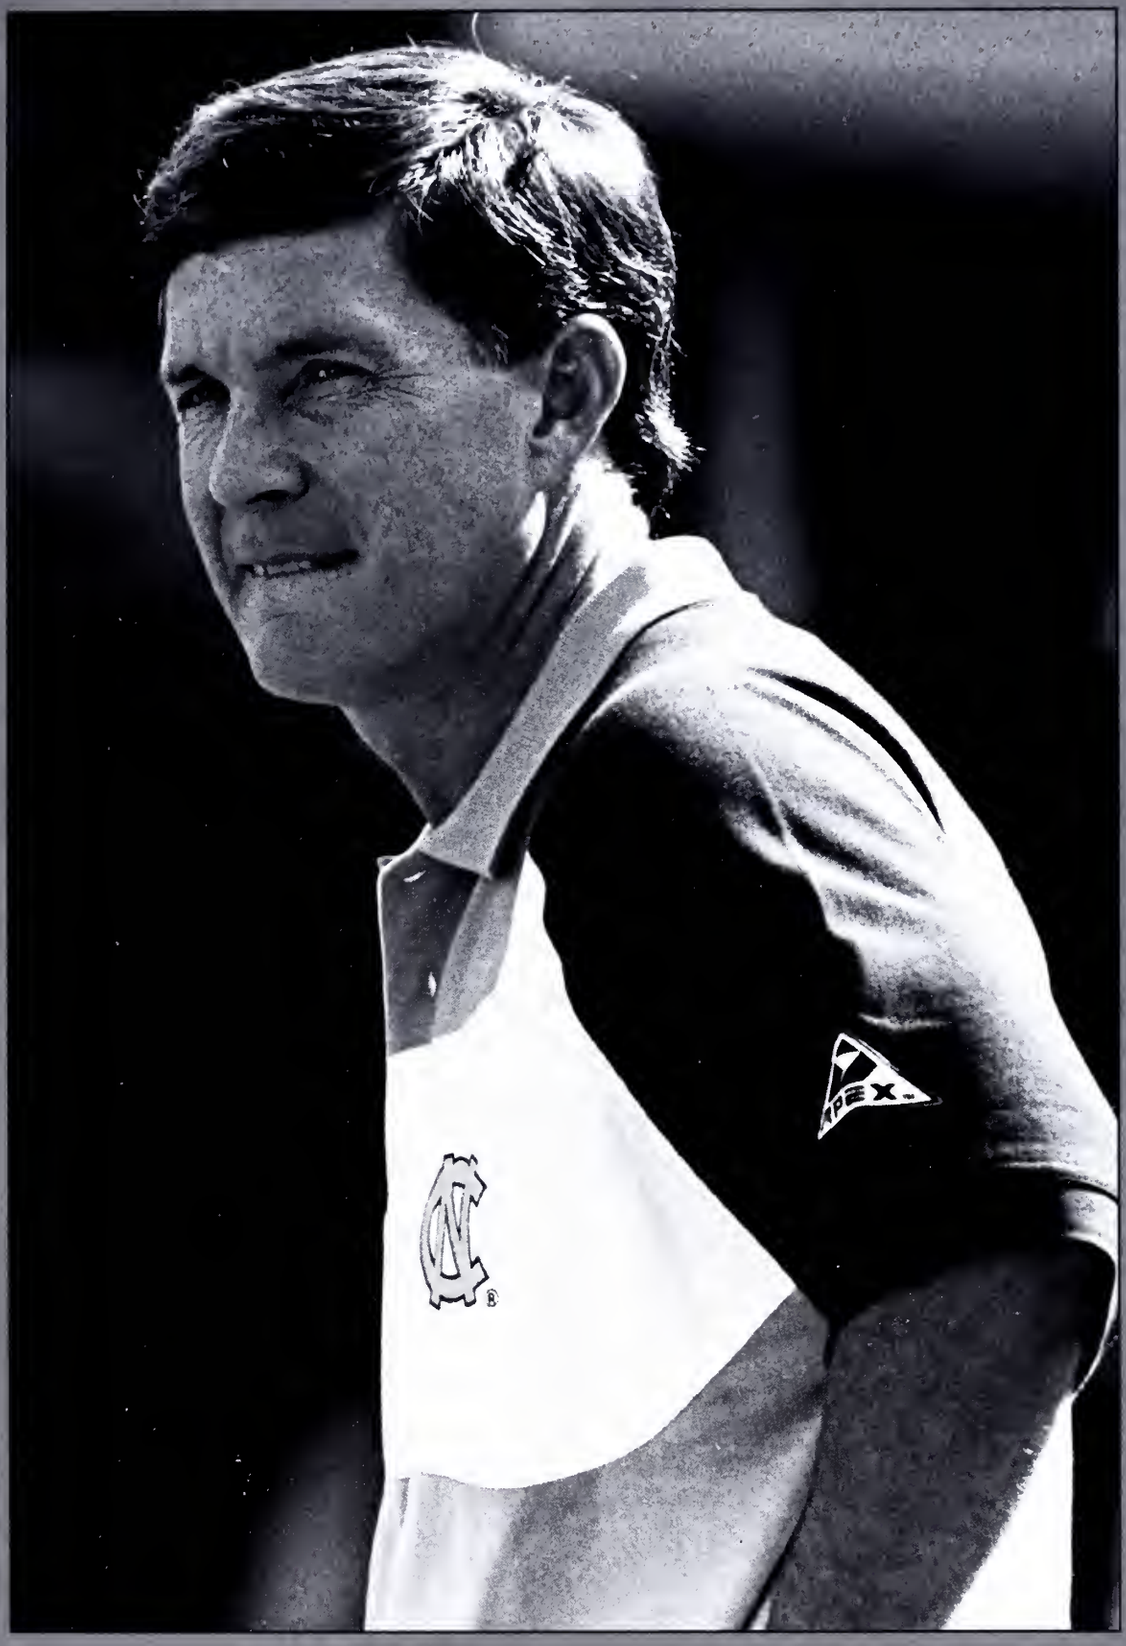
CAROLINA ATHLETICS PERSONNEL



HEAD COACH MACK BROWN

EIGHTH YEAR AT CAROLINA

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

To those who follow the world of intercollegiate athletics closely, the fact that John Swofford is considered one of the best administrators in the nation comes as absolutely no surprise.

In his 15 years as the Director of Athletics at the University of North Carolina, Swofford has been instrumental in building UNC's program into one of the country's most respected entities. It is rare in this day and age that an intercollegiate athletic program can show the proper balance of outstanding academic performance, unquestioned integrity, championship-producing results and sound financial management. But Carolina's program excels in all of those areas.

JOHN SWOFFORD begins his 16th year as director of athletics at his alma mater.

"John Swofford is a superb athletic director," says Paul Hardin, chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1988 to 1995. "It is not surprising that Carolina fans agree on that proposition, because our athletic program is so obviously successful under his leadership. What I can report is that John's national reputation parallels the respect in which he is held at UNC. I am very active in the NCAA and I hear nothing but the highest compliments about John and the administrative and coaching strength he has built at Carolina. He is clearly among a small handful of athletic directors who are commonly acknowledged to be tops in the nation."

"John Swofford has proven over and over again to be one of the best people in collegiate athletic administration. The ACC has been blessed with extraordinary athletic directors, and John belongs in the first row."
Gene Corrigan, Commissioner, Atlantic Coast Conference

Swofford served as president of the National Association of Collegiate Director of Athletics (NACDA) in 1993-94 and is one of 14 members of the Executive Committee of the NCAA. That body has the main responsibility of transacting the business and administering the affairs of the NCAA in accordance with the policies of the NCAA and the NCAA Council, while also supervising the executive director of the NCAA.

A 1971 Carolina graduate and recipient of the prestigious Morehead Scholarship, Swofford has a special interest in academics. He founded the office of athletic academic affairs in 1985, which has helped guide Carolina to record numbers on the Atlantic Coast Conference Honor Roll and the University's Dean's List.

Carolina's football team has consistently been honored for graduating at least 70 percent of its players by the College Football Association. In fact, UNC earned honorable mention status from the CFA for the eighth time in the past nine years and the seventh year in a row in 1994-95. The men's basketball team has also continued its remarkable rate of graduating its players while maintaining on-court excellence.

Swofford planned the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center as an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse. That building includes the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

During his tenure, UNC has claimed 106 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and 21 national collegiate titles. Carolina has won more ACC team titles than any other school in the league in each of the past eight school years. During the 1993-94 season, the Tar Heels won an ACC-record 11 championships, out of 23 contested, and also claimed national championships in women's soccer and women's basketball. Last year, Carolina broke its own record by winning a remarkable 12 ACC titles, more than half the number of the championships contested. No other school in the last two years has won more than four team titles in a year.

Carolina also won the inaugural Sears Directors Cup in 1993-94. This award, conceived by NACDA, Sears and USA Today, honors the collegiate all-sports champion, a Champion of Champions, so to speak. Carolina edged Stanford for the award in a tight race as 16 of Carolina's 22 eligible sports contributed points towards winning the prestigious trophy.

Swofford has a knack for selecting quality people. He has hired 11 of the 20 coaches who currently head UNC's athletic programs, including three who have won national championships (women's basketball coach Sylvia Hatchell, field hockey coach Karen Shelton and lacrosse coach Dave Klarmann), football coach Mack Brown, who has led UNC to three consecutive bowl game appearances, and Dennis Craddock, who has directed the Tar Heel track and field program to 19 ACC titles over the last eight years. In addition, he has put together an administrative management team considered to be one of the finest in athletics.

"Certainly the success our teams have achieved is a point of pride, but I think the thing of which we are most proud is the quality of people in our program," says Swofford. "Winning on the field and seeing that our student-athletes advance towards degrees are the most tangible ways of identifying success, but we feel very comfortable with the quality of the persons who represent our University. Our coaches, athletes, administrators and staff are among the finest in the country and I am extremely proud of them."

With the help of the Educational Foundation, the University has also enjoyed a tremendous growth in facilities during Swofford's tenure. In 1986, Carolina successfully completed a $34 million fund-raising drive to construct the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,572-seat basketball arena and Koury Natatorium, one of the nation's top short course facilities. Swofford was also the driving force behind the expansion of Kenan Stadium in 1988 and the building of a new press box there.

Since Swofford became athletic director, the Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center, an indoor-outdoor facility, has been completed and dedicated; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and renovated; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been reconstructed and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field has been installed; a new track has been put down at Fetzer Field and the stadium there renovated.

That is an impressive list of accomplishments for the department under Swofford's tenure the past 15 years. What's equally noteworthy is the fact Carolina has accomplished all this while running a program whose integrity is unimpeachable. There hasn't been even a hint of scandal during that time. Swofford has also directed the program to such heights during a time of increasing financial exigencies. Yet the sound financial management practices put forth by Swofford have kept Carolina as one of the few collegiate athletic programs still operating in the black.

Nationally, Swofford was named chairman of the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1984. He is a past chairman of the NCAA Communications and the NCAA Special Events/Postseason Bowl Committees. He has served three terms as chairman of the ACC Television Committee. He currently chairs the ACC committee on football and serves on the constitution and bylaws, infractions and penalties, television and men's basketball committees. He also wasappointed to the newly formed NCAA Special Committee to Study a Division I-A Football Championship.

In May 1991, Swofford was honored with the North Carolina Scholastic Sports Unsung Hero Award for his strong support of high school sports. Swofford was cited for his strong leadership at Carolina, for lending unprecedented access to campus facilities for prep championships.

In November 1994, Swofford was named the recipient of the W.S. Bailey Award, given by the Auburn-Opelika (Ala.) Touchdown Club for outstanding contributions to collegiate athletics.

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and a three-sport MVP at Wilkes Central High School. An honor student in high school, he majored in psychology and industrial relations at Carolina.

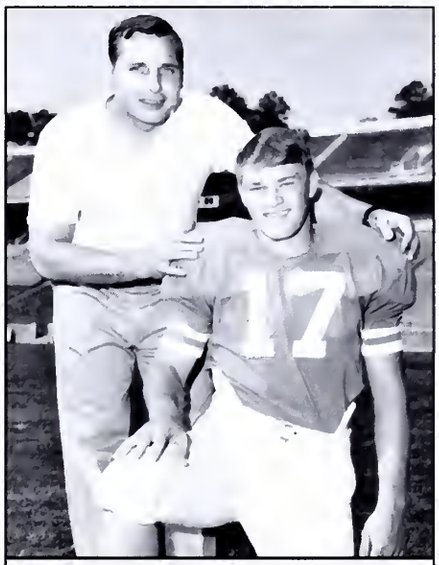
Swofford played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. The 1970 team went to the Peach Bowl and the 1971 squad won the ACC title and played in the Gator Bowl. He was named to the ACC Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus. In 1973, he earned a master's degree in athletic administration from Ohio University, long considered "The Harvard" of the nation's sports administration programs.

Swofford received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984. He has been inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, Carolina's highest honorary society. In 1989, Swofford became the first athletic director ever added to the Chancellor's Administrative Council at Carolina.

A regular jogger and avid baseball fan, Swofford enjoys reading, golf and tennis. He and his wife, Becky, have two children. Autumn, 18, is a senior in high school, and Chad, 16, a sophomore.

He is a member of the Morehead Foundation Central Selection Committee and is on the parents' board at the Proctor Academy in New Hampshire. The Swoffords are members of the First United Methodist Church in Chapel Hill.

JOHN COSTELLO, Executive Vice-President for Marketing at Sears, presents the Sears Directors' Cup for 1993-94 to UNC athletic director JOHN SWOFFORD. Carolina placed second in 1994-95.



JOHN SWOFFORD played quarterback and defensive back at Carolina from 1969-71. His head coach, Bill Dooley, was inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in the spring of 1995.

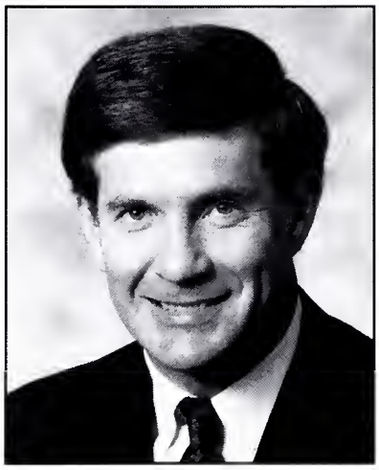
HEAD COACH MACK BROWN



North Carolina has now completed its fifth straight winning season and made its third bowl game appearance in a row.

Six years ago the Tar Heels finished 1-10 for the second consecutive season.

How did this amazing turnaround evolve?

There have been a number of factors. But the key has been Mack Brown, a young head coach who was willing to take on a tremendous challenge. It has been under his guidance that the Tar Heels have returned to national football prominence.

An indication of the respect Brown has brought to Carolina football came last year when his team was ranked in all of the preseason Tops 20s and picked second in the Atlantic Coast Conference behind Florida State. That was despite the fact the Tar Heels returned just eight starters from 1993, including only three on defense and one in the offensive line.

Now 12 starters are gone from last season's Sun Bowl team. However, Brown's squad is again in most in of the preseason Top 20s.

In seven years on the job Brown and his staff have completely rebuilt the Carolina program. The going hasn't been easy, but Brown's patience and determination have paid huge dividends. This recent stretch marks only the second time in 50 years the Tar Heels have had five straight winning seasons.

While Carolina is once again enjoying success on the field, that has not come at the expense of failures off it. UNC has won honorable mention from the College Football Association for seven straight years for graduating at least 70 percent of its players. This past year's graduation rate was 85 percent.

All this is an indication Swofford was correct in December 1987, when he recommended Brown to become the Carolina head coach.

However, the best may be yet to come. Brown has been around some of the top programs in the country and knows what it takes for Carolina to maintain the consistency those schools have had.

"We've made tremendous strides, but there is still work to be done," says Brown. "We want to be in a position to challenge for the conference championship and go to a bowl game every year. There's no reason we can't do that, given all the things we have going for us here— a tradition of excellence in athletics, one of the best academic institutions in the nation and with the stadium renovations beginning immediately, our football facility will be among the finest in the nation."

Brown certainly seems to have the Tar Heels headed

Carolina has been honored by the College Football Association for graduating at least 70 percent of its football players in each of Mack Brown's seven years in Chapel Hill.

Caught with slim talent and forced to play a number of true freshmen, Brown's first two teams each went 1-10. However, Carolina's records in the last five years have been 6-4-1, 7-4, 9-3, 10-3 and 8-4.

"We've had excellent football here in the past," says Carolina Athletic Director John Swofford. "Our problem has been winning on a consistent basis. Every time we get things going well, something seems to happens. Looking back, the problems have always been different.

"But, Mack and his staff have worked hard to lay a solid foundation for our program. Injuries can always ruin a team for a season, but everything is falling in place for us to be very good in football for a long time."

Most coaches always say it takes four years of recruiting and work to get a program in place. Since Brown's first four seasons the Tar Heels have won 27 games. Florida State is the only school in the ACC to win more than that over the past three years.

Carolina was 18th in the final 1992 poll of writers and broadcasters conducted by the Associated Press and 19th in the USA Today/CNN poll of college coaches. The Tar Heels finished 19th and 21st in the 1993 rankings and 21st in the coaches' poll last fall.

"What we've accomplished is a tribute to the hard work put in by our players and assistant coaches over the past seven years," says Brown. "Our program still isn't where we want it to be, but we're making outstanding progress."

on the right track.

"Mack has proven to be the perfect man for our program," says Swofford. "He's seemingly been going non-stop since the first day he walked on campus and his work is evident, especially to those of us in our department. He's not only rebuilt our program, but also united our constituencies.

"Even in the early years, he was popular with our fans. He has a great ability to relate to people, from our oldest alumni to small kids. He understands what Carolina means to people who went here and that makes him so effective when talking to them. But, I've also seen him with groups of young children and he's great with them, too."

This rebuilding process has not been easy. But, the young head coach did not quit and the slow start did not quell the enthusiasm building around the Tar Heel program.

"From a won-loss standpoint we went through some tough times in the first two years and not once did Mack ever let down in his positive approach in terms of his players or any people surrounding the program," says Swofford. "He has a unique ability to remain positive, to keep people united and headed in a forward direction. I think he handled all that remarkably well.

Over the last three seasons the Tar Heel offense has averaged 415 yards per game.

"Consequently, I think people very much wanted him to succeed. And I think that's important when you're rebuilding. I think it's important to remember that it's not as easy to rebuild a program as it was a few years ago. Scholarship cutbacks have really made it an incredible challenge."

Outgoing and personable, one of Brown's greatest strengths may simply be his integrity. When he says something, people know he means it.

That's one reason he's done such an outstanding job as a recruiter. He's honest and forthright in his dealings with his players. He has a good understanding of today's young people and can relate to them and their problems.

When he came to Chapel Hill, one of his first goals was to reestablish solid relationships with the state's high school coaches. He and his staff have done just that and UNC's football program is once again the dominant factor in the state. Even though Carolina has recruited top players from across the nation, more than half the roster is comprised of young men from the Tar Heel State.

Additionally, he has made a special effort to have former players feel welcome when they return to campus. A spring letterman's outing has become a huge success, attracting players from all eras back to Chapel Hill.

As Brown's work has resulted in improvement on Saturday afternoons, it has also benefited his players who have decided to try careers in professional football. Over the past four seasons 19 Tar Heels have been selected in the National Football League draft. Florida State is the only ACC school to have more players drafted in that period.

Additionally, in the past four years 25 other Carolina players have signed free agent contracts with NFL teams.

"I've always had great respect for Coach Brown," says Natrone Means, who rushed for over 1,000 yards and won All-ACC honors in 1991 and 1992. "But, that increased when I had to make a very tough decision about whether to leave school early and enter the draft as a junior.

"He was supportive of me in every way possible and even made some calls for me to people he knew in the NFL. He never tried to influence me to come back for my final year, only to do what I decided was best for me and my family. He only made me promise to finish work on my degree and I plan to do that."

All these things put together have made Brown one of the most respected young coaches in the game. Thus, it's no surprise that his name seems to come up every time there is a coaching vacancy at another high profile school. But, Brown says he's perfectly happy in Chapel Hill.

"This is a special place— a great University and a wonderful college town," he says. "I'm excited about what we've done here and what the future holds. I can't wait for the 1995 season and our new facility will be fantastic."

In fact, at the end of last season Brown signed a two-year extension to his contract, taking it

BROWN'S gameday focus and intensity is matched only by his friendly style and personality off the field. (Donnan)

HEAD COACH MACK BROWN

Over the last four seasons the Tar Heels have won 34 games, played in three postseason bowl games, one preseason kickoff classic and had 44 players sign professional contracts.

through 1999. He has been heavily involved in the planning of an expansion of Kenan Stadium and the renovation of existing facilities there.

Brown came to Carolina from Tulane where he had rejuvenated the Green Wave's sagging football fortunes in just three years, taking his team to only its fifth bowl game since 1940 in his final season.

However, Brown may be best known for helping develop some of the most explosive offenses in the college game. As an offensive coordinator and assistant, he directed record-setting attacks at Oklahoma, LSU and Iowa State.

Here at Carolina he has now coached four 1,000-yard rushers in the past four years, the school's alltime leading receiver in Corey Holliday and quarterback Jason Stanicek, who has broken most of the Tar Heels' passing and total offense records. Carolina has averaged 415 yards of offense per game over the last three years and scored 32.9 points per contest the last four seasons. The Tar Heels have also been in the top three in the ACC in total defense in each of the last two seasons.

Brown says he has three goals for the student-athletes who play for him.

"The number one thing is for each young person to get his degree," he says. "We also want them to do the best they can academically to prepare themselves for later life.

"The second thing is that we want to win. And last, but certainly not least, we want the young people to have fun."

Brown's last Tulane team certainly had fun in 1987, in completing one of the fastest turnarounds in the country. Brown went to Tulane on December 16, 1984 as head coach and was also appointed the school's athletic director the following April. The Green Wave had suffered three straight losing seasons before Brown's arrival in New Orleans.

In his third season, he led Tulane to a 6-5 regular-season mark and earned a spot opposite Washington in the Independence Bowl. In the process, the Green Wave set school records for total offense and points. Tulane ranked 11th in the nation in scoring, averaging 32.5 points a game.

Brown had begun his full-time coaching career at Southern Mississippi in 1974, working with receivers for four seasons. He then spent one year coaching that same position at Memphis State.

At Iowa State, from 1979 to 1981, Brown served as receivers coach for one year and as offensive coordinator for the last two seasons. In his time as offensive coordinator the Cyclones broke 17 school and Big Eight Conference records and produced league leaders in rushing and total offense.

He then took an assistant's job at LSU where he ran the offense in 1982. The Tigers went 8-2-1 and played in the Orange Bowl.

That led to his first head coaching job at Appalachian State. In 1983, at the age of 32, he directed the Mountaineers to a 6-5 record. However, he left after that one season when offered a job he couldn't refuse— the offensive coordinator's position at Oklahoma.

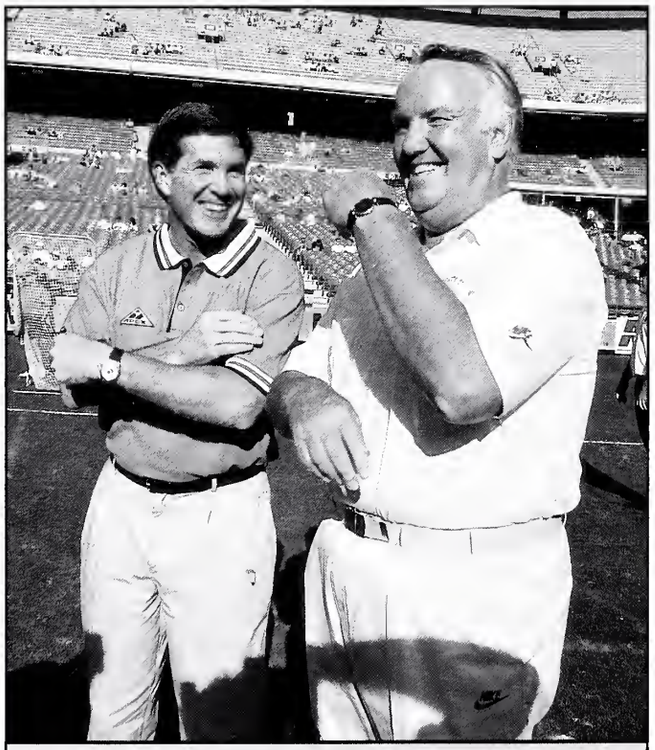
In his one year on Barry Switzer's staff, the Sooners were 9-2-1, won the Big Eight Championship and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. Brown helped Oklahoma develop its best passing attack in years as he coached quarterbacks Danny Bradley, a first-team All-Big Eight selection, and Troy Aikman, now with the Dallas Cowboys.

A native of Cookeville, Tenn., Brown attended Vanderbilt and Florida State. He lettered twice as a running back for the Seminoles in 1971 and 1972. He finished work on his bachelor's degree in education at FSU in 1974. While there, he worked on a part-time basis, coaching receivers and the junior varsity. He earned his master's degree in administration from Southern Mississippi in 1976.

Brown, born Aug. 27, 1951, was a three-sport star at Putnam County High School, lettering three times in football.

In June he was named the chairman of the Football Coaches' Committee and was named to the Board of Directors of the College Football Association. Brown was named last year to the American Football Coaches Association's Ethics Committee. Brown is currently on the NCAA Rules Commitee and was on the AFCA Public Relations Committee. He was chairman of the AFCA committee which puts together the organization's summer manual.

Mack and his wife, Sally, have four children— Matt (20), Katherine (18), Barbara (15) and Chris (13).



MACK BROWN and Southern Cal's John Robinson share a moment before the 1993 Disneyland Pigskin Classic Anaheim, Calif. The Tar Heels beat USC, 31-9.

He also assists with the publicizing of football and men's basketball and is the curator of the Smith Center Memorabilia Room. He serves as the public address announcer for UNC home events in men's soccer, swimming and lacrosse and as the press box PA announcer for football.

Lohse has won 47 national and district editing and writing awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America since 1980. His 1990, 1991, 1992 and 1993 lacrosse media guides and his 1991-92 men's basketball game programs were all judged "Best in the Nation" by CoSIDA.

The U.S. Olympic Committee picked Lohse to serve as a press officer at the 1988 Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea, working with the American diving and yachting teams. He also worked for the USOC at three U.S. Olympic Festivals — 1986 in Houston, 1987 in North Carolina and 1990 in Minneapolis. In 1994, he worked as assistant director of communications for Gay Games IV in New York City.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue University with a B.A. in political science, Lohse, 40, was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there and worked in the Boilermaker sports information office for three years as a student assistant. The Griffith, Ind., native and valedictorian of the Class of 1973 at Griffith High School spent two years as a graduate assistant in the Carolina Sports Information Office before being named assistant SID in 1979.

JOHN LOTZ
Assistant Athletic Director for Campus and Community Relations

John Lotz is now in his 16th year as an assistant athletic director at the University of North Carolina. He presently serves in the role of Assistant Athletic Director for Campus and Community Relations.

In that role, he coordinates a speaker's bureau for the UNC Department of Athletics.

Lotz received both his bachelor's and master's degree from East Texas State University. On the college level, Lotz began his career serving as the top assistant basketball coach at Carolina to Dean Smith for eight years. During his tenure, the Tar Heels won four Atlantic Coast Conference championships, four NCAA Eastern Regional titles, one NIT title and made four trips to the NCAA Final Four.

In 1972, the Flushing, N.Y., native was named head basketball coach at the University of Florida. In 1973, he was named Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year in his rookie season with the Gators. In 1977, his Florida team went 17-9 and he was honored with the SEC Coach of the Year award from UPI while his fellow coaches also voted him the prestigious Adolph Rupp Award given to the league's top coach.

Lotz attended Baylor University before transferring to ETSU. Lotz and his wife, Vicki, a counselor at UNC's Career Services, have two daughters. Corrie is in her second year at the UNC School of Pharmacy and Laci is a sophomore at Baylor University.

DAREN LUCAS
Director of Ticket Operations

Daren Lucas is in his fifth year as Director of Ticket Operations, where he oversees the ticketing for both Carolina's revenue and Olympic sport programs, as well as all ticketing operations for special events and concerts.

A 1987 graduate of UNC, Lucas was a free safety for the Tar Heel football team from 1983-85. He earned his degree in 1987 and completed his masters in sports administration at Ohio University in 1988.

Lucas returned to the University in 1988, where he worked at the Educational Foundation for three years before being promoted in 1991 to his current position.

Lucas, 29, is a native of Clinton, N.C., and has been married to his wife Dawn for six years.

BETH MILLER
Senior Associate Director of Athletics for Olympic Sports

Beth Miller was promoted in June 1995 to the role of Senior Associate Director of Athletics. In her present capacity, Miller is responsible for supervising the highly-successful 25-sport Olympic program at UNC. She has handled similar duties under different titles since 1985.

Miller is a 1968 alumnus of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She also earned an M.A. from ASU in the same fields a year later. She went on to receive a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State University in 1974.

From 1969-72, she served as head women's volleyball and basketball coach at ASU while also serving as an instructor in the PE and health department there. She came to Carolina in 1974 as an assistant professor of health and physical education and an assistant women's basketball and volleyball coach. She was named head women's volleyball coach in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four successive Atlantic Coast Conference titles from 1980-83 and five post-season tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina in 1984.

In 1979, she took on added duties as athletic business manager at Carolina. She retired from coaching volleyball after the 1983 season, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. In 1985, she was also put in charge of the Olympic Sports program.

Miller is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators and the Division I-A Women's Athletic Administrator's Steering Committee. She also serves on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the Board of Trustees of the N.C. Health and Fitness Foundation and he UNC Housing Advisory Board.

BOB SAVOD
Associate Athletic Director and Director of Marketing

Bob Savod, a native of New York, N.Y., and CCNY alumnus, serves as Associate Athletic Director and Director of Marketing at the University of North Carolina. He has been with the Athletic Department since 1976.

Savod's duties involve designing major marketing campaigns for the sale of football and basketball tickets. He is also responsible for corporate sponsorships, coordinating radio and TV affairs, serves as liaison with the Tar Heel Sports Network, Carolina Blue and the UNC trademark licensing program. Additional duties include serving as marketing director for the Dean Smith and Mack Brown TV and radio shows, coordinates half-time shows and negotiating media contracts.

Savod designed the specifications and coordinated the athletic department's negotiations for its "Multi-Media" program linking all radio and TV properties, game programs and other sponsorships into a "one stop" shopping package.

He was one of the first full-time sports marketing directors in the country and designed the "Carolina Fever" campaign in the late 1970s which helped sell out Kenan Stadium for 12 consecutive years. In 1981, the athletic department was named North Carolina "Marketing Organization of the Year" by the American Marketing Association. He is a frequent seminar speaker on sponsorship sales and blitz advertising.

Savod's wife, Judy, is a member of the Durham County Board of Equalization and Review. The Savods' daughter, Suzy, a UNC graduate, is currently a banking center manager and officer with NationsBank. Their son, Jason. graduated from Franklin and Marshall College and the UNC M.A.C. program and is currently a C.P.A. with Price-Waterhouse.

CHRIS SCHLETER
Director of Athletic Photography and Data Processing

Chris Schleter heads into his 14th season as director of athletic photography and data processing. He moved into his present position in July 1982, but has been associated with the Carolina football team for the past 22 seasons. He last missed a Carolina football game in December of 1974.

A 1977 Carolina graduate, Schleter has spent the last year and a half designing and implementing a department-wide computer network for the Athletic Department. He is responsible for managing that network as well as assisting with other computer projects within the department. In addition to his computer-related duties, he also supervises the shooting and editing of football game and practice videotape and serves as a consultant on videotape issues for all of the athletic department.

A native of Garrett Park, Md. and thereby an avid follower of the NHL's Washington Capitals, Schleter earned a Master of Science degree in computer science from Carolina in 1981 and since then has played an ever-increasing role in the technical operations of the department. A member of 12 bowl squads and a four-year letterman as a manager from 1973-77, he also supervises the operation and maintenance of all of the department's scoreboard and public address systems.

Probably his most notable distinction, however, is that he serves as host to an annual Super Bowl party featuring his world-famous meatballs. Every year, though, the party runs out of them well before halftime. He has vowed to do better in the future.

WILLIE SCROGGS
Associate Athletic Director for Operations

Willie Scroggs is beginning his 15th year as the Director for Operations at the University of North Carolina. Scroggs, who retired following the 1990 season after 12 years as Carolina's head lacrosse coach, now devotes his entire attention to his duties in athletic administration. He oversees all game operations for football, men's basketball and the 25 non-revenue sports at Carolina as well as supervising all outdoor facilities and the athletic dining hall.

The Baltimore, Md., native came to Carolina in 1978 as head lacrosse coach after being an assistant football and assistant lacrosse coach at his alma mater, Johns Hopkins University, for six seasons. At Carolina, Scroggs worked as assistant business manager and assistant to the athletic director, for three years before accepting his present position. He was also assistant director of the Smith Center from 1986-90. He was the tournament director for the NCAA Wrestling Championships held at the Smith Center in 1994.

Scroggs' 12 lacrosse teams compiled a record of 120-37, a winning percentage of .764. He led Tar Heel teams to their first NCAA and ACC championships in the sport, winning national crowns in 1981, 1982 and 1986 along with six ACC titles. The 1981 National Coach of the Year, Scroggs led his Tar Heels to 11 NCAA Tournament appearances and a 17-8 tourney record from 1980-90. His teams reached the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament nine times.

Scroggs served on the NCAA Men's Lacrosse Committee for six years, including as chairman in 1987-88 and 1992-95. He is a 1965 alumnus of Baltimore's City College High School and a 1969 Johns Hopkins graduate. He played lacrosse on three Blue Jay national championship teams as a midfielder. He coached lacrosse at the Gilman School in Baltimore for three years before going to Hopkins in 1972.

Scroggs is married to Karen Shelton, Carolina's head field hockey coach. They have a son, William Alexander, born in March 1990. Scroggs also has two daughters, Betsy, 21, a student at Johns Hopkins University, and Emily, 17, from a previous marriage.

DR. BRYAN SMITH
Head Team Physician

Dr. Bryan Smith is in his third season as a team physician having joined the UNC staff in 1993. Smith, a 1979 graduate of the University of North Carolina with a B.A. in chemistry, received his medical degree from Duke University in 1988.

A Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Orthopaedics at UNC, Smith was an assistant team physician at UCLA from 1991-93 while completing a sports medicine fellowship. He also was team physician for the United States Women's Select Basketball Team which won the gold medal at the R. William Jones Cup in Taiwan in 1992.

A native of New Bern, N.C., Smith was a North Carolina Merit and Carle C. Conway Scholar. He received his M.A. in exercise physiology from UNC in 1982 and earned a Doctor of Philosophy in that field from Michigan State in 1984.

He was a resident in UNC's Department of Pediatrics from 1988-91. Smith is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine, the American Medical Society for Sports Medicine, Sigma Xi Scientific Research Society, is a Fellow in the American Academy of Pediatrics, and is on a committee on the medical aspects of sports for the North Carolina Medical Society. He is married to Dr. Molly Froelich Smith, herself a 1979 UNC graduate who earned her medical degree at Carolina in 1988. They have one daughter, Mary Bryan.

DON STEELMAN
Assistant Football Athletic Trainer

Don Steelman is in his seventh season as Assistant Football Athletic Trainer. Steelman is the first full-time assistant trainer to work with the football program.

A 1985 Carolina graduate, he worked from 1984-86 as a student trainer.

Steelman, a native of Yadkinville, N.C., entered the University in 1983. After receiving an A.B. degree in education in 1987, he entered UNC's athletic training graduate program. He completed the two-year program in May 1989. Steelman became a full-time member of the Carolina football staff that summer.

Steelman is married to Pam Wooten Steelman, a 1989 education graduate of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

DR. TIMOTHY TAFT
Director of Sports Medicine

Dr. Timothy Taft serves as the team orthopaedic surgeon and Director of Sports Medicine at the University of North Carolina. Taft has worked at Carolina for more than two decades.

Taft, a native of St. Louis, Mo., received his A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1964 and his M.D. from the University of Missouri in 1969. He completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery at Carolina in 1974.

Taft holds one of only two endowed professorships in sports medicine in the United States, the Max Novich Distinguished Professor of Sports Medicine chair. He is a member of the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine, the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, the Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports for the North Carolina Medical Society and is an examiner for the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Taft served as team physician for the 1979 U.S. Pan American Games Team and the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team and as head physician for the 1981 U.S. World University Games Team. He has served as a team physician for U.S. basketball teams which have competed in the 1980 Olympics, 1981 World University Games, 1982 FIBA International Tournament, 1986 Men's World Championships and 1990 Women's World Championships.

Taft and his wife, Judy, have two children-Todd, 21, a member of the UNC band, and Becky, 16.

MONK TOMLINSON
Assistant Athletic Director

Monk Tomlinson is in his fifth full year as an assistant athletic director. In his role, Tomlinson oversees management of the football office operations, including the budget, housing, travel, meals, Kenan Fieldhouse and special events.

Tomlinson moved into the administrative position prior to the 1990 season after he served for two years as interior line coach for two seasons with the Tar Heels. He was one of five assistant coaches Brown brought to Chapel Hill when hired in December 1987 from Tulane. He had been a member of the Green Wave staff for three seasons.

A 1959 graduate of William and Mary, he began his coaching career at Maryville College in Tennessee. He was the offensive line coach there from 1959 to 1963. He then served as the school's head coach until 1971.

From 1971 to 1973, Tomlinson was the offensive backfield coach at Tennessee Tech. He then spent 11 years at Northeast Louisiana before moving on to Tulane.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Tomlinson was a three-year starter at William and Mary at offensive guard and linebacker. He received a master's degree from Tennessee in 1971.

Tomlinson is married to the former Shirley Ann Burgess. They have two children, Julie Ann and John Curtis.

SHERI WEST
Assistant Sports Information Director

Sheri West is in her sixth year as the Assistant Sports Information Director at North Carolina.

A 1988 Clemson University summa cum laude graduate with a B.S. in management, West, 29, handles all publicity needs for the sports of volleyball, field hockey, women's basketball, gymnastics, baseball, women's tennis and softball as well as assisting Rick Brewer with the day-to-day publicizing of football and men's basketball.

West, a native of Columbus, Ga., worked as a student assistant in the IPTAY office at Clemson for a year and then was a student assistant and graduate assistant in the Tiger sports information office for two years. She also worked on a master's degree in recreation management at her alma mater. West went on to work at the Atlantic Coast Conference as a service bureau intern in 1989-90.

West's 1989-90 ACC women's basketball media guide was judged best in the nation by the College Sports Information Directors of America in the conference publications contest and her 1994 men's basketball programs were rated fourth nationally. The 1995 programs were judged to have the best covers in the nation.

She served as a media liaison for UNC at the 1991 Final Four, the 1994 NCAA Women's Final Four and the 1991-94 NCAA Field Hockey Championships. She has been the media coordinator for NCAA women's basketball and field hockey first and second round games.

West is a member of CoSIDA and is a national member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

At the University of North Carolina, athletes are still first and foremost students in the classroom. While most universities make that claim, Carolina can substantiate it.

In October 1986, North Carolina opened its doors to its new Student-Athlete Development Center, located at the east end of Kenan Stadium, adjacent to Kenan Fieldhouse. The Center is a 10,000 square-foot state-of-the-art academic facility that sets the standard for other universities to follow.

"The Department of Athletics has always been committed to academics," says John Blanchard, director of athletic academic affairs. "But they felt they needed to make a tangible sign of their commitment by putting in a building that could really serve the students, and they went about doing it in a first-class manner. They erected the best building of its kind in the country."

The academics center boasts an impressive array of facilities for the benefit of all Tar Heel student-athletes in the 27-sport program. Included in the building, convenient to dorms and classrooms alike, are 15 computers, a resource room, a language lab with tape players, seven tutorial rooms, a large classroom which can be divided into two smaller ones and a 128-seat auditorium, used for seminars and lectures.

The center has recently added 10 new computers and two laser printers as well as a variety of multi-media software packages which include word processing programs, spreadsheets, CD-ROM reference materials and tutorials. The center has now has the latest and most up-to-date computer systems in place.

Also, Blanchard has assembled an enthusiastic and highly competent staff which includes Brian Davis, the associate director, and assistant directors Carolyn Claude, Elizabeth Ancarana and Caroline Fury. Bonnie Berglund serves as an office assistant in the resource room.

"The academic success of student-athletes is most directly attributed to the students themselves, but we have an outstanding staff, dedicated and professional and very caring individuals.

"When students struggle in college," says Blanchard, "95 percent of the time that struggle is in their freshman year, and that's due to all the adjustments they need to make. We have a program and staff that aids in those adjustments and minimizes the struggle.

"It involves getting our students fully acquainted with the University and the resources available to them. They learn about what we have to offer, the University advisory system, the University processes and procedures — everything that's available to them academically."

To try and ensure that athletes will not run into early academic difficulty, Blanchard and his able staff teach the freshmen necessary study skills, such as note taking and time management, and all freshman football players are required to attend study hall every night Sunday through Thursday at the Center. On those nights, tutors are available to assist the student-athletes in a variety of subjects. Also, a Freshman Academic Success seminar is held weekly in the fall and is required of all freshman athletes.

The Center is open from 8 a.m. to midnight during the week and from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sundays. During those hours, the facility is in almost constant use.

"Our students make great use of it," says Blanchard. "They use it for a variety of purposes and they use it throughout the day." Blanchard estimates that in any given week, that at least half of the University's 650 athletes use the Center.

The statistics bear out the fact that the Center has made an impact. In eight of the last nine years, and in all seven of Mack Brown's years in Chapel Hill, the Tar Heels have received honorable mention recognition from the College Football Association for graduating at least 70 percent of its football players. The CFA uses a five-year period from matriculation to graduation to base its awards.

In the last seven years, Carolina has placed 28 players on the ACC All-Academic Team. Since 1985, Carolina has doubled the number of student-athletes on the ACC Honor Roll.

In 1991 Randy Jordan earned an award for academic and athletic excellence from the National Association for Academic Advisors for Athletes. In 1992 Corey Holliday was named to the Hitachi/CFA Scholar-Athlete Team. Holliday, a business major, was the only player from the ACC to be named to the team which also included Heisman Trophy winner Gino Torretta of Miami. Holliday also was a recipient of the ACC Weaver-James Postgraduate Scholarship. While finishing his master's degree in sports administration, Holliday has served as an intern in the ACC office.

Jonathan Perry and Johnathan Robertson, members of the 1992 Peach Bowl team, are second-year law students. Perry, the Tar Heel's Defensive MVP, is studying at Emory, and Robertson is earning his degree from Harvard. Four players from the 1993 football team are medical students. Mike Armstrong, Shawn Hocker and Lawrence Winslow are attending UNC, and Mike Bolognesi is studying at Duke. Mike Morton, a senior on the 1994 team, was named to the Academic All-ACC football team and was named to the CFA/Hitachi Scholar-Athlete Team.

Blanchard emphasizes that the Student-Athlete Development Center is only "one concrete way in which things have become better. The Department of Athletics also initiated moving the academic support program into the College of Arts and Sciences. That has put us under the supervision of the University, which has been a very positive move."

Under Mack Brown, the football program has renewed its resolve to provide the best education possible for its students.

"The football program is in a position now where we are really doing things to maximize the academic opportunities here," says Blanchard.

"Coach Brown has been very supportive and creative in developing academic standards for the team and pressing the players to reach those standards. That's been very helpful to us as a program."

Additionally, Carolina has an unusually high graduation rate for players in the NFL. According to Blanchard, "78 percent of former Tar Heels that are active NFL players have earned their degrees from Carolina. Statistics indicate that our student-athletes strive for excellence on and off the field."

RICK TERRY won the Morris Mason Award as the 1995 Lifter of the Year.

The University of North Carolina strength and conditioning program underwent a new look in 1993, in attitude and philosophy, as well as in its physical appearance. And the advancements thus far have been nothing short of spectacular.

Jeff Madden joined the Tar Heels following the 1993 Peach Bowl and brought with him an enthusiastic, spirited style. Madden, an associate athletic director, and assistant strength and conditioning director George Smith, made structural and philosophical changes in the Tar Heels' strength and conditioning regimen which bolstered the advancements made in the first five years of the Mack Brown era at Carolina.

Madden was a key element in the University of Colorado's rise to national prominence in the late 1980s. A former offensive lineman at Vanderbilt and a member of the USFL's Memphis Showboats in 1984, Madden joined the Buffaloes in 1989 and was on hand as the Colorado won three consecutive Big Eight titles and was co-national champion in 1990.

Madden is not your average strength coach. He also teaches plyometrics, flexibility, mental toughness, nutrition, stretching, Proprioceptive Neuro-Muscular Facilitation (PNF), rehabilitation techniques and motivation. He is certified by International Sports Science Associations, the National Association of Speed and Explosion, and Peak Performance USA. He is a well sought-after clinician and motivational speaker.

Explosion is a key component to the Tar Heels' new regimen. Speed and explosion go hand in hand and Madden's football background serves him well in his training methods.

The Tar Heels have deemphasized a power style of training and instead installed a program which centers around speed, explosive power and flexibility.

"There is a big difference in philosophies," says Madden. "Now we are concentrating on flexibility, we concentrate on explosion. We mimic the exercises that they perform on the football field.

"The difference is more between power and explosion than between power and strength. You can be a 400-pound bench press guy and not be able to run. Then you don't have explosion. Speed and strength equals explosion. What we try and do is cross-formulate the two."

With changes in philosophy come adaptations and adjustments in the physical elements of the weight room itself.

"We have made tremendous physical changes around here," says Madden. "This was basically a nautilus-oriented gym and what we did was move the majority of those nautilus machines out and turn us into a free weight team. Now we are using explosive lifts like power cleans and snatches."

Madden does prefer the free weight system to the nautilus approach and says the extra benefits the free weights allow can be applied more readily to the game of football.

"A nautilus machine takes you through the same range of motion every time," Madden says. "When lifting a free weight you can go out of that range of motion. It is undetermined which way it is going to go. In a bench press or military press your left arm may not be as strong as your right therefore you have to overcompensate or work on that arm. Free weights allow that.

"It's just like playing against a defensive lineman. One play he may go left, the next he may go right or he may come right at you, you never know. Free weights help you overcome weaknesses. That's why we use explosive movements with our free weights and dumbbells."

"It's vital to know how each of the positions has to move. The key for us is to get our linemen running like linebackers, our linebackers running like defensive backs and our wide receivers and backs running like Carl Lewis."
-- Jeff Madden

Madden has identified the football-specific movements and applied his training techniques to them.

"Football is short, quick and powerful. If we were training long distance runners we would use more endurance exercises. But since we are training football players we have more quick and explosive exercises. We do use endurance as a foundation, though.

"Flexibility plays a big part because the more you can stretch a muscle then the more it can grow. If you have greater flexibility then you can improve your running technique and when you do that you can increase your speed and quickness and strength. Then you can have a pretty good football player."

Madden's football playing background is obviously a positive influence, as well.

"Knowing exactly what it was like to be in the trenches and understanding what the game is all about has helped me tremendously, " says Madden. "It's vital to know how each of the positions have to move. The key for us is to get our linemen running like linebackers, our linebackers running like defensive backs and our wide receivers and backs running like Carl Lewis.

"I can see in a drill whether a guy is getting beat by a strong move or a quick move. I can watch and tell if a player is getting beat on a particular side and then help him work to correct that deficiency.

"The bottom line is all I ask is that they work as hard and as diligently as they can every time they're in here."

What is the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation is the oldest foundation on the UNC campus and holds a status comparable to the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other fund-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

What is the purpose of the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation was established to offer financial aid to worthy student-athletes seeking an education at the University of North Carolina and to support the University's athletic program by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

How much support does the Educational Foundation actually provide? Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 6,000 student-athletes. Nearly 400 will be awarded scholarships during the 1995-96 school year at a cost of more than $4 million.

Is the Educational Foundation similar to a booster club? Absolutely not. It is a foundation in every sense of the word. The Educational Foundation operates in compliance with all rules and regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference. It is a tax-exempt entity as recognized by the Internal Revenue Service.

What are the different levels of giving to the Educational Foundation?

LITTLE RAM ($50) — Contributions of any amount are welcome, however, individuals contributing $50 or more have the opportunity to purchase season football tickets, gain access to the Rams Room in Kenan Fieldhouse for home football games, purchase mini-season basketball ticket packages when available and participate in the ticket exchange, purchase group travel packages, receive football and basketball media guides, the RamPage Newsletter, car window decals and invitations to annual Foundation functions which feature Carolina coaches as guest speakers.

RAM ($150) — In addition to that above, a Little Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets, the location of which is subject to the point system.

RAMESES ($300) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Rameses donor has the opportunity to purchase two season football tickets in a preferred location; additional tickets may be purchased, location subject to the point system.

BIG RAM ($600) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Big Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets in a preferred location and receive an assigned parking space.

SUPER RAM ($1,200) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Super Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase up to eight season football tickets in a preferred location and receive an assigned parking space.

Can a donor contribute in ways other than through the annual giving program? Yes. Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program consists of $15,000 and $30,000 life memberships as well as $40,000 and $75,000 endowed scholarships which may be set up through various giving vehicles.

Does the Foundation have chapters at the local level? There are currently 45 local Educational Foundation chapters which meet once a year. Many of the coaches attend these gatherings, giving donors an early opportunity to hear about recruiting, prospects for the upcoming season and schedules.

Who provides the leadership for the Educational Foundation? The Foundation's outside officers include a Chairman, three Vice-Chairmen, a Secretary, Treasurer, Counsel and Past Chairman. These officers, together with the at-large members and an Investment Committee, comprise the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is the decision-making body of the Educational Foundation and reports its actions to the Board of Directors.

The leadership within the Foundation office is provided by Moyer G. Smith. He is in his eighth year as President. He was appointed to the position in December 1986, replacing Ernie Williamson. There are also four vice-presidents within the office: John D. Cherry, Executive Vice-President; Neal B. Harrell, V.P. for Donor Services; Sue Walsh Stankavage, V.P. for Endowment; and Dawn D. McPherson, Administrative V.P. Effective August 1992, Ernie Williamson retired as V.P. for Endowment but continues to serve as a consultant to the Foundation.

Where are the Educational Foundation offices located? The offices are located in the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium adjacent to the Dean E. Smith Center.

How can one become a contributor to the Educational Foundation? By contacting the Educational Foundation at (919) 962-2393 or by writing P.O. Box 2446, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27515.

KENAN MEMORIAL STADIUM

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium. It is here in this natural valley that Tar Heel football teams have played for 68 years.

Kenan Stadium is generally regarded as one of the most beautiful football venues in the nation. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many say it is the most beautiful.

One national sports magazine rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it cannot be surpassed.

The stadium has been expanded several times since its completion in 1927. In each instance, though, great care was taken to keep its fundamental beauty intact.

The latest addition to the stadium is a new playing field, installed in the spring of 1995. The new turf includes an improved drainage system beneath the field that drains through the field itself rather than off the sides of the field as in the past.

KENAN MEMORIAL STADIUM played host to a record crowd of 54,300 on October 29, 1994, as the Tar Heels beat N.C. State, 31-17. (Hugh Morton photo)

The most recent stadium expansion took place prior to 1988 and involved adding 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines where the press box and chancellor's box formerly stood.

A new press box was constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line. It is one of the finest facilities of its kind in the nation.

Also part of the project were a permanent lighting system, a chancellor's lounge on the north side of the field and a football lettermen's lounge on the south side. The lights are part of a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. A similar system is used at Soldier Field, home of the Chicago Bears.

Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

"Kenan Stadium is aesthetically a very special sports arena and a great deal of thought was given to these improvements," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "Their aim is to maintain and even enhance the beauty of the stadium."

WILLIAM RAND KENAN JR.

William Rand Kenan Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and graduated from Carolina in 1894. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry. During his business career he was President of The Florida East Coast Railroad, The Florida East Coast Hotel Company, The West Palm Beach Water Company and the Florida East Coast Car Ferry Company.

He was a director of Florida Power and Light Company and built the first power plant in Miami in the early 1900s.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

Originally, the stadium was to be built through funds raised by alumni donations and by June 1926, a group of nearly 40 alumni had contributed $27,926. At this time, however, a copy of the prospectus and plan of financing the stadium came into the hands of Mr. Kenan who expressed an interest in the proposal. Kenan was considering establishing a memorial to his parents and the pressing need for a stadium and the possibilities of the beauty, dignity and permanence it presented, suggested to him that the benefaction he contemplated may well take the form of a memorial sta-

SOME THINGS JUST NEVER CHANGE!

"Those who have designed and built this structure have had a high sense of the fitness of things. Its location is more than merely suitable; it is well nigh perfect. It would be so anywhere, but it is peculiarly so in Chapel Hill, fitting as it does in the essential spirit of the University community. For the stadium rests, not in the midst of streets and buildings and people and things, but in the heart of the hills and trees. It is completely surrounded by nature herself; and man-made though it is, it fits into, and becomes a part of the surroundings. It belongs to the hills and the woodland, and curiously enough they seem to belong to it."

Greensboro Daily News, 1927 Dedication Day editorial

dium. The Stadium Committee immediately endorsed his proposal and on the very day in November 1926 on which Kenan visited the planned site, he announced his financial gift to build the stadium.

Mr. Kenan remained very interested in Kenan Stadium throughout his lifetime. In the 1950s he gave a $1,000,000 contribution to construct a second deck on the stadium. After Mr. Kenan's death in 1965 the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust, which was established by his will, donated $1,000,000 to enlarge and modernize Kenan Fieldhouse.

In 1988 the Kenan Trust made another $1,000,000 gift to complete the new chancellor's box on the North Side. Another lasting memory of William R. Kenan Jr. is the Kenan Athletic Scholarship Endowment valued at over $1,000,000. Each year a student athlete is awarded a full scholarship from this fund.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record at Kenan Stadium is 214-128-16. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there as Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

Under Mack Brown the Tar Heels have a 28-16-1 record at Kenan Stadium, including a 22-4 mark there in the last four seasons.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in 1963 the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, which increased capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 in 1979 and then to 52,000 in 1988.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, lounges, meeting rooms, weight-training quarters and other facilities. The players' lockerroom was renovated again in 1988.

The Student-Athlete Development Center was added to the fieldhouse in 1986. A 20,000 square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility.

For study purposes, it contains a language lab, video room, computer lab, theatre-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

The bottom half of the building encompasses one of the most complete strength fitness centers in the country. Workout rooms and performance labs contain the most current apparatus available.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected at Kenan. The highest attendance at a game there was the crowd of 54,300 which viewed Carolina defeat rival N.C. State, 31-17 in 1994. That topped the previous high of 54,100 which saw the 13th-ranked Tar Heels play host to number-one rated Florida State in 1993.

The 1983 season saw another first in the stadium — a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used in the 1987 Clemson game which was televised nationally by ESPN.

The 1991 season opener versus Cincinnati and the Clemson game, which was televised nationally by ESPN, were the first true night games ever played at Kenan Stadium. A total of seven night games have been played since the lights were installed, including the season-opening win over Texas Christian in 1994.

Kenan Stadium has long been regarded as one of the most beautiful football surroundings in the nation. Now, with expanding interest in the stadium's gridiron tenants, the athletic department has proposed that Kenan itself needs to expand.

Director of Athletics John Swofford announced last November a proposal that would add approximately 8,000 new seats to Kenan Stadium, bringing its capacity to 60,000. The project represents the most extensive Kenan face-lift since the fieldhouse was expanded in 1976.

The proposal is currently going through normal University channels and athletic department officials are hoping for approval from the Chancellor, the Board of Trustees and the Board of Governors in the near future.

"We are tremendously excited about this proposal," says UNC Director of Athletics John Swofford. "We are hoping to gain the appropriate approvals in the near future and then move as expeditiously as possible on the project following that."

The primary seating addition would be in the west end zone, the student section. The project aims to enclose that bleacher section, tying the north and south concourses to either end of the lower deck.

"One thing we will be careful about is protecting the aesthetics and beauty of the stadium," Swofford says.

Approximately 7,000 additional seats would be added to the west end, along with sufficient concession stands and rest rooms.

"We've had some people who said we ought to go to 70,000 or 75,000, but I think that would be a mistake," Swofford says. "We need to accommodate some needs, but we also want to fill the stadium."

That hasn't been a problem lately. Last season's contest with North Carolina State was viewed by 54,300, breaking the Kenan attendance record of 54,100 set just one year earlier against Florida State.

"In each of those games, for the first time in school history, we had to turn away some of our students," Swofford says.

Another, perhaps even more essential, facet of the project would be the construction of a new fieldhouse, as well as a renovation of the current one. The new installment would be built underneath and outside of the new proposed seating area in the west end zone. It would house the football offices, football weight room, equipment room, training room and Carolina locker room.

"Our space needs at the fieldhouse are very important to our total program," Swofford says. "There are gender-equity concerns that must be addressed. All of our athletes use these facilities. It would be the best thing economically for us to tie it all together in one project."

In addition, the press box on the south side of the stadium would have a mirror image of itself across the way. The structure on the north side of the stadium would be one large donor room, where donors could buy options to sit in the area during games. The lounge area in the rear of the box, coupled with the seating in the front portion of the box, adds the other 1,000 seats.

The earliest those renovations could start would be after the 1996 football season. However, the playing field was rebuilt in the spring of 1995.

The turf includes a new drainage system underneath the grass, which will drain through the field, instead of draining off the sides of the field as it did before. This project commenced March 1 and was on schedule for completion by the first of June, giving the field the summer months to mature. The field is comparable to the one the University of Tennessee installed prior to last season.

"Our space needs at the fieldhouse are very important to our total program. There are gender-equity concerns that must be addressed. All of our athletes use these facilities. It would be the best thing economically for us to tie it all together in one project."
-- UNC Athletic Director John Swofford

The entire project would be financed through a combination of funds from revenue generated from ticket sales and concessions, contributions from the Educational Foundation and bonded indebtedness from the athletic department through the sale of revenue-generating bonds.

Kenan Stadium opened in 1927 with a seating capacity of 24,000. The upcoming project will be the stadium's sixth renovation.

The upper deck was built in 1963, bringing the capacity to 43,000. In 1976, the University expanded the Fieldhouse. A total of 30,000 square feet of space was added for dressing rooms, coaches' offices, weight-training facilities, lounges and meeting rooms.

In 1984, permanent seating was extended to 50,000. Two years later, a 20,000-square foot Student-Athlete Development Center was added to the Fieldhouse.

Kenan reached its current capacity of 52,000 in 1988. Additions that year included a new press box, permanent lights, a chancellor's lounge and a football lettermen's lounge. The total cost of that project was $7 million.

These latest renovations to Kenan would be just another step in the drive to compete nationally. Just ask Carolina head coach Mack Brown.

"The continued improvement of ACC football over the past several years and our program's recent resurgence have increased our national recognition. Therefore, we are recommitting to the development of state-of-the-art facilities."

WHY TAR HEELS?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A letter found in 1991 by State Archivist David Olson lends credence to another more direct theory. A letter from Maj. Joseph Engelhard describes a fight involving men from North Carolina in which Lee was heard to have said, "There they stand as if they have tar on their heels."

The letter, dated August 24, 1864, told the tale of a battle on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va. Engelhard was elected secretary of state for North Carolina in 1876.

ALMA MATER

Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true
Singing Carolina's praises, Shouting "NCU"

Hail to the brightest star of all!
Clear its radiance shine
Carolina, priceless gem,
Receives all praises thine.

(refrain)
For I'm a Tar Heel born
I'm a Tar Heel bred,
And when I die
I'm a Tar Heel dead.
So it's —
Rah Rah, Carolina-lina
Rah Rah, Carolina-lina
Rah Rah, Carolina!
Rah! Rah! Rah!

A RAM FOR A MASCOT

For nearly 70 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses XXVI.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

Tar Heels rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

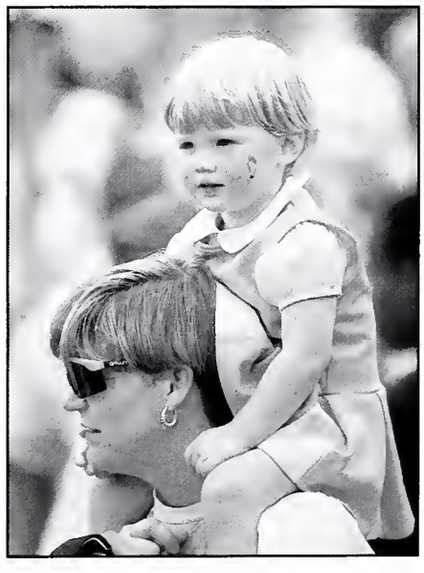
SCHOOL COLORS

The adoption of light blue and white as the University of North Carolina's colors dates back to the 19th Century.

When the University reopened following the War Between the States, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions such as commencement exercises, the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.



Since his youth, Dr. Michael Kenneth Hooker had dreamed of becoming chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. It was an ambitious goal for a child of the Virginia coalfields who was the first in his family to earn a college degree.

His earliest glimpse of Carolina came as a 6-year-old on summer vacation, and he fell under the university's spell.

"From the very first moment, my memories of Chapel Hill carry with them a quality of magic which is present to this day," Hooker recalls. "As soon as I step on campus, I am filled with that feeling of respect, of awe, of magic. So it is a dream come true, a dream of a lifetime, to be able to come back to Chapel Hill as the chancellor of this campus."

Dr. Michael K. Hooker
Chancellor

Hooker grew up in southwest Virginia, the son of a coalminer. His parents saw higher education as the key that would unlock doors to life outside the coalmines for their only son. Their financial sacrifice and his outstanding high school record helped lead Hooker back to Carolina.

As a rising high school senior in 1962, he participated in a special summer science and math program at Chapel Hill. After spending his freshmen year at Hampden Sydney College and his sophomore year at the University of New Mexico-Albuquerque, Hooker returned to Carolina to pursue a philosophy degree. He was at the university during some of its most turbulent times: the Speaker Ban Law controversy, a campus food worker strike, the civil rights movement and the early days of the Vietnam War.

He was a self-described "intellectual and social dilettante. I wanted to know about and participate in everything. I understood that I came with a background that was not as sophisticated as many of my fellow students. I understood that I needed to educate myself. I dove headfirst into virtually everything that I could encounter," he recalls.

"If I had one overarching image of myself as an undergraduate, it was that I was feasting at a table that was more bountiful than I had ever imagined a table could be — intellectually, socially and culturally," Hooker says. "I discovered the arts here, I discovered literature and poetry. And I discovered myself."

Hooker earned his bachelor's degree with highest honors from Carolina in 1969. He followed with master's and doctoral degrees in philosophy from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst in 1972 and 1973, respectively. He is an expert on 17th-century philosophy and has studied medical ethics and ethical problems linked to biotechnology.

Twenty-six years after leaving Chapel Hill to pursue graduate degrees, Hooker is returning to Carolina as its eighth chancellor. He started the job July 1 and will be formally installed Oct. 12.

Hooker's appointment as chancellor comes on the heels of an academic career that is extraordinary for a man of his years. He was president of a prestigious private school, Bennington College, at age 36; president of the University of Maryland-Baltimore County at age 40; and president of the five-campus University of Massachusetts system at age 47. At 49 Hooker will take the helm of one of the nation's top public universities.

UNC System President C.D. Spangler Jr. says Carolina is fortunate to call home one of its own as chancellor.

"As an alumnus, in a succession of challenging jobs in higher education, he has exhibited great imagination, energy and leadership," Spangler says. "With his broad experience, his profound appreciation for his alma mater, and his demonstrated commitment to scholarship and public service, Michael Hooker will be a forceful and effective leader for UNC-Chapel Hill."

Former trustee chair David J. Whichard II says Hooker's qualifications are a superb match for the position. "He is one of the bright, dynamic, young leaders in higher education today. He will do an excellent job."

Search committee chair and former trustee chair John W. Harris says the new chancellor has "a real understanding of the relationship between technology and higher education, an understanding of what this institution and others like it are going to have to do to stay at the vanguard of education in this country, if not the world."

Peers also laud Hooker's success over the years.

"He has a distinguished academic career and an equally distinguished record of service in senior administrative positions," says Dr. Thomas Hearn, president of Wake Forest University and a fellow philosopher.

Billy O. Wireman, president of Charlotte's Queens College, praises Hooker's selection as chancellor. "Dr. Hooker's accomplishments in higher education are well known," he says. "He almost single-handedly gave Vermont's Bennington College a future, and his work at the University of Massachusetts is a model of openness and racial sensitivity."

Duke University President Nan Keohane says Hooker "brings strong strategic skills and a good measure of personal sensitivity to people and problems."

As he prepares to lead Carolina into the third century of public higher education and into the 21st century, Hooker sees colleges and universities primed for major change. The biggest challenge, he says, will be "to get in front of the curve of change and work together as a community of academics to adapt to changes in the external environment and to respond appropriately."

Carolina will play a new role. While continuing to educate the state's sons and daughters, the university must now supply "the fuel rods that will drive economic growth in the state through its research," Hooker says.

Meanwhile, Hooker asserts, Carolina must sustain its 200-year-old contributions to North Carolina's lifeblood: producing leaders in government, business, the humanities and other areas.

While industries can rely on technology to increase productivity, higher education remains largely labor intensive, Hooker says.

"The fundamental unit of technology in higher education is the piece of chalk held by the hand that is connected to a talking head," he explains. "That has been the case since 1250. What we have to do is find ways to improve our productivity by improving the use of human labor married to the information technologies that are now becoming available."

Hooker returns to Carolina from the president's post at UMass, where he was responsible for more than 58,000 students, 3,378 faculty and nearly 7,000 staff and administered a $1.2 billion budget. He assumed the presidency in September 1992 and immediately began crafting changes to improve the system. He first focused on teaching and learning, diversity and multiculturalism, and economic development. Later he tackled major restructuring of two campuses.

A staunch believer in accountability, he issued the system's first-ever report card. Earlier this year, Hooker presented an unprecedented seven-part plan designed to lead the system into the 21st century. He is credited by the leadership of the Massachusetts Legislature with improving the university's image among its members, leading to three years of strong budget growth during his administration.

"He's done a very good job in articulating a vision for the state and university," UMass trustee Daniel Taylor said in December 1994. "He's commanded the attention of groups we need, he's assembled a good staff, and he's raised very high the issue of accountability."

Hooker went to UMass from the 10,300-student University of Maryland-Baltimore County, which he led from 1986 to 1992. There he was recognized for strong support of minority educational needs, cultivating university-business ties and enhancing town-gown relationships.

"His leadership has helped propel UMBC into the forefront of contemporary higher education, with a strong focus on emerging technologies and a solid foundation in the liberal arts," University of Maryland Chancellor Donald L. Langenberg has said. "His firm commitment to serving the educational needs of minorities, of the business sector, and of the greater Baltimore community have led to a number of innovative programs that serve as models for universities across the nation. His powerful intellect is matched by a profound compassion: he is, in short, a superb academic leader."

As president of the primarily commuter campus, Hooker was credited with boosting total enrollment by 20 percent and graduate enrollment by 150 percent. Average freshman SAT scores jumped dramatically — by 150 points overall and by nearly 250 points for black students. Retention also improved.

Hooker increased academic quality at UMBC, fostering a nationally recognized Honors College and launching a multi-million-dollar scholarship program for black students gifted in science and technology. He inspired several academic-business initiatives in biotechnology, biomedical engineering and other fields.

Hooker governed Vermont's Bennington College, a non-traditional, 600-student liberal arts school, from 1982 to 1986. His tenure was chronicled by the Yale University School of Management as an example of excellent management. He was credited with bringing financial stability to the college and leading efforts to create the school's first endowment.

In 1984, while at Bennington, Hooker was featured in Esquire magazine's story on the "Best of the New Generation" — along with future U.S. President Bill Clinton.

From 1975 to 1982, Hooker held several posts at Johns Hopkins University, including dean of undergraduate and graduate studies for two years and member of the philosophy faculty. He received the Homewood Award "for outstanding service to students, to student life, and to the university."

He taught philosophy at Harvard University as an assistant professor from 1973 to 1975.

Hooker has been a national leader in educational organizations throughout his career. He is a member of the Association of Governing Boards' Advisory Board of Presidents. He served on the American Association of State Colleges and Universities' Committee on International Programs and chaired the American Council of Education's Commission on Leadership Development.

In the business sector he has served on the boards of Boston's nationally recognized public television station WGBH, the Institute for Global Ethics, the Biotechnology Center of Excellence Corp. and the Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy Association of the United States.

An authority on medical ethics who has written scholarly articles on applied ethics in business and on the ethics of biological warfare, Hooker chaired a biotechnology advisory panel for the U.S. Congress' Office of Technology Assessment from 1982 to 1984 and served on the Commission on the Future of Academic Health Centers in New England.

A former member of the editorial board of the Journal of Business Ethics, Hooker was editor of "Descartes: Critical and Interpretive Essays" and "Leibniz: Critical and Interpretive Essays" and author of other scholarly articles. His accolades include an honorary degree from Drexel University, a Danforth Associateship and a Woodrow Wilson Dissertation Fellowship.

Hooker is the father of a 13-year-old daughter, Alexandra. His wife, Carmen, a Philadelphia native, served six terms in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. A dynamic voice for health-care reform, she chaired the House Health Care Committee for four years. She earned a bachelor's degree from Springfield College and a master's degree in regional planning from UMass-Amherst in 1984. She has two daughters: Jennifer, 27, a public school teacher in Holyoke, Mass., and Cyndi, 23, an art student at the Museum School in Boston.

• The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the nation's first state university, is shepherding U.S. public higher education into its third century. Since its founding in 1793, more than 1,500 state-supported colleges and universities have joined Carolina's ranks.

• Carolina's 24,000-member student body studies in 13 colleges and schools representing more than 100 fields. UNC offers 66 bachelor's, 86 master's, and 62 doctoral degrees, as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy and law. Five health affairs schools, representing one of the country's most complete academic health centers, are well-integrated with a prestigious liberal arts program.

• Among the most comprehensive U.S. schools, Carolina belongs to the select group of 58 research campuses forming the Association of American Universities.

• President Clinton's keynote speech in Kenan Stadium Oct. 12, 1993, was among the highlights of a Bicentennial Observance marking the university's 200th anniversary as the nation's first state university. The eight-month observance concluded May 15, 1995.

• The Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina, the largest fund-raising effort in UNC history, exceeded its initial $320 million goal 16 months ahead of schedule. The campaign set a new $400 million mark in December 1993 and to date has raised $413.8 million in gifts and pledges. The campaign ends June 30. Contributions to the campaign are bolstering the endowment, strengthening libraries and providing more student scholarships and faculty support.

• Ten Carolina graduate programs earned top 20 rankings in the March issue of U.S. News and World Report magazine. The department of sociology ranked fifth overall, and its social stratification concentration placed fourth. The master's program in public administration tied for sixth, the same ranking held by the School of Nursing. Also scoring high were the departments of history, 13th, and its women's history program, fourth; psychology, 13th; political science, 16th; English, 17th; as well as the Kenan-Flagler Business School 18th.

• U.S. News and World Report's 1994 graduate program guide listed Carolina programs among the nation's top five in primary care, family medicine, rural medicine, public health, health services administration, dentistry and sociology. Also making the top 25 list were drama, pharmacy, social work, chemistry, computer science, biology and music.

• In September 1994, a book published by Arco rated Carolina's Honors Program one of eight best in the nation for quality and affordability. In "Ivy League Programs at State School Prices: The 55 Best Honors Programs at State Universities Nationwide," Carolina scored excellent ratings in program quality, intellectual setting, and town and campus setting. The overall program received the book's highest rating of three stars.

• A 1994 U.S. New and World Report "America's Best Colleges" survey rated UNC the country's sixth-best value for "sticker price" when judging out-of-state tuition, fees, room and board. A 1994 Money magazine poll picked Carolina as the 12th-best overall educational bargain in the country and top value among public universities when ranked by in-state tuition. The magazine also ranked Carolina as the fifth most selective among all schools.

• Richard Moll, author of "The Public Ivys: A Guide to America's Best Colleges and Universities," included Carolina among eight public schools equal to those in the Ivy League and judged Chapel Hill "the perfect college town." Sports Illustrated magazine seconded the latter nod, calling Chapel Hill "the purest example we could find of a college town that is defined by a university — and a good university."

• Carolina is among nine public schools included in the new "Barron's Top 50: An Inside Look at America's Best Colleges."

• The 24,000-member student body is drawn from all 100 North Carolina counties, the other 49 states, two territories and more than 80 countries.

• In 1993, Dacia Toll of Bethesda, Md., became the fifth consecutive Rhodes Scholar from UNC, the 10th Carolina student chosen since 1980, and the 33rd selected since 1902. UNC also produced the first black woman recipient. Carolina is one of the country's most successful public universities in producing Rhodes winners.

• In April, Jason Cox of Clayton and

Scott B. Wilkins of St. Louis were named 1995 Luce Scholars — more than any other U.S. college or university. They also brought UNC's Luce Scholar total to 18 since the prestigious program began in 1974, second only to Harvard University with 21. Luce Scholars win a 10-month internship in Asia.

• In March, three Carolina students — Stacey Brandenburg of Atlanta, Cynthia Greenlee of Greensboro and Myles Pressler of Lexington, Ky. — were selected as 1995 Truman Scholars. "As the national head of the (scholarship) program said, not even Harvard and Radcliffe have three put together," said Dr. David Griffiths, faculty coordinator. Sixty-nine students were chosen from among 763 candidates. Recipients receive $30,000 for graduate study.

• Also in March, Caitlin Reed of Groton, Mass., was one of 10 outstanding American science students selected as a 1995 Churchill Scholar. The award, which involves study at Cambridge University in England, is valued at about $15,000 for tuition and fees, with an additional living allowance of $5,000 to $6,000. Reed is the fourth consecutive UNC student chosen for the honor in the past five years.

• In December 1994, senior Craig Snydal, a physics major and mathematics minor from Annondale, N.J., was named Carolina's third consecutive Marshall Scholar. Marshall scholars study at Cambridge University for two years of graduate study.

• In June 1994, Carolina was among the most popular universities of students recognized in the latest edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." When asked that a specific college or university be notified of their recognition in "Who's Who," Carolina was the fifth most frequently chosen.

• Carolina consistently has ranked near the top among all member schools of the American Association of Universities in graduation rates during the past decade, ranking third in 1993-94. The five-year graduation rate for undergraduates continues to improve, increasing from 71 percent for freshmen who entered in 1982 to 83 percent for those who entered in 1988. During that same period, the average graduation rate for other AAU members remained about 59 percent.

• The five-year graduation rate for black students at UNC has increased from 44 percent for the 1982 freshman class to more than 65 percent for the 1987 freshman class. This trend showed that nearly 50 percent more black freshmen are being retained through graduation.

• With a current five-year graduation rate of 65 percent for black students, UNC is near the top among all American Association of University members. In comparison, the average five-year graduation rate for black students at other top research schools is only 43 percent.

• The average SAT scores for entering freshmen at Carolina increased 7.3 percent during the past 10 years, from 1,051 in 1984 to 1,128 in 1994. Based on current projections, the fall 1995 freshman class is expected to have an average SAT score of approximately 1,143, up from 1,128 last year.

• A new first-ever follow-up study of 1988 UNC graduates by University Career Services showed most were satisfied with their jobs and salaries. Those alumni reported an average annual salary of $37,343 — $6,000 more than the $31,209 national average for college graduates.

• Carolina alumni include dozens of North Carolina legislators, judges and governors, as well as U.S. President James K. Polk; authors Thomas Wolfe, Walker Percy and Shelby Foote; journalists Charles Kuralt, Tom Wicker, Ed Yoder, Roger Mudd, Deborah Potter, Jonathan Yardley and Eugene Roberts; and editorial cartoonist Jeff MacNelly. The late U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin Jr.; pollster Lou Harris; civil rights leader Julius Chambers; the late bandleader Kay Kyser; corporate banker Hugh McColl; geneticist Dr. Francis Collins; NBA basketball superstar Michael Jordan; actor Andy Griffith; Broadway composer Richard Adler; and fashion designer Alexander Julian. More than 202,465 living alumni reside in all 50 states and 125 foreign countries.

• UNCs full-time faculty of 2,328 includes many who hold or have held major positions in virtually every national scholarly or professional association. Overall, nearly 94 percent have earned the highest degree in their field. Carolina's faculty was ranked foremost in the Southeast and among the top 20 at research universities in the most recent comprehensive study by the National Academy of Sciences.

• Current faculty include 11 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 16 of the academy's Institute of Medicine, and 24 of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

• Some hold key government posts, such as Dr. Kenneth E. Thorpe, associate professor of health policy and administration, and Dr. Michael Stegman, former chair of the public policy analysis curriculum, who have taken leadership roles in the Clinton administration for health-care reform and urban policy, respectively.

• Other Carolina faculty hold top jobs in national professional and public organizations, such as Judith Wegner, law school dean and president of the Association of American Law Schools; Dr. Sidney Smith Jr., cardiology chief and president of the American Heart Association; Dr. J. Robert Cox, professor of communication studies and president of the Sierra Club; and Dr. George F. Sheldon, surgery chair and president of the American Surgical Association, the nation's oldest surgical group.

• Carolina boasts more endowed chairs held by black faculty members than any other U.S. university. In 1994, The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education ranked the Kenan-Flagler Business School among the "Best Business Schools for Blacks," citing it among four with the highest percentage of black faculty.

• Continuing a lengthy line of blood research, Carolina scientists successfully transferred healthy genes into hemophiliac dogs, resulting in the dogs producing the blood clotting factor absent in hemophiliacs.

• Computer scientists are pioneers in virtual worlds research, using sophisticated computer technology to create realistic but imaginary worlds. Applications may help doctors fight cancer and biochemists design new drugs.

• In September 1994, President Clinton named Lori Todd, assistant professor of environmental sciences and engineering at the School of Public Health, one of 15 young scientists nationally to receive 1994 Presidential Faculty Fellow Awards.

• For federal fiscal year 1993, the latest for which statistics are available, UNC ranked 18th nationally among public universities in total expenditures for research and development. Carolina ranked 13th nationally in expenditures of federal funds for research and development among public universities.

• Among public universities, Carolina ranked sixth nationally and first in the 13 Southeastern states in the receipt of support for research and development from the National Institutes of Health in federal fiscal year 1994.

• Carolina received $244.6 million in new extramural awards during state fiscal year 1993-94. This was the 12th straight year that extramural funding at UNC has increased. Over that period, extramural funding rose from $55.1 million to $244.6 million, an increase of 344 percent.

• According to the National Science Foundation, UNC ranked 20th overall and 11th among public universities in total federal grants for science during federal fiscal year 1992. Carolina was the only university in the 13 Southeastern states to be ranked in the top 20.

• North Carolinians benefit daily from UNC's commitment to public service. Results are visible in classrooms, courthouses, town halls, and doctors' offices from Manteo to Murphy.

• A new four-year teacher education program focusing on birth to kindergarten will combine instructional perspectives from several Carolina departments. Beginning this fall, the new birth-kindergarten program will start preparing teachers to work in community settings for infants, toddlers, preschoolers and their families with special emphasis on at-risk populations.

The four-year program will unite educators and researchers from the schools of education, social work, nursing, public health, medicine, psychology department and the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center.

• City and regional planning students recently helped Tyrell County leaders develop an award-winning economic development plan based on the potential ecotourism value of the area.

• The Principals' Executive Program and Institute of Government offer unprecedented career development opportunities for public school and local government administrators, respectively.

• The School of Medicine's TEACCH program serves as a statewide — and internationally heralded — resource for educating children with autism and other communication handicaps.

• The School of Medicine, the state's largest single source of new physicians, helps meet the need for primary-care providers by sending 58 percent of its 1994 graduates to residencies in family, internal and pediatric medicine, as well as obstetrics and gynecology. Students in the schools of pharmacy, dentistry and nursing serve Tar Heels in rotation programs from the mountains to the coast.

Jamie Moncrief

• Dr. Ed Bergman, professor of city and regional planning, and his graduate students spent the past year helping the Alleghany County Chamber of Commerce, Blue Ridge Electric Membership Corp., Alleghany County and the Town of Sparta develop an extensive economic development plan to capitalize on successful recruitment of Bristol Compressors, a major manufacturer, to Sparta.

• With record low shellfish harvests in recent years, three Carolina experts are changing the face of the North Carolina fishery by improving the science and policies that surround it. Institute of Marine Sciences researchers Dr. Charles Peterson and Hunter Lenihan comb the state's bottomland for clues to better oyster production.

And Dr. Dirk Frankenberg, marine sciences curriculum director, helps bring scientists, fishermen and processors together in groups such as the Blue Ribbon Oyster Commission, organized last year by the General Assembly.

• A new on-line service through UNC's Academic Affairs Library makes important government information and more as close as the nearest personal computer. GPO Access results from an agreement between the Government Printing Office and Carolina giving library users access to federal documents such as the Congressional Record, Federal Register and congressional bills. The Academic Affairs Library is one of only six gateways in the nation to GPO Access. Users can tap resources off site.

• The Institute of Government provides a virtual smorgasbord of local and state government data through NCINFO, a gopher (ncinfo.iog.unc.edu) and World Wide Web server site (http: // ncinfo.iog.unc.edu).

A collaboration among the Institute of Government, the North Carolina League of Municipalities and the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, NCINFO offers free, 24-hour access to several services. In its first two months of operation this year, more than 19,007 users accessed the gopher and 23,209 visited the World Wide Web site.

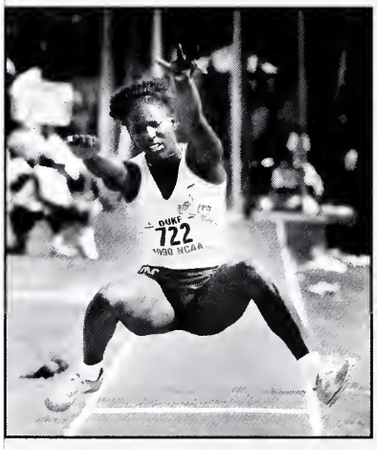
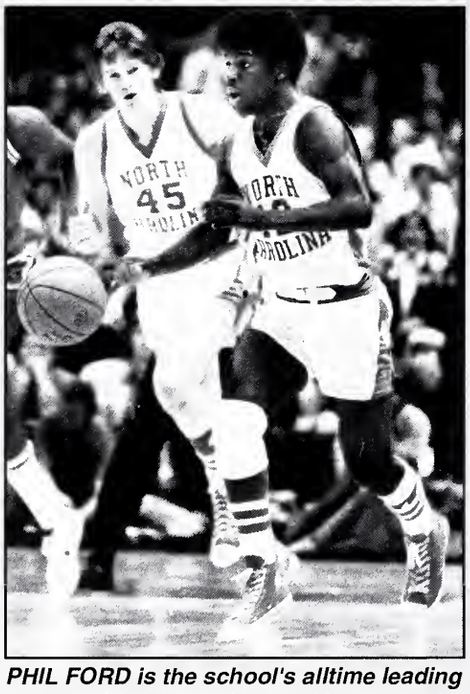
CHARLOTTE SMITH'S three-point basket at the buzzer lifted the Tar Heels to the 1994 NCAA women's basketball national championship. Three women's programs at UNC have won national team titles. (Jim Gund)

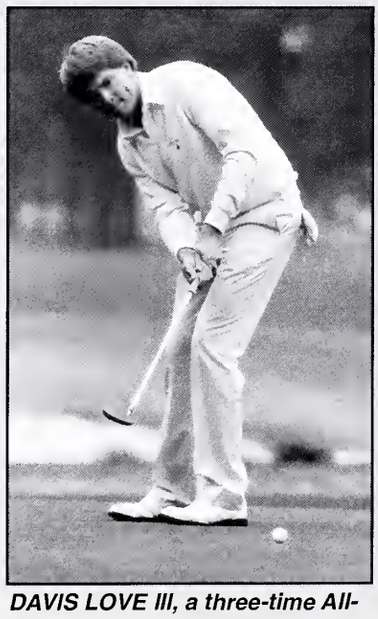


David Minton

SHARON COUCH won eight ACC titles, led the Tar Heels to seven ACC team titles, was named the Patterson Medal winner in 1991 and earned three ACC Meet MVP honors. Carolina's women's track team has won 14 of the last 16 ACC team championships, indoors and outdoors. Last year the Tar Heels became the first team in ACC history to win the women's cross country, indoor and outdoor track titles in the same year.



PHIL FORD is the school's alltime leading scorer with 2,290 points and is second in assists with 753. Ford is now an assistant coach with the Tar Heels. His boss, Dean Smith, has won 830 games, two NCAA titles, 10 regional crowns and 12 ACC Tournament championships.



DAVIS LOVE III, a three-time All-America from 1983-85, has won more than $5 million on the PGA Tour.

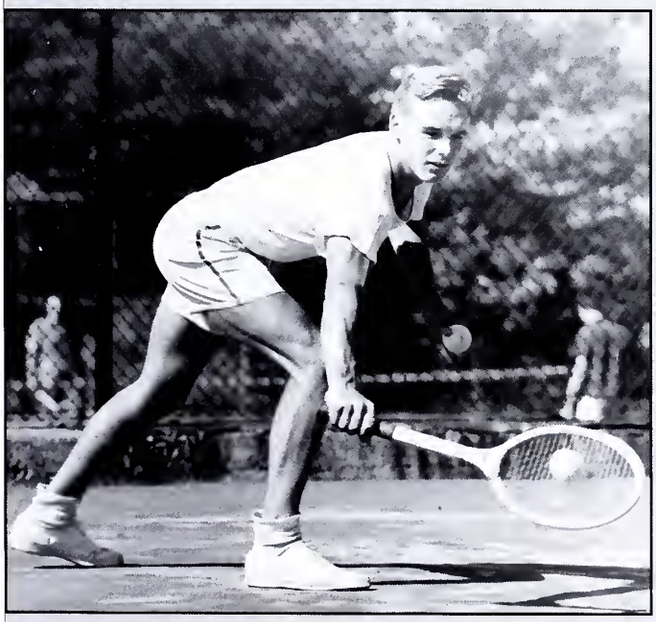
JIM BEATTY was a five-time All-America distance runner at Carolina in the late 1950s. He went on to set four world records, compete in the 1960 Olympic Games and was awarded the Sullivan Award as the country's top amateur athlete in 1962.

Brett Whitesell

TISHA VENTURINI (left) and MIA HAMM are two of the galaxy of stars whom have led the Tar Heels to nine consecutive NCAA women's soccer championships. Hamm was the National Player of the Year in 1992 and 1993 and Venturini won the same honor in 1994. Carolina head coach Anson Dorrance has a 323-9-10 record in 16 seasons and has directed UNC to 13 national titles.



VIC SEIXAS is considered the greatest men's tennis player in Carolina history. In 1948, Seixas was the NCAA runnerup in singles and after graduation he went on to win the singles titles at Wimbledon (1953) and the U.S. Open (1954). The men's tennis program at Carolina has accounted for more ACC team titles than any other sport with 24.

DENNIS GOLDSTEIN was the National Player of the Year as he led the lacrosse team to the 1991 NCAA title. That was UNC's fourth NCAA lacrosse championship.

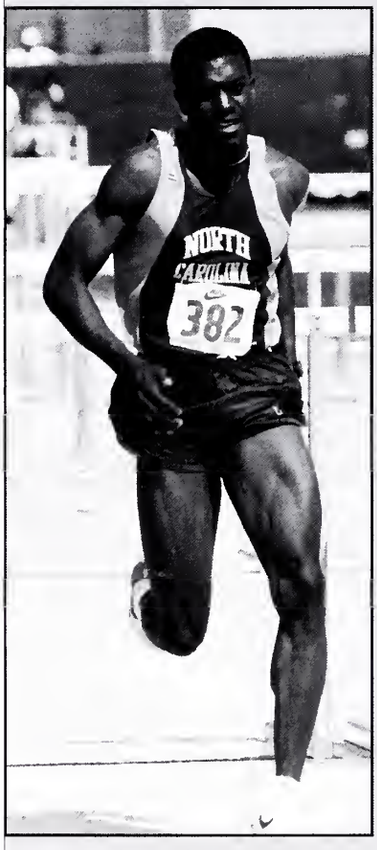
LESLIE LYNESS led Carolina to the 1989 NCAA field hockey championship. Head coach Karen Shelton's Tar Heels have won 11 ACC championships, played in six national finals and advanced to the Final Four eight times in the last nine years. Shelton was the 1994 National Coach of the Year.



ALLEN JOHNSON won the 1992 NCAA Indoor 55-meter hurdles crown. In 1995 Johnson won the U.S. and world 60-meter hurdles championships and then placed second at the 1995 U.S. Outdoor Championships in the 110 hurdles. (Bill Richards)

B.J. SURHOFF was the National Player of the Year and the nation's number one draft pick in 1985. Surhoff and pitcher Scott Bankhead represented Carolina and the United States on the 1984 Olympic Team.

TAILBACK CURTIS JOHNSON

1994 SEASON REVIEW

NOTES, HIGHLIGHTS & ACHIEVEMENTS

* The Tar Heels posted a record of 8-4. That included wins over N.C. State, Wake Forest and Duke to claim the state championship for the second consecutive year.

Carolina was invited to play Texas in the 1994 Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas. That marked the third straight year in which Carolina received and accepted a postseason bowl bid.

* Carolina's 8-4 record marked the Tar Heels' fifth consecutive winning season. It was the first time UNC had strung together five straight winning seasons since 1979-83 and only the second time that had happened in the last 50 years.

* The Tar Heels finished the season ranked 21st in the country in the USA Today/CNN poll and 27th in the Associated Press poll.

* Over the last five years MACK BROWN'S teams have a 40-18-1 record.

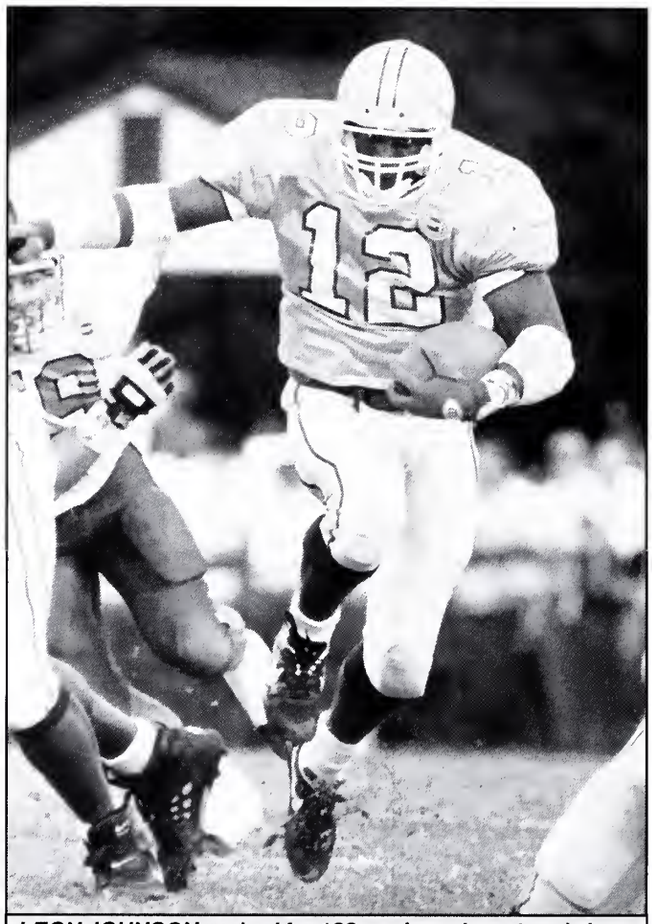
The Tar Heels have been especially difficult to beat at Kenan Stadium in that time. Carolina has a record of 26-6-1 at Kenan Stadium over the last five years.



LEON JOHNSON rushed for 133 yards and one touchdown and caught two scoring passes to lead UNC to a 31-17 win over N.C. State. (Halverson)

* Four Carolina players received Atlantic Coast Conference all-star honors. Senior tight end GREG DELONG and junior defensive end MARCUS JONES each were named to the All-ACC first team and sophomore tailback LEON JOHNSON and senior offensive tackle ROGE PURGASON each received second-team all-conference honors.

Marcus Jones was a third-team All-America selection by the Associated Press.

* Senior co-captain linebacker MIKE MORTON was named to the ACC's All-Academic Team. Morton, the Tar Heels' leading tackler in 1994 with 126 stops, was also named to the College Football Association/Hitachi Scholar-Athlete Team.

* Junior wide receiver MARCUS WALL was picked by a vote of the media as the Most Valuable Special Teams Player in the Sun Bowl. Wall was outstanding in the 35-31 loss to Texas. He set an Atlantic Coast Conference alltime bowl game record for all-purpose yards with 227 and scored a pair of touchdowns.

The Fayetteville, N.C. native scored on an 82-yard punt return and caught an eight-yard touchdown pass. He finished the game with seven receptions for 82 yards and had 30 yards rushing.

* MARCUS WALL set UNC records for touchdown receptions and kickoff returns yards in one season and tied the school mark for touchdown catches in one game.

Wall caught nine TD passes this year in the regular season and added a 10th in the Sun Bowl. The previous best was eight set by three players. He had 743 yards on kickoff returns, breaking the record of 734 yards he established in 1993. Wall had three touchdown receptions in the Tar Heels' 50-0 win at Wake Forest.

* Junior defensive end MARCUS JONES named the Tar Heels' Most Valuable Defensive Player and MARCUS WALL was named Carolina's Most Valuable Offensive and Special Teams Player.

* Freshman split end OCTAVUS BARNES set Sun Bowl and UNC bowl game records for receptions and receiving yards. Barnes caught nine passes for 165 yards, including a 50-yard touchdown pass early in the fourth quarter.

Barnes set the UNC record for postseason receiving yardage and tied Corey Holliday's standard of nine catches which he made against Alabama in the 1993 Gator Bowl.

* OCTAVUS BARNES also set an ACC record for receiving yards in one season by a freshman. Barnes led the Tar Heels with 32 catches for 609 yards. The yardage total broke the previous mark of 593 yards by Georgia Tech's Greg Lester in 1987. Barnes also a UNC record for freshmen for receiving yards in one game (165 against Duke and Texas).

* MARCUS WALL and OCTAVUS BARNES became the first tandem in Tar Heel history to make at least 20 receptions and average 19 yards per catch.

Barnes had 32 catches for 609 yards, an average of 19.0 per grab. Wall had 29 catches for 569 yards, an average of 19.6 yards per reception.

* Senior quarterback JASON STANICEK rewrote the Carolina record book. Stanicek became the school's alltime total offense leader with 5,497 yards, breaking Charlie Justice's record which stood since 1949.

Stanicek also set UNC career marks for the most pass completions (372), attempts (622), completion percentage for players with at least 200 attempts (59.8), yards (4,683), and pass efficiency rating for players with at least 300 attempts (127.84).

MARCUS WALL returns a kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown in Carolina's 41-40 win at Duke. Including the Sun Bowl, Wall had 10 touchdown catches, one score by rush and both kickoff and punt returns for scores. (Worrell)

* Sophomore tailback LEON JOHNSON led the Tar Heels in all-purpose yardage with 123.6 yards per game, the second-highest figure in the ACC. Johnson was the Tar Heels' leading ground gainer with 805 yards.

Johnson tied a school record for running backs which he set in 1993 with 29 receptions. He also added an 88-yard punt return for a touchdown at SMU, the second-longest return in school history.

Johnson rushed for 100-plus yards in three games, including a season-best 140 at Duke, 133 against N.C. State and 110 against Georgia Tech.

* Junior quarterback MIKE THOMAS shattered several UNC passing records in the Sun Bowl against the University of Texas. Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. He set a personal career high for completions in less than two quarters and set UNC bowl game records in several passing categories.

Thomas' 23 completions broke Jason Stanicek's record of 19 set against Alabama in the 1993 Gator Bowl. His 39 attempts matched Scott Stankavage's figure against Florida State in the 1983 Peach Bowl. The 298 yards passing surpass Stanicek's total of 225 against Alabama.

Thomas came on in relief of injured starter Jason Stanicek in week nine versus Clemson and passed for 881 yards in the last four games, including the Sun Bowl.

* The Tar Heels again led the ACC in rushing with an average of 226.9 yards per game. That was the 15th-highest figure in college football. UNC has now won the last 28 games in which it rushed for at least 200 yards.

The Tar Heels had four players rush for at least 250 yards, the first time four had done so since 1983.

Leon Johnson led the team with 805 yards, Curtis Johnson rushed for 721, quarterback Jason Stanicek added 281 and William Henderson added 251.

* MARCUS JONES led the team in quarterback sacks (7.5), tackles for losses (12.5), quarterback pressures (21) and batted down passes (nine). Jones, a preseason Playboy All-America selection, graded out a winner by the Tar Heel coaching staff in all 11 regular-season games.

He played his finest game of the season in the win against Duke as he had four solo tackles, assisted on four others, had one sack, batted down three passes and pressured four other incomplete passes.

* The Tar Heels set a single-season school record by returning three interceptions for touchdowns. OSCAR STURGIS returned an interception 10 yards against Tulane, REGGIE LOVE returned a pickoff 100 yards for a score against the Green Wave and MIKE MORTON brought one back for a score 38 yards at Wake Forest.

Love's 100-yard interception return tied the school record for the longest interception return in history.

* The Tar Heels set a Kenan Stadium attendance record for the third consecutive season. In 1992 Carolina and N.C. State played before 53,725. In 1993 UNC and Florida State battled before an audience of 54,100. In 1994 the Tar Heels downed the Wolfpack, 31-17, before a record crowd of 54,300.

* Senior place-kicker TRIPP PIGNETTI led the Tar Heels in scoring with 73 points and moved into third place on the alltime scoring chart at Carolina.

Pignetti finished his career with 231 points, the highest figure by any UNC place-kicker in history. Only Mike Voight (254) and Charlie Justice (234) ever scored more.

* Seventeen different players started on offense and 15 on defense, including a dozen players who started all 12 games.

JASON STANICEK completed 96 of 166 passes last year. Stanicek became the school's alltime total offense leader in the Tar Heels' win over Georgia Tech. The Park Forest, Ill. native accounted for 10 scores last year, seven by pass and three by rush. (Shenkman)

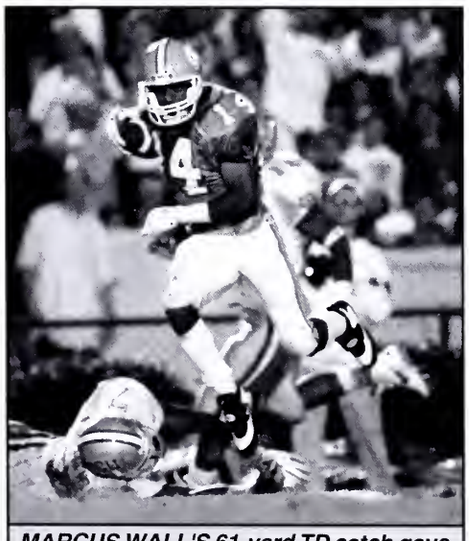
Carolina 27, TCU 17— Marcus Wall's 61-yard touchdown reception broke a 14-14 tie early in the second quarter and quarterback Jason Stanicek accounted for 309 yards of total offense to lead the Tar Heels to a hard-fought 27-17 win over Texas Christian in the season opener for both teams.

Stanicek led the Tar Heels in rushing with 79 yards and completed 16 of 23 passes for 230 yards. He directed an offensive attack which amassed 24 first downs and 464 yards of total offense. Two lost fumbles and two interceptions thwarted the Tar Heels, however, and the game was not out of reach until a 23-yard field goal by Tripp Pignetti with less than two minutes to play in the fourth quarter.

Both teams scored two touchdowns in the opening quarter. TCU scored on eight- and six-play drives, and the Tar Heels countered with a pair of nine-play marches. Fullback Koi Woods opened the scoring with a one-yard run just 2:45 into the contest. Carolina quickly responded, led by a 34-yard pass from Stanicek to Wall. Four plays later Curtis Johnson scored from two yards out.

TCU quarterback Max Knake, who completed 21 of 40 for 192 yards, gave the Horned Frogs their last lead of the night on a 14-yard pass to Matt Moore. Again the Tar Heels answered right back with Stanicek again leading the attack. He hit tight end Greg DeLong for 19 yards and then ran for 16 yards to the TCU five. On fourth-and-goal from the one, Leon Johnson dove in for the tying score.



MARCUS WALL'S 61-yard TD catch gave UNC a 21-14 lead over TCU. (Richards)

The Tar Heels gained the advantage for good on their first play of the second quarter. Stanicek found Wall open in the right flat and Wall broke free down the right sideline for 61 yards and a touchdown. Freshman split end Octavus Barnes provided a crushing block to spring Wall clear for the final few yards.

Neither team could manage to put the ball in the end zone for the final 44 minutes of the game as a pair of Pignetti field goals and a TCU field goal by Michael Reeder accounted for the rest of the scoring.

The 309 yards of total offense by Stanicek were the second-most in his career and he led the Tar Heels in rushing for the first time since Furman in 1992.

Defensively, Carolina was led by defensive end Oscar Sturgis who made two tackles, one a quarterback sack and the other for a five-yard loss, batted down two passes, recovered a fumble and pressured the quarterback four times. Linebacker Mike Morton added a game-high 11 tackles. Free safety Eric Thomas made six tackles and broke up three passes.

Carolina 49, Tulane 0— Six different players scored a touchdown, including quarterback Jason Stanicek, who scored twice, as the Tar Heels crushed Tulane, 49-0. Carolina scored in every quarter, picked off two Green Wave passes and returned them for scores.

Stanicek scored on 11- and seven-yard runs and added a 17-yard TD pass to Marcus Wall. Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson also added rushing scores and defensive end Oscar Sturgis and cornerback Reggie Love had interception returns for touchdowns.

UNC outgained the Green Wave 484 to 231 and held the visitors to just 80 yards rushing and 12 total first downs. Sturgis, in addition to scoring on an interception return, batted down two passes and broke up a third.

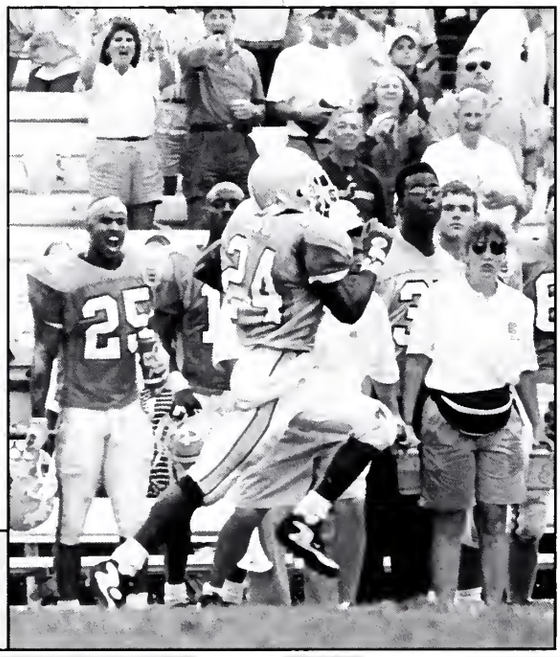
The Tar Heels scored just five plays into the contest on a three-yard run by Curtis Johnson. That came after a 44-yard completion from Stanicek to Octavus Barnes on third-and-17. Johnson followed with a 19-yard run and then the three-yard score.

Later Stanicek connected with Darrin Ashford for 26 yards, Curtis Johnson rushed for 21 yards and Stanicek capped the drive with an 11-yard scoring run.

Two series later Tulane quarterback Craig Randall attempted a screen pass, but Sturgis caught the ball at the line of scrimmage and raced 10 yards to the end zone for a touchdown and a 21-0 lead. It was Sturgis' second career touchdown. The first was a three-yard fumble return against Wake Forest in 1993.

Late in the first half linebacker Mike Morton picked off Randall's pass and raced 33 yards to the Tulane 17. With four seconds left in the half Wall made an over-the-shoulder grab of a Stanicek pass for a score and 28-0 lead at intermission.



REGGIE LOVE (right) tied the UNC record with this 100-yard interception return for a TD against Tulane. (Richards)

Stanicek opened the third quarter by marching the Tar Heels 70 yards in 11 plays and upped the lead to 35-0 with a seven-yard option run. Early in the fourth quarter Leon Johnson went in from one-yard out for a 42-0 lead.

Tulane had its best opportunity to score in the final quarter as the Green Wave drove from its own 31 to the UNC three yard line. That drive was thwarted, the shutout maintained and the lead extended as Love, a true freshman, picked off a pass several yards deep in the end zone and raced the length of the field for a touchdown.

Officially the play was recorded as a 100-yard return, tying the Tar Heel record for longest interception return.

Florida State 31, Carolina 18— Florida State went on a 24-point scoring binge midway through the game and quarterback Danny Kanell threw three touchdown passes to lead the Seminoles to a 31-18 win over Carolina before 78,111 fans, the largest crowd in Doak Campbell Stadium history, and an ESPN national television audience.

Kanell threw for 233 yards and tailback Warrick Dunn added 121 on the ground to lead the Seminoles' offense. Jason Stanicek passed for 178 yards, Marcus Wall had five catches for 62 yards and Octavus Barnes had four receptions for 48 yards to lead the Tar Heels.

Carolina rallied from a 31-7 deficit to pull within 13 points and had the ball in Seminole territory twice in the fourth quarter but could not get any closer.

FSU took the opening kickoff and marched 79 yards in a dozen plays and scored on a five-yard pass from Kanell to Melvin Pearsall. The Tar Heels quickly responded as linebacker James Hamilton picked off a Kanell pass at the FSU 27-yard line. Four plays later Leon Johnson scored from one yard out to tie the game.

From that point the Seminoles scored 24 unanswered points over nearly two full quarters. Andre Cooper hauled in a 27-yard pass from Kanell in the back right corner of the end zone late in the opening quarter for a 14-7 FSU lead; Scott Bentley kicked a 37-yard field goal with three seconds left in the first half; Zack Crockett scored from one yard early in the third quarter; and Kanell and Kez McCorvey connected for 31 yards and a touchdown midway through the third quarter.

Stanicek then rallied the Tar Heels for a touchdown. He led Carolina 80 yards in eight plays, including passes of 17 yards to Toby Patton, 15 to Wall and 31 to Wall which moved the ball to the FSU three-yard line. Malcolm Marshall scored from a yard out and Curtis Johnson added a two-point conversion run to cut the Seminoles' lead to 31-15 after three quarters.

Johnson rushed five times for 32 yards on an ensuing drive leading to a 42-yard field goal by Tripp Pignetti which narrowed the margin to 13 points with 12:07 to play. Three plays later defensive tackle Riddick Parker hit Kanell, who fumbled, and the ball was recovered by defensive end Oscar Sturgis at the Florida State six-yard line.

A busted play lost five yards and on second down, Stanicek's pass was dropped by Octavus Barnes. The play was ruled a fumble, however, and FSU recovered. ACC officials later ruled that the play should have been an incomplete pass. Neither team could manage a score in the last 12 minutes.

Carolina 28, Southern Methodist 24— Reserve quarterback Mike Thomas, in place of an injured Jason Stanicek, connected with Octavus Barnes on a game-winning, 66-yard touchdown pass early in the final quarter and the Tar Heels held off an inspired SMU team as UNC posted a 28-24 win over the Mustangs.

Stanicek went out of the game late in the first half when he suffered severely bruised ribs after he was hit and forced to fumble near the SMU goal line. Thomas, in his most significant playing time in more than a year, led Carolina to a pair of touchdown drives, including the game-winner which came immediately after SMU came back from a 21-3 deficit to take a 24-21 fourth quarter lead.

The Tar Heels had gone on top, 21-3, with 10:49 to play in the third quarter on a 23-yard scoring pass from Thomas to Marcus Wall. SMU countered with three touchdowns in a span of just seven minutes. SMU went ahead on a one-yard run by Chris James with 14:25 to play in the game.

On the ensuing possession UNC faced a third-and 15 from the SMU 34-yard line. Thomas drilled a pass to Barnes over the middle and Barnes sprinted through a trio of Mustang defenders and outraced everyone to the end zone.

The Carolina defense then took over the game and thwarted three more possessions by the Mustangs. The Tar Heels had four quarterback sacks on the day, led by defensive end Marcus Jones's three and one-half for 22 yards. Jones finished the day with six tackles, two quarterback pressures and he batted down one pass. Defensive end Oscar Sturgis had four tackles, including a nine-yard sack, three pressures and knocked down three passes.

Turnovers and penalties by the Tar Heels kept SMU in the game and assisted the Mustangs in taking a short-lived lead. Carolina lost four fumbles, threw one interception which led to SMU's go-ahead touchdown and committed six penalties.

The Tar Heels took a 7-0 lead the first time they touched the ball. Carolina's defense held on three plays to start the game and Johnson took the ensuing punt and raced 88 yards for a touchdown. The return was the second-longest in Carolina history and the longest since 1930.

SMU cut the lead to four points on a 45-yard field goal, but UNC went ahead behind three long passes from Stanicek. On consecutive snaps he hit Barnes for 20 yards, then connected with Wall for 31 yards to the SMU 27. Five plays later Stanicek capped the drive with a 15-yard pass to a wide open Darrin Ashford.

The Tar Heels drove to the Mustang seven on their next series, but on second-and-goal Stanicek ran the option to the right side and fumbled at the one-yard line after a vicious hit. He was unable to play the rest of the game.

Thomas led the Tar Heels to a touchdown on the first possession of the second half. Key plays on the drive were an 18-yard run by Curtis Johnson and a 13-yard pass to Ashford. On third-and-13 from the SMU 23, Thomas beat a blitz and tossed a scoring pass to Wall which upped the Tar Heel lead to 21-3.

SMU answered, however, with touchdowns on three of its next four possessions. Quarterback Ramon Flanigan scored on a quarterback sneak with 6:36 left in the third quarter to cut UNC's lead to 21-10. Two series later Donte Womack broke through the UNC defense and scored from 33 yards out to bring the Mustangs within four at 21-17.

On the Tar Heels' subsequent second play, Thomas was picked off by cornerback Cornell Parker who returned it 22 yards to the Tar Heel five.

Backup quarterback Chris James scored from one yard out on the second play of the final quarter to give SMU a temporary lead.

Barnes finished the day with three receptions for 100 yards, Curtis Johnson added 82 on the ground and Stanicek and Thomas threw for 204 yards.

Carolina 31, Georgia Tech 24 — Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson each rushed for more than 100 yards, the Tar Heels held the ball for more than 41 minutes, and quarterback Jason Stanicek set the UNC record for career total offense as Carolina outlasted Georgia Tech, 31-24.

The Tar Heels rolled up 462 yards of offense and ran 38 more plays than the Yellow Jackets, but the game was not decided until a one-yard touchdown run by Leon Johnson with 2:27 to play broke a 24-24 tie.

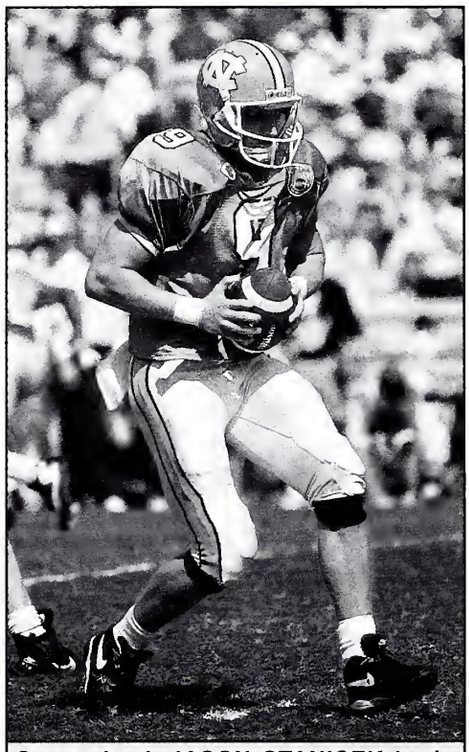
Johnson's winning score came on the 13th play of a 74-yard march on which Carolina ran the ball on every play. Key runs on the drive included a seven-yard run by Stanicek and a four-yard run by Malcolm Marshall, both on third down plays.



Quarterback JASON STANICEK broke Charlie Justice's record for career total offense with a first quarter scramble against Georgia Tech. (Shenkman)

Carolina won despite a 313-yard passing day by Tech quarterback Tommy Luginbill, who completed 24 of 39 passes and tossed three touchdowns. Five different Yellow Jacket receivers had at least three receptions. The Jackets ran the ball only 19 times for 65 yards and had three first downs via the run. UNC cornerback Jimmy Hitchcock severely hampered Tech's plans to run the ball when he leveled tailback Derrick Steagall with a crushing tackle on the second offensive series of the game. The hit ended Steagall's season with a broken arm.

Although Luginbill put up big numbers in the air, the offensive heroes of the game were the Johnsons and Stanicek. Curtis Johnson rushed 23 times for 111 yards and one score and Leon Johnson carried 22 times for 110 yards and two scores.

Stanicek surpassed the school's alltime total offense record which was held by Tar Heel legend Charlie Justice, who had 4,883 yards from 1946-49. Stanicek topped Justice's mark on a nine-yard scramble with just over six minutes to play in the second quarter. He finished the day with 120 yards passing and 54 rushing.

The Yellow Jackets scored first on a 77-yard pass from Luginbill to split end Omar Cassidy on the game's very first play from scrimmage. Carolina responded quickly, however, as Stanicek led a seven-play, 71-yard drive which was capped by a 19-yard scoring pass to Darrin Ashford.

UNC cornerback Omar Brown recovered a Tech fumble at midfield and that led to a Tripp Pignetti 23-yard field goal. The key play on the drive was a 13-yard completion to Octavus Barnes on third-and-five from the Tech 21.

Carolina upped the lead to 17-7 with 2:06 to play in the first half on a one-yard run by Curtis Johnson. Instead of taking a big lead to intermission, though, the Tar Heels surrendered 10 quick points. A remarkable 62-yard kickoff return by Lethon Flowers set Tech up at the UNC 34 and six plays later Luginbill hit Cassidy for a two-yard score.

Stanicek was picked off by free safety Mike Dee, who returned 20 yards to the Tar Heel 42 with 16 seconds to play in the half. Chris Leone's 44-yard field goal as time expired evened the game at 17. The Tar Heels had the ball for 19:16 and outrushed the Yellow Jackets, 166-36, but Luginbill's 230 yards in the air kept the game deadlocked.

The second half began with the first of three UNC drives of at least a dozen plays. A 15-yard march ended at the Tech 32, however, with an incomplete pass on fourth down. After holding Tech to three-and-out, UNC went ahead, 24-17, on a 12-play, 55-yard drive. Carolina converted a trio of third-down chances, including a 13-yard pass to Ashford on third-and-five, and a two-yard run by Leon Johnson from the Tech three. Leon scored from the one on the next play for the lead.

The Yellow Jackets tied the game for the third time on Luginbill's one-yard pass to tight end Jeff Papushak with 12:49 to play in the game.

The teams then traded turnovers — Tech intercepted a Stanicek pass which bounced off a receiver's hands and Sean Boyd forced a fumble with a jarring tackle — and Carolina eventually took over at its own 26 with 8:08 to play. The Tar Heels then went on its winning drive which Leon Johnson capped with four rushes for the final 22 yards.

Carolina 41, Maryland 17 — Carolina rushed for 335 yards, scored on every full possession in the game and did not allow a Maryland passing score as the Tar Heels defeated the Terps, 41-17. Five different Tar Heels rushed for 32 yards or more, led by Curtis and Leon Johnson, who rushed for 94 and 90 yards.

The Tar Heels scored in every quarter and outscored the Terps, 27-7 over the final three quarters. Four different Tar Heels rushed for touchdowns and quarterback Jason Stanicek contributed a passing touchdown.

Carolina rushed 58 times for 335 yards and four touchdowns. In addition to the Johnson tailbacks, Stanicek rushed for 50, and fullbacks Malcolm Marshall and William Henderson added 47 and 32, respectively.

Maryland quarterback Scott Milanovich completed 25 of 36 passes but for only 197 yards, an average of less than eight yards per completion. Geroy Simon made nine receptions for the Terps for 88 yards.

Maryland took the opening possession and went 61 yards in 11 plays. Slotback Brian Underwood's two-yard run gave the Terps a 7-0 lead.

The Tar Heels answered with their own seven-play drive after Marcus Wall provided great field position with a 65-yard kickoff return. Curtis Johnson and Marshall carried four and three times, respectively, and Marshall tied the game with a one-yard run.

Stanicek led the go-ahead drive as he passed 16 yards to Octavus Barnes, rushed for 11 and hit Wall with a 39-yard touchdown pass.

Underwood's 34-yard run set up a 22-yard Maryland field goal which cut the lead to 14-10, but that was as close as the Terps would ever get. Tripp Pignetti nailed a 41-yard field goal for a 17-10 advantage, then UNC went on a 15-play, 83-yard touchdown march. Stanicek hit Darrin Ashford for 16 and 13 yards on successive third-and-10 plays and then hit Ashford for 13 more to the Maryland 40. Seven running plays later Stanicek scored from two yards out for a 24-10 halftime lead.

Pignetti kicked a 29-yard field goal early in the third quarter, but the Terps managed one final score on an 18-play, 65-yard drive which cut 7:02 off the clock. Backup quarterback Brian Cummings scored from a yard out to bring Maryland within seven, but Carolina linebacker Greg Ellis recovered Maryland's onsides kick attempt.

Curtis Johnson opened the fourth quarter with a one-yard scoring run and Leon Johnson added a one-yard touchdown run midway through the final period.

The Tar Heels had nine possessions on the afternoon, two of which came as UNC ran out the clock at the end of the halves. The other seven culminated in five touchdowns and two field goals.

Linebackers Eddie Mason and Mike Morton combined for 29 tackles, 14 of which were solo stops by Mason. Defensive end Marcus Jones had six tackles, including three for losses. Cornerback Fuzzy Lee also had 11 hits, three of which resulted in lost yardage.

Virginia 34, Carolina 10 — Quarterback Mike Groh completed 15 of 21 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns and Virginia's defense held the Tar Heels to their lowest point total of the season as the Cavaliers defeated Carolina, 34-10.

Virginia rolled up 425 yards of total offense and forced UNC into three turnovers, all of which were interceptions. The Cavaliers put up 17 points and had 11 first downs before the Tar Heels managed a first down midway through the second quarter.

The Tar Heels cut the lead to 17-7 and had two chances late in the half to further narrow Virginia's lead but were unable to do so. The Cavaliers then came out after halftime and scored a field goal and touchdown on their first two possessions of the third quarter to put the game out of reach.

The Cavaliers went out to a 3-0 lead on a 22-yard Rafael Garcia field goal on the 13th play of the game's opening drive. Two series later Groh hit Tyrone Davis for 49 yards to the UNC five-yard line and then tossed a two-yard scoring pass to Davis for a 10-0 lead.

After stopping the Tar Heels on three plays for the third straight time, Virginia then went on a 16-play, 82-yard drive which ended in a one-yard scoring run by Kevin Brooks. The Cavaliers converted two third down chances — one of which UNC assisted by a 12-men-on-the-field penalty — and a fourth down play.

Carolina finally got going on its fourth possession as fullback William Henderson barreled 54 yards to the UVa three. One play later Henderson scored from the two.

Late in the first half Leon Johnson took a screen pass from Jason Stanicek for 38 yards to the UVa 31, but on the next play Stanicek was picked off by Ronde Barber as he attempted to throw the ball out of bounds. The Tar Heels got the ball right back and went on a 10-play drive which progressed to the 14-yard line, but Carolina could not get out of bounds on the final play to stop the clock and attempt a field goal.

Stanicek was picked off on the third play of the second half, but the Tar Heel defense held the Wahoos to a Garcia field goal.

Groh began the Cavs' next series with a 59-yard pass to fullback Charles Way and hit Derick Byrd for 10 yards on third-and-nine at the UNC 19. Brooks went in from the nine on the following play for a 27-7 lead.

Carolina 31, N.C. State 17— Sophomore tailback Leon Johnson rushed for 133 yards and one touchdown and had five receptions for 46 yards and two scores to lead the Tar Heels past North Carolina State, 31-17, before a Kenan Stadium-record crowd of 54,300. Carolina jumped out to a 31-3 lead late in the third quarter before the Wolfpack scored twice in the final quarter.

Leon Johnson scored three of the game's first four touchdowns on a three-yard run, a 21-yard pass and an 11-yard pass. Marcus Wall also added a five-yard scoring run and Tripp Pignetti had a 35-yard field goal.

The Tar Heels rushed for 280 yards and Stanicek completed nine of 13 passes for another 95 yards. The UNC defense held the Wolfpack to only 88 yards on the ground and 149 in the air. Defensive end Marcus Jones made six tackles and batted down three passes.

The win was the second straight for the Tar Heels over the Wolfpack, the first time UNC had won consecutive games in the series since it won seven in a row from 1979-85.

The Tar Heels forced N.C. State to punt after three plays on each of the Pack's first two possessions. On UNC's second series the Tar Heels marched 75 yards in 11 plays, all of which were runs. In fact, the Tar Heels made five first downs in 11 plays — they never were forced to a third down. Johnson carried the final four plays for the last 30 yards, including a three-yard touchdown run with 4:57 to play in the first quarter.

Carolina's defense again held the Wolfpack to three plays and a punt on the next series and the Tar Heels went 64 yards in 12 plays for a second touchdown and 14-0 lead. Key plays on the drive were an eight-yard pass to Leon Johnson on third-and-seven, a 13-yard pass to Wall on third-and-13 from the State 41, and the 21-yard screen pass to Johnson for the touchdown.

A 25-yard run by freshman Tremayne Stephens set up Steve Videtich's 50-yard field goal to narrow Carolina's lead to 11 points. Late in the first half, State forced a Mike Thomas punt from the Tar Heel 39. Thomas' punt traveled 54 yards, Carolina fullback Maurice McGergor hit punt returner Eddie Goines and Jon Linton recovered at the Wolfpack seven-yard line.

Two plays after a procedure penalty moved the ball back, Stanicek again hit Johnson in the right flat for an 11-yard touchdown and a 21-3 halftime lead.

Tripp Pignetti's 35-yard field goal gave Carolina a 24-3 lead early in the third quarter. Jones caused a State fumble which Oscar Sturgis recovered and that turnover led to a five-yard scoring run by Wall. Johnson carried five times for 41 yards on the 52-yard drive.

The Pack scored early in the fourth quarter on a three-yard run by Stephens and on an 18-yard pass from Terry Harvey to Mike Guffie with 2:44 to play in the game.

Clemson 28, Carolina 17 — Nelson Welch, the Atlantic Coast Conference's alltime field goal leader, drilled five field goals and Clemson held the Tar Heels to just 11 net yards on the ground as the Tigers shocked Carolina, 28-17, in the final home game of the 1994 season.

Carolina rushed 30 times, including four plays in which the quarterback was sacked for 34 yards in losses. The Tigers outgained the Tar Heels, 266-258, in total offense, and held the ball for 34 minutes and nine seconds.

Welch made field goals of 34, 37, 47, 34 and 20 yards, the last of which came with 1:36 to play and put the game out of reach. The Tigers made good use of great field position, much of which Carolina helped to provide with turnovers and poor special teams coverage.

Clemson scored seven times — five field goals and two touchdowns — but the average length of its scoring drives was 30 yards and that included two drives for one and zero yards. The longest march was 55 yards on the first touchdown of the game.

Tiger freshman tailback Lamont Pegues rushed 20 times for 72 yards and two scores and quarterback Nealon Greene completed nine of 12 passes for 104 yards.

Tar Heel quarterback Jason Stanicek was seven for 11 and one interception before he was knocked out out of the game late in the first half with a sprained ankle. Mike Thomas came on in reserve and completed 11 of 24 for 177 yards, two touchdowns and one interception.

Octavus Barnes caught five passes for 97 yards, tight end Greg DeLong made four grabs for 54 yards and Marcus Wall added four receptions for 53 yards. Leon Johnson was the top ballcarrier with just 26 yards on nine attempts.

Stanicek was picked off on the first series of the game when a receiver turned the wrong way on a route and Clemson's Dexter McCleon intercepted. The Tigers went 55 yards in six plays, 42 yards of which came on a Greene to Marcus Hinton pass and put the ball at the Tar Heel one. Pegues scored on the ensuing play for a 7-0 lead.

Two sacks led to a UNC punt from its own 28, but the snap hit one of the upback blockers and the Tigers gained possession at the Tar Heel 17-yard line. That led to Welch's first field goal and he added another early in the second quarter for a 13-0 Tiger lead.

Carolina finally got on the board with 4:32 to play in the half on Tripp Pignetti's 26-yard field goal, set up by a 20-yard pass from Stanicek to Wall on a fourth-and-six play from the Clemson 29. Stanicek sprained his ankle on the last snap prior to Pignetti's field goal.

UNC took possession with 3:06 left in the half and Thomas hit DeLong for 22, Barnes for 23 and Darrin Ashford for 12 yards. That set up a rifle-throw from 11 yards out to Wall for a touchdown and Clemson led just 13-10 at intermission.

The Tar Heels forced Clemson to punt on the first series of the third quarter, but Leon Johnson fumbled the punt. The Tigers recovered at the Tar Heel 29 and Welch made it 16-10 with a 47-yard field goal.

A short Thomas punt and 15-yard return led to a 16-yard touchdown run by Pegues to give the Tigers a 22-10 lead with 7:30 left in the third quarter.

Thomas helped the Tar Heels climb back to within five points at 22-17 with a 29-yard scoring strike to Barnes on the first play of the fourth quarter. A 27-yard kickoff return, however, gave Clemson solid field position and led to a 10-play drive which Welch capped with a 35-yard field goal.

Carolina's next two series produced a punt and an interception and the Tigers turned the latter into Welch's fifth and final field goal.

Linebacker Mike Morton led the Tar Heel defense with a career-high 20 tackles. Defensive end Oscar Sturgis also made a career-best 11 hits.

Wall set UNC records for kickoff returns in a game and kickoff return yards in a game. He had eight returns for 184 yards.

OCTAVUS BARNES steps into the end zone with a 29-yard scoring reception from Mike Thomas early in the fourth quarter against Clemson. (Halverson)

Carolina 50, Wake Forest 0— Marcus Wall made seven receptions for 148 yards and tied a school record with three touchdown catches, Curtis Johnson rushed for 123 yards and two scores and Mike Thomas made his first start of the season at quarterback a winning one as the Tar Heels routed Wake Forest, 50-0.

Carolina dominated every aspect of the game. UNC broke open a 17-0 lead at the half with 14 points in the third quarter and 19 in the fourth. The Tar Heels had 23 first downs to eight for the Deacons, held Wake Forest to less than 100 yards both rushing and passing, and outgained the Deacs, 467-160. Carolina also picked off three passes and allowed Wake just one first down passing.

Wall's seven catches were a career high and the ninth-highest total in Tar Heel history. He became the fifth player in UNC history to have three scoring catches in a single game, the first since Randy Marriott against Georgia Tech in 1987.

Thomas completed 12 of 27 passes for 196 yards and three touchdowns. It was the first time a UNC quarterback had thrown for more than two touchdowns in a game since Mark Maye had four against the Yellow Jackets in 1987.

Tripp Pignetti opened the scoring with a 45-yard field goal, his longest of the season and second-longest of his career. Late in the first quarter Thomas executed a brilliant option pitch to Curtis Johnson, who scored from 10 yards.

The game stayed 10-0 for much of the second quarter. The Tar Heels took possession at the Deacons' 34 following a 22-yard punt and Thomas turned it into points with a 19-yard scoring pass to Wall with 52 seconds left in the half.

Thomas and Wall broke it open in the second half, connecting on a 66-yard touchdown on the first play of the half.

Later in the third quarter linebacker Mike Morton intercepted a Brian Kuklick pass and raced 38 yards for a touchdown. It was the Tar Heels' third interception return for a score this year, a school record.

Wall and Thomas hooked up again in the fourth quarter, this time for a 29-yard touchdown. On the following series Curtis Johnson ran 36 yards for a score. Maurice McGregor capped the scoring with 2:12 to play on a 16-yard run.

In addition to Curtis Johnson's 123 yards rushing, Leon Johnson added 79 yards on 14 carries. This marked the sixth consecutive year in which a Tar Heel tailback had rushed for 100 yards or more against the Demon Deacons.

Defensive end Marcus Jones had six tackles, including two sacks, pressured the quarterback three other times and batted down one bal.

Morton finished with a dozen tackles, an interception, another pass breakup and a quarterback pressure.

The win was the first shutout by UNC against the Deacons since three straight shutouts in 1972-73-74. It was the biggest margin of victory for UNC in the series since a 65-0 win in 1928.

The shutout also marked the first time Carolina had blanked two opponents in the same year since 1977. Carolina led the nation in scoring defense that season.

Carolina 41, Duke 40 — Octavus Barnes raced 71 yards for the winning touchdown with 2:01 to play in the game and Sean Boyd and Fuzzy Lee ended the Blue Devils' last threat with a big hit and interception to lead the Tar Heels to a heart-pounding, 41-40 win over Duke in one of the wildest games in the fierce rivalry.

Barnes caught a short over-the-middle pass from quarterback Mike Thomas at the UNC 39, headed for the sidelines and then outran the Duke defense down the right boundary for a remarkable go-ahead touchdown. The score came just 46 seconds after the Blue Devils had rallied for a 34-31 lead with their second fourth-quarter touchdown.

Barnes set an Atlantic Coast Conference record for freshmen with 165 yards receiving on six catches. In addition to hauling in the game-winning reception, he threw for a touchdown in the first quarter, the first Tar Heel to pass and catch a score in the same game since Eric Streater did it against Virginia in 1984.

The Tar Heels amassed 552 yards of total offense, including 283 on the ground and 269 in the air. It was the fourth consecutive year the Tar Heels have gained 500-plus yards against the Blue Devils. Carolina has won five straight games in the series.

UNC tailback Leon Johnson rushed for a season-high 140 yards on 23 carries and added four receptions for 26 yards. Johnson rushed for 131 of his 140 yards in the second half. In 1993, Johnson rushed for 142 yards against Duke.

Curtis Johnson added 63 yards rushing and a 30-yard reception. Thomas completed 10 of 14 passes for 210 yards and had a 17-yard touchdown run.

MARCUS WALL returned a first quarter kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown in the Tar Heels' 41-40 win at Duke. Wall, who had a 91-yard return against the Blue Devils in 1993, finished the season first in the ACC and third in the country in kickoff returns. (Halverson)

Duke was not without offensive standouts. Quarterback Spence Fischer completed 33 of 57 passes for 395 yards and four scores. Wide receiver Jon Jensen had 14 receptions for 174 yards, tight end Bill Khayat had eight catches for 104 yards and receiver Corey Thomas had four receptions for 54 yards and two touchdowns.

The Tar Heels held the league's leading ground gainer, Robert Baldwin, to a season-low 31 yards on 13 carries. Linebackers Mike Morton and Kerry Mock made 17 and 14 tackles, respectively, and defensive end Marcus Jones made eight tackles, including a seven-yard sack, batted down three passes and pressured the quarterback four other times.

Duke opened the scoring on a five-yard pass from Fischer to Jensen. They had connected three other times on the drive for 38 yards prior to the scoring play.

Carolina answered immediately as Thomas hit Barnes for 23 yards and a first down to the Duke 48. On the next play, Barnes took the handoff from Thomas and threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to Wall to even the game at 7-7 with 6:40 to play in the opening quarter. The play was Wall's ninth touchdown catch of the year, a Tar Heel record.

MIKE THOMAS' 17-yard TD run in the third quarter finally gave the Tar Heels the lead in their electrifying win at Duke. (Richards)

Duke went back on top 1:08 later. Three straight incompletions by Fischer led to a Duke punt, but Barnes bobbled the ball and the Blue Devils recovered at the Carolina 29. Two plays later Fischer hit Khayat for 26 yards and the lead.

Wall tied the game as he returned the ensuing kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown. It was the first UNC kickoff return for a score since Eric Blount's 93-yard return against William and Mary in 1991. Wall also had a 91-yard kickoff return against Duke in 1993.

The teams then traded field goals. Duke's Tom Cochran hit a 22-yarder with 1:36 to play in the first quarter. Thomas and Barnes got together on passes of 16 and 23 yards, which helped to march the Tar Heels to the Duke one. The Blue Devils held and Tripp Pignetti kicked an 18-yard field goal to even the game at 17-17.

Duke got the final points of the first half on a seven-yard scoring run by David Lowman with 8:45 to play in the second quarter.

Carolina opened the third quarter with a nine-play, 80-yard drive capped by Curtis Johnson's one-yard scoring run to tie the game at 24-24. All nine plays on the drive were runs, including three runs by Leon Johnson for five, 23 and 21 yards and a 19-yard dash to the Duke one by Curtis Johnson.

The Tar Heels finally took their first lead of the game with 4:50 to play in the third quarter. Thomas led an 11-play, 85-yard drive which he finished with a 17-yard touchdown run.

A second straight punt by Duke led to a 14-play, 81-yard advance by Carolina which Pignetti capped with a 22-yard field goal to extend Carolina's lead to 34-24 with 10:55 to play in the game.

Carolina's defense forced Duke to punt for the third time in as many series in the second half, but the Blue Devils then stopped Carolina for the first time since the second quarter. Bailley Luetgert blocked Jay Boaz's punt and returned it to the UNC 19-yard line.

Two plays and 39 seconds later Fischer hit Corey Thomas for 12 yards and a touchdown to cut Carolina's lead to 34-31.

Carolina lost eight yards on its next possession and Duke returned a subsequent punt to the Tar Heel 48. Fischer hit four straight passes, including an 11-yard scoring strike to Thomas. The drive took only 1:28 off the clock, however, and Duke had a 38-34 lead with 2:47 to play.

The Tar Heels opened at their own 15-yard line. Thomas hit Leon Johnson for nine yards and then Johnson converted a third-and-one with a five-yard rush. On the next play, the fourth of the drive, Thomas and Barnes hooked up on the winning 71-yard pass.

Fischer then hit two quick passes for 14 and 15 yards and the Blue Devils were at the UNC 28 with 1:42 to play. Two incompletions later, Fischer tried to hit Jensen one more time, but Boyd blasted the receiver just after he touched the pass and Lee caught the ball in midair to end the threat.

The Tar Heels took an intentional safety with 12 seconds to play and Duke missed a desperation, 60-yard field goal as time expired to end one of the season's most incredible games.

Texas 35, Carolina 31, 1994 Sun Bowl: Priest Holmes rushed for 161 yards and four touchdowns, including the game-winner with 1:17 to play, as Texas rallied from a 10-point, fourth quarter deficit to edge the Tar Heels, 35-31, in a wildly exciting Sun Bowl.

RECAPPING THE SUN BOWL

Playing in front of a CBS national television audience and a Sun Bowl stadium record crowd of 50,612, the teams combined for more than 900 yards of offense, 66 points and 51 first downs. The Tar Heels amassed a school postseason record 478 yards, including 298 via the pass, another UNC bowl best.

Holmes' four-touchdown performance wrestled away MVP honors from UNC quarterback Mike Thomas, who had the finest passing day of his career. Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. He set UNC bowl game records for completions and yards and tied the mark with two scoring tosses. He was 15 for 19 in the first half and completed 20 of 29 before a final desperation drive.

Wide receivers Marcus Wall and Octavus Barnes were two more standouts for the Tar Heels. Wall was selected the game's Most Valuable Special Teams Player. Wall gave the Tar Heels a 24-21 lead in the fourth quarter when he returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown. It was the first punt he had ever returned in his three-year collegiate career. Wall also had seven pass receptions for 82 yards, including an eight-yard scoring catch late in the first half.

Barnes set UNC bowl game records for most catches and yards with nine receptions for 165 yards and one score. The nine receptions tied the mark for the eighth-most in school history in any game and the 165 yards equal the third-most in any Tar Heel contest. The 165 yards were also the most in Sun Bowl history.

Holmes was the offensive hero of the afternoon, however, as he set a Sun Bowl record with four touchdowns. He scored on one-yard runs in the first and second quarters, and fourth quarter runs of nine and five yards. The former came with 6:35 to play and cut the UNC lead to 31-28; the latter came with 1:17 left and gave Texas the winning margin.

Carolina took the opening kickoff and marched 78 yards in 10 plays. Thomas completed all four of his passes for 54 yards and Curtis Johnson capped the drive with an 11-yard run up the middle.

Texas went 72 yards in nine plays to tie the game at 7-7. Quarterback James Brown hit Curtis Jackson for 34 yards to highlight the drive and Holmes scored from the one to even the game.

Jason Stanicek replaced Thomas for the next two series and was the victim of a fierce Texas pass rush on his final collegiate play. On third-and-five from UNC's own 17, Stanicek dropped back to pass, but was blind-sided and fumbled the ball. Linebacker Norman Watkins picked the ball out of the air at the eight, ran to the one, was stripped by offensive guard Jerness Gethers and finally fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown.

Pignetti converted a 25-yard field goal to cut Texas' lead to 14-10 in the second quarter, but Holmes scored on a one-yard run with 6:05 to play in the half for a 21-10 Longhorn lead. The big play on the UT scoring drive was a pass interference call after UNC held on a third-and-eight play at the 24-yard line.

The Tar Heels engineered a near-perfect two-minute offense late in the half. Thomas marched the Tar Heels without a timeout 74 yards in nine plays in just 1:48. The big play on the drive was a 20-yard catch by fullback William Henderson. Thomas floated a pass to the left corner of the end zone and Wall hauled it in for a score to slice the Texas lead to 21-17.

Five plays into the final quarter Wall caught a low, line drive punt at the UNC 18-yard line and raced 82 yards down the left sideline for the go-ahead score.

The Tar Heels held on downs on the next UT possession and took over at their own 21. Curtis Johnson's 22-yard run brought the ball out to midfield and on third-and-four at the 50-yard line, Thomas hit Barnes over the middle and the freshman receiver outran the Texas secondary to the end zone. That score gave the Tar Heels a 31-21 advantage with 9:13 to play.

Texas quickly countered with a 68-yard drive in only 2:38. The second play of the eight-play series was critical as Brown's pass towards the left sideline was short and knocked down by UNC linebacker Eddie Mason.

Brown hit tight end Pat Fitzgerald for 18 yards and then scrambled for 11 more yards on a play on which a late-hit penalty flag moved the ball 15 yards to the UNC 14. Four plays later Holmes took a draw play nine yards for the score.

Carolina was unable to pick up a first down on the next possession and punted to the Longhorns with 5:41 to play. The Tar Heels thought they converted a third down play as Barnes was being held as he attempted to run his pass route, but the officials waived off the penalty flag.

Texas took over at its own 32 and drove 68 yards in 10 plays for the winning score. A pass interference call at midfield cashed in one third down play and Holmes converted another with a six-yard run to the UNC 28. Holmes carried the last three plays on the drive for nine, two and five yards. The latter was around the right end and he dove into the endzone for the winning points.

This is the first time that Carolina and Syracuse have met in the sport of football...The Tar Heels do have a 15-19-6 record against teams currently members of the Big East Football Conference...This will be Carolina's first encounter against a team from that league since a 52-20 loss to Boston College in Doug Flutie's 1984 Heisman Trophy winning season...UNC also opened the 1982 season against Pittsburgh, a CBS national TV game in which the fifth-ranked Tar Heels dropped a 7-6 decision to the number-one ranked Panthers...Twenty-five of the 34 games against Big East schools were played against Virginia Tech and the last game in that series was back in 1946.

Carolina has won 21 of its last 25 season openers and has a record of 72-28-4 in all opening games...The Tar Heels have won 23 of their last 26 home openers, including a 21-14 win over Texas Christian last year under the lights at Kenan Stadium...UNC has won six straight season openers dating back to a 1988 loss at South Carolina...The last home opening defeat also came in 1988 as Oklahoma blanked the Tar Heels, 28-0.

The Tar Heels have won each of the last five meetings with the Terrapins (1990-94), but only one of those games has been played in College Park...Due to a scheduling quirk UNC has played host to the Terps in 1990, 1991, 1993 and 1994...Carolina has won the last five games by a combined margin of 189-93, an average of 37.8 to 18.6...UNC did not punt once and scored on all seven of its full possessions in last year's 41-17 win in Chapel Hill.

Natrone Means rushed for 249 yards, including a 76-yard touchdown, in the Tar Heels' 31-24 win in 1992, the last time this series was played in Byrd Stadium...Randall Felton scored the game-winner in the fourth quarter on a 12-yard flanker reverse...The Tar Heels are 12-12 in College Park...Maryland's last win was in 1989 when the Terps defeated UNC, 38-0...That is Maryland's biggest win in series history...The teams have split the last six contests played in College Park.

Louisville, under the direction of former head coach Howard Schnellenberger, defeated the Tar Heels, 38-34, on September 24, 1988...That contest was played despite a torrential downpour and heavy winds which blanketed Kenan Stadium...The teams combined for 989 yards of total offense.

This is the 10th live national television appearance for the Tar Heels in the Mack Brown Era...Other live national TV games since Brown became head coach include: 1988 vs. Oklahoma (ESPN), 1991 vs. Clemson (ESPN), 1992 vs. Mississippi State (1993 Peach Bowl, ESPN), 1993 vs. Southern Cal (Pigskin Classic, Raycom), 1993 vs. Florida State (ESPN), 1993 vs. Clemson (ESPN), 1993 vs. Alabama (1993 Gator Bowl, TBS), 1994 vs. Florida State (ESPN) and 1994 vs. Texas (1994 Sun Bowl, CBS).

This is Carolina's first regular-season game played on a Thursday since 1982 when UNC defeated Bowling Green, 33-14, on Thanksgiving Day...Carolina once annually Virginia on Thanksgiving Day in Richmond, Va.

UNC is hoping to end a two-game losing streak to Virginia...This is the first time the teams will play in Chapel Hill since 1992, when the Tar Heels defeated the Cavaliers, 24-7...The last two games have been played in front of ABC-TV regional audiences...Carolina leads the alltime series, 53-42-4...Tailback Leon Johnson and fullback William Henderson were standouts in last year's loss in Charlottesville...Quarterback Mike Thomas came off the bench in the second quarter to replace an injured Jason Stanicek and helped lead the Tar Heels to the win in 1992...Tailback Natrone Means was the star of that triumph as he rushed for 216 yards...The Tar Heels have a 25-8-3 advantage in games played in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina-Virginia matchup is tied for the sixth-most often played series in college football history and has been the most contested rivalry in the Southeastern United States.

The Tigers have a 28-14-1 edge in the series and have won 14 of the last 17 encounters...Last year's 28-17 win was the only Tar Heel loss at home in 1994...Carolina is 5-13 in Death Valley...The last UNC victory in Clemson came in 1980...That 24-19 win was highlighted by a game-saving stop by All-America linebacker Lawrence Taylor...With UNC leading 24-19 with less than 2:00 to play, the Tigers had first-and-goal at the Tar Heel one-yard line...On third-and-goal Taylor sacked Clemson quarterback Homer Jordan for a nine-yard loss...Jordan's fourth-down pass fell incomplete.

The Tar Heels snapped a seven-game losing streak to the Tigers in 1993 with a 24-0 win in Kenan Stadium...Six quarterback sacks by UNC defenders limited Clemson to just three net rushing yards on 32 attempts...Last year the Tigers held the Tar Heels to 11 yards on 30 rushes.

Two years ago this game marked one of the most electrifying games ever contested at Kenan Stadium as a then-record crowd of 54,100 was on hand to see the 13th-ranked Tar Heels battle the number-one rated Seminoles...Bucky Brooks's touchdown catch gave UNC a 7-0 lead, but the 'Noles rallied for a 33-7 victory...Florida State is 5-0-1 against Carolina, including last year's 31-18 win in Tallahassee...The last two games have been played before an ESPN national TV audience....The Seminoles have a 2-0 record in Kenan Stadium...FSU also defeated Carolina here, 20-10 in 1985.

Carolina head coach Mack Brown is a 1974 graduate of Florida State...Brown lettered as a Seminole in 1972-73...In 1973, Brown, a running back, carried the ball 31 times for 98 yards and added 10 receptions for 76 yards.

The Tar Heels are winners of five straight games in the series (1990-94), and the 1994 game may be one of the best remembered in the history of the rivalry...Carolina won , 41-40, on a 71-yard scoring pass play from Mike Thomas to Octavus Barnes...The Tar Heels are 17-15-2 vs. the Blue Devils at Kenan Stadium...Duke's last win in Kenan came in 1989.

Carolina has accumulated more than 500 yards of total offense in each of the last four years...UNC had 529 yards in 1991, 515 in 1992, 524 in 1993 and 552 in 1994.

Quarterback Mike Thomas has made two career starts against the Blue Devils...Thomas is 21 of 32 for 509 yards and four touchdowns...Tailback Leon Johnson rushed for 142 yards last year at Duke and for 140 yards as a freshman...He ran for three touchdowns and added another by reception in the 1993 win at Kenan Stadium...Johnson's 100-yard games are two of 25 such outings by Tar Heel backs against the Blue Devils.

This is the second time in the last three years the Tar Heels will be playing a Friday morning game the day after Thanksgiving...Two years ago UNC defeated Duke, 38-24, at Kenan Stadium in an ABC televised game.

Carolina has won the last two meetings in the series...Last year the Tar Heels beat the Wolfpack, 31-17, in Chapel Hill...Tailback Leon Johnson rushed for 133 yards and added two scores on short pass receptions...In 1993 UNC broke a five-game losing streak with a 35-14 win in Raleigh...That game was highlighted by two touchdown runs by fullback William Henderson, a 153-yard effort by tailback Curtis Johnson and a masterful performance by quarterback Jason Stanicek.

Carolina leads the alltime series 54-24-6, including 10 wins in the last 16 meetings...UNC has won seven of the last nine games played at Carter-Finley Stadium.

COREY HOLLIDAY CELEBRATES THE TAR HEELS' 1993 PEACH BOWL TITLE

CAROLINA'S GRIDIRON HISTORY

AN ESSAY ON TAR HEEL FOOTBALL

KENAN STADIUM as it looked on January 22, 1927. The stadium, dedicated to William R. and Mary Hargrave Kenan, opened later that fall. The 1995 season will be the 69th at this majestic venue.

The University of North Carolina, one of the institutions involved in the first intercollegiate football game in the state of North Carolina's history, holds a special place in the annals of the game, both in the Tar Heel state and the nation as a whole.

Carolina, which began playing the sport in 1888, will embark on its 105th season of football competition in 1995. The Tar Heels do that with a history of gridiron greatness, including some of the top coaches in the game, a lineage of talented running backs and one of the most beautiful and historic stadiums in college football. All factors considered, Carolina's football tradition is one of the most respected in both the South and the entire United States.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball is accorded that honor, having fielded its first varsity squad back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades have elapsed.

The first UNC team competed back in 1888 and played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest squad to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead, who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

That first Carolina team's results may not have been what was expected, but the leaders of the '88 team did get the ball rolling. In Carolina's first 104 seasons of football competition, the Tar Heels have compiled a record of 556-399-54, a winning percentage of .577. Carolina has played in 19 bowl games in its history and won five Southern Conference championships and five Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Twenty-three Tar Heel players have been honored as first-team All-Americas on 28 occasions. Carolina had 32 All-Southern Conference selections when it played in that league until 1952 and since joining the ACC in 1953, has had 143 first-team All-ACC choices.

Just a few months after the loss to Trinity in 1888, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team; play was also suspended during World War I in 1917 and 1918.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that still exists today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule being played. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players, with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. That season also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signaled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year, on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that experienced coaching benefited the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVa won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad finished at 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1889 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses in 1901. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In 1901, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.

The next 11 seasons saw Carolina with nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina squad was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina's coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-42 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jerseys.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the reserves struggled, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under Coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 for a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

JOHNNY BRANCH's 96-yard punt return for a touchdown against Maryland in 1930 is the longest in UNC history.

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzer as co-head coaches. Their hiring also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzers were assured of long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzers in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, the official name for what has come to be known today simply as the Southern Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on post-season play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning it outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzers' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalties in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped to a 5-3-1 record nevertheless and a state championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetzers' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

The following year began a new era in Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules in the offensive line for Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season also brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader and radio and motion pictures personality, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina.

New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926 to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the University a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Durham. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. President had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team coached by Collins went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Carolina-Duke game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snavely, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the coaching reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snavely as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and it tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a 7-0 victory.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snavely led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 16 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snavely had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930s, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Snavely returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years produced some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Neb. native, Snavely was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell. In fact, at Cornell in 1940, Snavely was involved in an infamous contest which would be recounted repeatedly some 50 years after the fact. Snavely was the coach who, upon learning it had taken a fifth down for his Big Red to defeat Dartmouth, wired the opposing coach Red Blaik and relinquished the victory.

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snavely's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the post-season. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Justice was not the only star of those Snavely teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

But Justice was the main attraction unquestionably. He ran and passed for over 4,000 yards in his four-year career and he averaged over 42 yards a punt. He had only two punts blocked in his career and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all time.

As a triple-threat All-America halfback,

College Football Hall of Fame inductees CHARLIE JUSTICE (22) and ART WEINER led the Tar Heels to 32 wins and three New Year's Day bowl games between 1946-49. (Morton)

Hugh Morton

DON McCAULEY and CHARLIE JUSTICE are two of the top Tar Heel offensive heroes. McCauley, two-time ACC Player of the Year, and Justice, two-time Southern Conference Player of the Year, have a combined 9,684 all-purpose yards.

Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

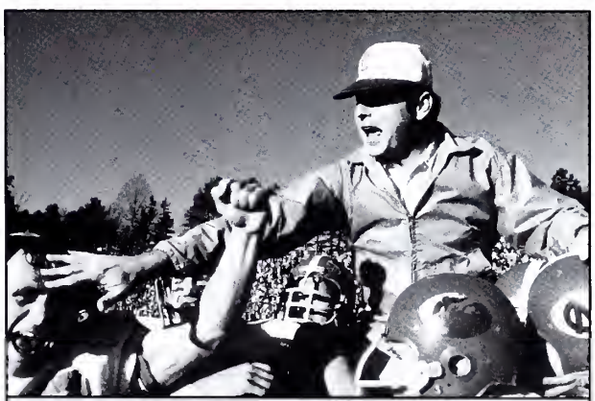
The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snavely, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum back to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930s and had coached the Tar Heels during World War II in 1942. He had since been at Maryland where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Tatum's first season back in Chapel Hill, in 1956, was rather undistinguished. The Tar Heels went 2-7-1 with victories over Virginia and Maryland. In 1957, in Tatum's first return trip to College Park where he had enjoyed so much success, the Carolina-Maryland game was marked by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth II. The queen and her entourage watched the Terrapins beat the Tar Heels 21-7. But that 1957 team finished 6-4 as did the 1958 team under Tatum's steady leadership.

It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title. That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.

After Hickey resigned after a 2-8 season in 1966, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature — six in all during the Dooley years.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first good team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 23 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native's 1,720 yards in 1970 broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.



BILL DOOLEY led Carolina to six bowl appearances and three ACC titles in his tenure and is the winningest coach in ACC history. Here he gets a victory ride after clinching the 1971 ACC crown.

Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

MIKE VOIGHT, the first Tar Heel to rush for 1,000 yards in three straight seasons, was ACC Player of the Year in 1975 and 1976.

The mid-1970s brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973, as was James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this era was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player of the Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie of the Year.

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time, Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach, Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed an outstanding four-year run at Miami. His 10 years as head coach at UNC were equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm. He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

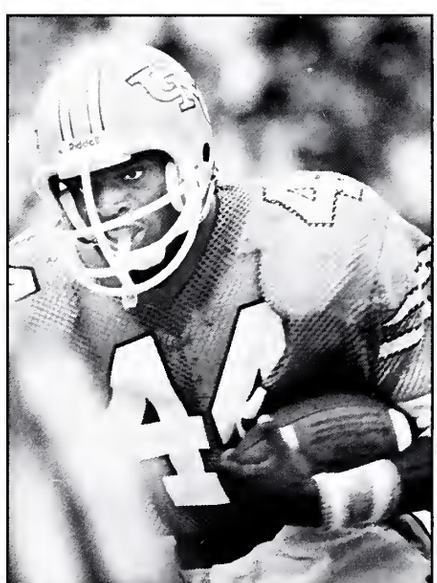
In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to Bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player of the Year and he went on to All-Pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the greatest defenses in ACC history. Other great defensive players at UNC included linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to have distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first-team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980s and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only two runners in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and both Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season each.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding offensive linemen in the '80s, four of whom gained first-team All-America status – guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986.



KELVIN BRYANT is third alltime at UNC in rushing with 3,267 yards and third in touchdowns with 38. Bryant rushed for 17 scores and averaged 6.7 yards per carry in 1981.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten at that time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback– Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio. Carolina conducted a national search to find a successor to lead the Tar Heels into their second century. The unanimous choice of the search committee was Mack Brown, who came to Carolina after head coaching stops at Appalachian State and Tulane. He is considered nationally as one of the finest young minds in the game, a brilliant motivator and communicator.

Caught with slim material, Brown's first two teams struggled. However, there were some bright individual stars for Carolina in that period, including center Jeff Garnica. He was a third-team All-America and the Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient in 1988 as the best offensive lineman in the ACC. Offensive guard Pat Crowley became only the second offensive lineman in ACC history to be named All-ACC in three successive years when he accomplished that feat in 1989.

The blocking of those two players was instrumental in tailback Kennard Martin leading the ACC in rushing in 1988 with 1,146 yards. Martin thus became the 19th runner in Tar Heel history to gain 1,000 yards in a season.

The Tar Heels turned things around in 1990, however, and put together a solid 6-4-1 record and even returned to the Top 25 at one point in the season. Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier led the ACC in tackles for the second consecutive season and rookie tailback Natrone Means capped a stellar second half of the season with a 256-yard, three-touchdown effort vs. Duke. Along the way, Carolina tied Georgia Tech 13-13; the stalemate proved to be the only blemish on the Yellow Jackets' otherwise-perfect national championship ledger.

In 1991, Means became the 11th Tar Heel to rush for more than 1,000 yards for an NCAA-record 20th time. Means ran for 1,030 yards and topped the 1,000-yard plateau on an electrifying, 68-yard scamper in the Tar Heels' 47-14 rout over Duke. Means, inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen and offensive guard Brian Bollinger each were first-team All-ACC selections.

1992 was another filled with great players, spectacular plays and electrifying memories. The Tar Heels won nine games, including a 21-17 win over Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl, and finished the season ranked in the Top 20 in both major polls.

Means rushed for 1,195 yards, the 21st 1,000-yard rushing season in Carolina history. He had a 249-yard day at Maryland and once again dramatically crashed the 1,000-yard club with a 76-yard touchdown scamper against the Terrapins.

The Tar Heels defeated Top 20 opposition on consecutive weekends in mid-season, the first time in the program's history the team accomplished that feat.

Carolina accepted a bid to play in the Peach Bowl and provided one of the year's most entertaining bowl games. Trailing by two touchdowns in the third quarter, UNC rallied for a 21-17 win. Means, a repeat first-team All-ACC selection, gained 128 yards and was named the game's Offensive MVP. Strong safety Bracey Walker tied the game when he blocked a punt, his second of the game, and returned it 41 yards for a score.

Walker, the game's Defensive MVP, set up the game-winning touchdown when he forced an interception with a jarring fourth-quarter hit. Cornerback Cliff Baskerville picked the loose ball out of the air and raced 44 yards for the winning touchdown.

The 1993 Tar Heels provided one of the most entertaining seasons in Carolina history. UNC won 10 games for the first time in a dozen years, finished second in the ACC, 19th in the Associated Press poll and played in a bowl game for a second consecutive season.

UNC set nearly 40 team and individual records, including most points, points per game and total offense. Walker was named first-team All-America by several organizations and was a first-team All-ACC selection along with tailback Curtis Johnson and offensive tackle Ethan Albright.

Johnson and red-shirt freshman tailback Leon Johnson each rushed for 1,000-plus yards. Curtis rushed for 1,034 yards and set a school record with a 90-yard score vs. Maryland; Leon was named the ACC Rookie of the Year as he rushed for 1,012 yards and led the conference with 16 touchdowns and 100 points. Carolina now has produced an NCAA-record 23 1,000-yard rushing seasons.

Quarterback Jason Stanicek set UNC records for one season in total offense (2,284 yards), total yards per game (190.3), completion percentage (64.1) and pass efficiency rating (145.79).

BRACEY WALKER blocks a punt in the 1993 Peach Bowl against Mississippi State. Walker recovered the ball and returned it 24 yards for a tying touchdown. UNC went on to win, 21-17.

Corey Holliday concluded his brilliant career as Carolina's all-time leading pass receiver. Twice selected a captain by his teammates, Holliday finished his four years with 155 receptions for 2,447 yards and caught a pass in an ACC-record 45 consecutive games. He had nine receptions, a UNC postseason record, versus Alabama in Carolina's 24-10 loss in the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

Last year Carolina went 8-4, losing to Texas, 35-31, in the Sun Bowl in an exhilirating contest. Stanicek concluded his career as the school's alltime total offense leader. Stanicek passed "Choo Choo" Justice's mark, which had stood since 1949, in the fifth game of the season and finished his standout career with 5,497 yards. Stanicek also set UNC career records for most pass completions (372), attempts (622), yards (4,683) and completion percentage (.598). He tied Matt Kupec's school mark for most wins by a starting quarterback with 24.

yards in a season with 743. In addition to his nine scoring receptions in the regular season, he added a touchdown catch in the Sun Bowl, returned a kickoff for a score against Duke, returned a punt for a touchdown against Texas and had a rushing touchdown against N.C. State.

Carolina swept the three other in-state conference foes for the second consecutive season, capping that state title with a 41-40 win at Duke in one of the most exciting games in the storied history of that rivalry. The Blue Devils scored a pair of quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter to go ahead, 38-34, with less than 3:00 to play. Quarterback Mike Thomas connected with freshman receiver Octavus Barnes on a short crossing route and Barnes raced past the entire Duke secondary for a 71-yard game-winning score.

Barnes established an ACC record for receiving yards in a season by a freshman with 609. He had 165 yards on receptions, the third-highest single-game figure in Carolina history, in the regular-season finale at Duke and again in the Sun Bowl against Texas.

Defensive end Marcus Jones and tight end Greg DeLong each were named first-team All-ACC selections and Jones was a third-team All-America pick by the Associated Press.

George Barclay, Guard, 1934

Here is Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

GEORGE BARCLAY

Andy Bershak, End, 1937

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snavely and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, an honor student, was also a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Steve Maronic, Tackle, 1938

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man" playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.

STEVE MARONIC

Paul Severin, End, 1939-40

Severin was a two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

Charlie Justice, Halfback, 1948-49

Twice runnerup for the Heisman Trophy, Charlie Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of Southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He is the school's all-time total offense leader with 4,883 yards and also ranks as the Tar Heels' second-leading career scorer, seventh-leading rusher and 10th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns.

Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame. In 1949 he received the national player of the year award from the Washington Touchdown Club and was recipient of the Walter Camp Memorial Trophy.

Art Weiner, End, 1948-49

A great all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the second-most in school history and he still holds the UNC career record with 18 touchdown receptions. However, many remember him best for a game-saving defensive play on the last snap of the 1949 Duke game. After his senior season Weiner was named the most outstanding lineman in the Senior Bowl. Weiner was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1992.

Irv Holdash, Center, 1950

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He probably made All-America in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

IRV HOLDASH

Al Goldstein, End, 1958

Goldstein was another outstanding two-way end at Carolina. He earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards per reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

Bob Lacey, End, 1963

BOB LACEY

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He is the only Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches in two seasons. His career total of 102 receptions is the third-best in school history.

Don McCauley, Halfback, 1970

Don McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards was an all-time collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fourth in career rushing at Carolina. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts.

RON RUSNAK

Ron Rusnak, Offensive Guard, 1972

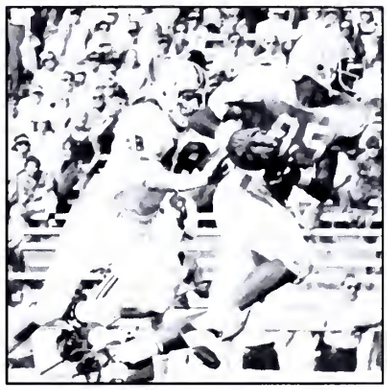
Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.

Ken Huff, Offensive Guard, 1974

KEN HUFF

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards in 1974, at the time a school record. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

Charles Waddell, Tight End, 1974



1975 PATTERSON MEDAL WINNER CHARLES WADDELL

Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he was also a dynamic blocker. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.

DEE HARDISON

Dee Hardison, Defensive Tackle, 1977

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. UNC led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, passing and scoring defense. A big reason was the play of Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

Ricky Barden, Defensive Back, 1979

One of the top defensive backs in Carolina history, Barden was a repeat All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection in 1978 and 1979. Barden made nine career interceptions. He started at cornerback for two years and then was shifted to strong safety for his final year where he broke up nine passes and was the third-leading tackler on the team. His 156 yards on interception returns is the most in school history.

RICKY BARDEN (11) has more yards on interception returns than any other player in Carolina history.

Lawrence Taylor, Outside Linebacker, 1980

From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

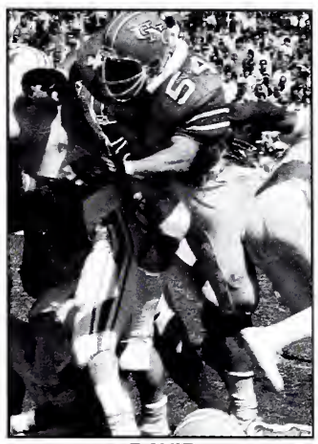
RON WOOTEN

Ron Wooten, Offensive Guard, 1980

Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He went on to become a starting guard with New England in the NFL.

David Drechsler, Offensive Guard, 1981-82



DAVID DRECHSLER

Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.

William Fuller, Defensive Tackle, 1982-83

Fuller is one of just five Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses and six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses with five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just two defensive linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

Brian Blados, Offensive Tackle, 1983

When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

BRIAN BLADOS

Harris Barton, Offensive Tackle, 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

HARRIS BARTON earned All-America honors in 1986. In addition to being an outstanding football player, Barton was an exemplary student. Drafted in the first round by the San Francisco 49ers, he has gone on to earn three Super Bowl championship rings and was named NFL All-Pro in 1992 and 1993.

Pat Crowley, Offensive Guard, 1989

Crowley was a standout offensive guard and a leader of the first of Mack Brown's teams. He won first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors in 1987, 1988 and 1989 and became only the second offensive lineman in conference history to win three all-league honors (Virginia's Jim Dombrowski was the other). He started every game in his college career and helped open the way for a pair of 1,000-yard backs (Derrick Fenner in 1986 and Kennard Martin in 1988).

Bracey Walker, Free Safety, 1993

The first Carolina defensive back to ever receive first-team All-America honors by a major organization, Walker burst onto the scene in 1992 when he was one of the stars of the Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State. Walker blocked two punts in that game, returned one of them for a tying touchdown and set up the game-winning interception with a jarring collision. He was the Defensive MVP of the Peach Bowl.

In 1993 he led the Tar Heels with 100 tackles and was the co-leading vote-getter on the All-ACC first team defense. He also blocked four more punts, two of which were recovered in the end zone by Carolina, and was named the National Special Teams Player of the Year by Sports Illustrated.

PAT CROWLEY

ONE THOUSAND-YARD RUNNERS

1,000 yards.

That's the magic figure for any runner in football.

Call him a halfback, a running back, a tailback, an I-Back or whatever you want. But, when he rushes for 1,000 yards, you simply call him something special.

Nowhere in college football have there been more special runners than at the University of North Carolina.

In the last 26 years Tar Heel tailbacks have rushed for over 1,000 yards on 23 occasions. That gives Carolina more 1,000-yard backs than anyone else in collegiate history. The University of Southern California is second with 19.

In a 12-year period from 1973 to 1984, Carolina had at least one player break the 1,000-yard mark each season. And in the seven years of Mack Brown's reign in Chapel Hill, four Tar Heels have topped the 1,000-yard plateau on five occasions. In 1993 both Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson rushed for 1,000-plus yards, the fourth time in UNC history that not one, but two, players topped the 1,000-yard mark.

In 1992 Natrone Means rushed for 1,195 yards, his second consecutive 1,000-yard season. In 1991, Means rushed for 1,030 yards and vaulted over the magical 1,000-yard barrier on his final carry of the season, a 68-yard touchdown run versus arch-rival Duke. He topped 1,000 in similar fashion in '92 as he reached the magical figure on a wild, 76-yard scoring scamper at Maryland.

Three times in a 12-year stretch from 1973-84, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks– the veer or the wishbone. But, on all four occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position– tailback in the Tar Heels' I-formation.

ETHAN HORTON rushed for 1,107 yards in 1983 and 1,247 yards a year later when he was named ACC Player of the Year.

Tailback at Carolina, in fact, has become the glamour position in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Year in and year out, more attention goes to Tar Heel tailbacks than to players at any other position at any other school in the league. To be a tailback at Carolina, one has to be a superb athlete, one of the nation's best players, someone special.

How has Carolina been able to produce so many 1,000-yard backs?

Certainly, having outstanding runners has been a major factor. But, other schools also have had great backs and haven't been able to compile the figures of Carolina. For example, the Tar Heels have had more 1,000-yard rushers than Alabama, Notre Dame and Oklahoma combined.

No, there are also other reasons, the most important of which are probably fine offensive linemen, belief in the I-formation and tradition. Those reasons also hold true for Southern California.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times– Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times.

The biggest difference between the tailback systems at Carolina and Southern Cal is that Trojan backs have generally had higher yardage totals. But, USC usually picks one player as its tailback and sticks with him throughout the season. In fact, Southern Cal has never had two backs gain 1,000 yards in the same season.

Carolina, on the other hand, has alternated tailbacks quite a bit, trying to keep a fresh player in the game at all times. When two players split a position, their individual yardage totals obviously aren't as high as those of runners who stay in the game constantly. The Tar Heel philosophy is simply that if you've got two great runners, let them both play. In the long run, both will be more effective.

That's not to say Carolina would never go with a system like USC's. If one runner is clearly better than all others, he will get the majority of the playing time. For example, Don McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time that broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. Still, McCauley's backup, Ike Oglesby, had 562 yards.

McCauley is Carolina's only 1,000-yard back from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y.

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson, Ethan Horton, Sammy Johnson, Kennard Martin, Means, Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia, while Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

All who have been eligible have gone on to compete in the professional ranks.

McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Means led the Chargers to the Super Bowl last year and was named to the Pro Bowl. He set the single-season rushing record for the Chargers in just his second season when he compiled 1,350 yards in 1994.

Means was second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in rushing yards and he set a Charger record with five consecutive 100-yard games.

Horton, Sammy Johnson and Leon Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school halfbacks, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Fenner set the ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia, although that mark was surpassed by Wake Forest's John Leach in 1993 against Maryland. Martin had 291 in 1988 against Duke. Lawrence had 286 against Virginia in 1977 and McCauley gained 279 against Duke in 1970. Then comes Voight's 261 against the Blue Devils in 1976. And in 1990, Means rushed for 256 yards in the season finale vs. Duke.

Means is the only player to have two performances in the league's top 10 list of best rushing days. The 256 yard-day at Duke is the eighth-best total and the 249-yard outing at Maryland in 1992 stands tied for the 10th-highest total.

The top two single-season efforts ever in the ACCare McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976.

It has been performances like those which have made Carolina's tailback position what it is– a spot filled with tradition, a spot for special players, a spot for 1,000-yard rushers.

RICKY BARDEN celebrates with the winner's trophy from the Tar Heels' 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. (Dorow)

Carolina's bowl history started with three New Year's Day appearances during the late Forties when Charlie Justice was the big star of some of the school's greatest teams. Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched UNC against Georgia. This game produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the UNC 14. Carolina argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and a 20-10 victory.

Justice was sensational running and punting when the Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later, but Oklahoma won the game, 14-6. Justice also played well in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance did not come until 1963, but Ken Willard made the wait worthwhile in sparking a 35-0 win over the Air Force in the Gator Bowl. He ran for 94 yards and scored the opening touchdown to key the runaway victory.

Beginning in 1970 Carolina made 12 bowl trips in 17 years. After dropping a 26-14 decision to Arizona State in the 1970 Peach Bowl, the Tar Heels and Georgia made bowl history in the 1971 Gator Bowl. This is the only time in history brothers have opposed each other as head coaches in a bowl game with Bill Dooley's Tar Heels taking on his brother Vince's Bulldogs. The game was a great defensive struggle with Georgia coming from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in 1972 with a dramatic 32-28 win over Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. It was his 62-yard touchdown pass to Ted Leverenz which gave the Tar Heels a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD strike with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then sealed the win when tackle Ronnie Robinson dropped Red Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson each had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Carolina couldn't stop the veer attack of Mississippi State. The two teams combined for 901 yards of offense, but the Bulldogs won, 26-24, when the Tar Heels were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 43 during a last-minute drive.

Kentucky blanked Carolina, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl and the following season the Tar Heels dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, Carolina had a 17-7 lead in the fourth quarter. But, the Cornhuskers rallied behind the play of reserve quarterback Randy Garcia.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the biggest stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Lawrence rushed for 118 yards and Kupec hit on 18 of 28 passes.

Lawrence again was the big star in a 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a two-yard plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Jeff Hayes.

But, the key to this game was a Tar Heel defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 total yards in the second half. Lawrence Taylor was all over the field making sensational plays, although safety Steve Streater was chosen the game's defensive MVP with an interception, fumble recovery and a 63-yard punt.

In an eerie setting the following year, Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in the Gator Bowl. The field was shrouded in fog much of the night, making it almost impossible to see the action from the press box. Bryant ran for 148 yards and his backup, Ethan Horton, added 144.

Horton again was the big star in the 1982

CAROLINA'S POSTSEASON BOWL SUMMARY

Sun Bowl as Carolina came from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10. Coming off the bench for an injured Bryant, Horton rushed for 119 yards and one touchdown.

The Tar Heel defense was brilliant, making two great goal line stands and shutting down the Texas attack in the second half. Rob Rogers and Brooks Barwick added a pair of field goals despite weather conditions which featured a wind chill factor of 12 degrees and snow throughout the game.

That Sun Bowl game made Carolina the first Atlantic Coast Conference school ever to win four straight bowl games. But, that streak came to an end with a 28-3 loss to Florida State in the 1983 Peach Bowl.

The Tar Heels spotted Arizona a 30-0 lead in the 1986 Aloha Bowl, before putting on a big second-half rally. Torin Dorn finally got Carolina going against a rugged Wildcat defense with an Aloha-record 58-yard touchdown run.

ROD ELKINS led UNC through the fog to beat Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl.

Norris Davis made two big defensive plays, intercepting a pass and blocking a punt. Mark Maye threw to Randy Marriott for a score, but Arizona held on, 30-21.

Following the 1992 season the Tar Heels rallied from a 14-0 halftime deficit behind MVPs Natrone Means (128 yards rushing, one TD) and Bracey Walker (two blocked punts, one forced interception) to beat Mississippi State, 21-17, in the Peach Bowl.

Walker picked up his second blocked punt and returned it 41 yards for a touchdown to tie the game at 14. Moments later, early in the fourth quarter, Walker broke up a Bulldog pass and Cliff Baskerville intercepted the ball and ran it back 44 yards for the winning score.

The 1993 Tar Heels battled defending national champion Alabama to a 10-10 tie for the first half, but the Tide scored on a pair of 12-play drives of 65 and 66 yards in the second half to record a 24-10 win over Carolina in the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

UNC quarterback Jason Stanicek set school bowl game records for pass completions (19) and yardage (235) and Corey Holliday established a Tar Heel postseason record for receptions (nine) and receiving yardage (125). Fullback William Henderson scored for UNC on a one-yard run.

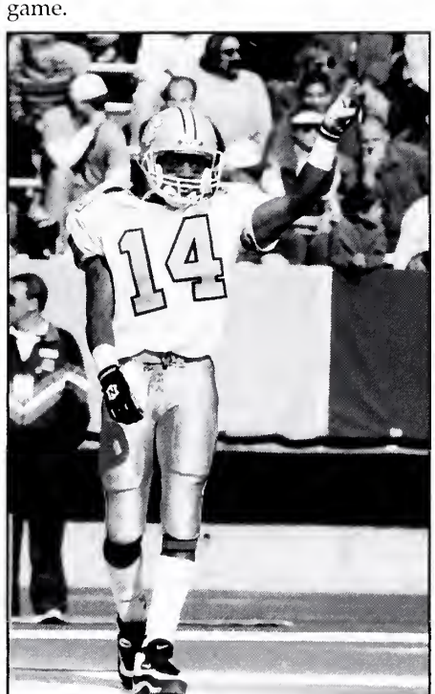
Last year Carolina lost a heartbreaking, 35-31 decision to Texas in the Sun Bowl despite record-setting performances from several players. The Tar Heels led the Longhorns, 31-21, early in the final quarter but Texas tailback Priest Holmes scored his third and fourth rushing touchdowns of the game in the final six minutes.

UNC quarterback Mike Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two scores, freshman wide receiver Octavus Barnes made nine receptions for 165 yards and wide receiver Marcus Wall added seven catches and returned a fourth quarter punt 82 yards for a touchdown.

Wall's punt return, the first time he ever returned a punt in his collegiate career, gave Carolina a 24-21 lead. On the Tar Heels' next possession, Thomas completed a 50-yard scoring pass to Barnes.

Thomas established UNC bowl game records for most pass completions and yards and tied bowl game marks for pass attempts and touchdown throws. Barnes set Sun Bowl and Tar Heel records for catches and yards receiving.

Wall set an ACC bowl game record with 227 all-purpose yards. The 82-yard punt return was the third-longest ever in a bowl game.



MARCUS WALL reacts to his 82-yard punt return for a touchdown in the 1994 Sun Bowl vs. Texas. Wall's score gave UNC a 24-21 lead.(Behar)

1947 Sugar Bowl
January 1, 1947
Georgia 20, Carolina 10

NEW ORLEANS, LA. --- The 1947 Sugar Bowl, which matched Carolina against Georgia, is one of the most famous Tar Heel games of the Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice years and produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive right end Joe Terreshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass at the Georgia 24-yard line. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced 52 yards to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score the tying touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Johnny Rauch.

Carolina's lone touchdown came on a Walt Pupa two-yard run following an interception by Tar Heel guard Bob Mitten.

The Tar Heels' last lead at 10-7 came on a Bob Cox field goal.

The Georgia game-winner came on a 67-yard touchdown pass from Trippi to Dan Edwards less than three minutes after the UNC field goal.

The Dawgs' Charley Trippi rushed for 77 yards, while Justice carried 18 times for 37 yards.

1949 Sugar Bowl
January 1, 1949
Oklahoma 14, Carolina 6

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — The Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl in 1949 and were defeated 14-6 by the University of Oklahoma, representing the Big Seven Conference. A record crowd of 85,000 turned out to see the Charlie Justice-led Tar Heels battle Bud Wilkinson's Sooners.

Carolina threatened early, advancing via a Justice to Art Weiner 23-yard pass play to the OU 15. Justice's next pass, however, was intercepted by linebacker Myrle Greathouse who rumbled 59 yards to the Carolina 13. Sooners' quarterback Jack Mitchell scored the first points of the day on a two-yard run.

The Heels capitalized on an OU fumble later in the first quarter and Justice marched the team down to the two, from where Hosea Rodgers scored. The conversion was wide right.

Carolina advanced to the OU eight late in the first half, but could not score.

The Sooners regained the lead for good in the third quarter. Quarterback Darrell Royal connected for 37 yards with Frankie Anderson and two plays later, Lindell Pearson ran it in from eight yards out.

Justice was brilliant, rushing for 84 yards and passing for another 57.

THE BOWL ALLIANCE

The Bowl Alliance was formed in 1995 to create a mechanism for providing college football fans with the best possible bowl games, including a game between the two top-ranked college football teams, when possible, and to maximize the number of opportunities for a variety of high quality bowl game matchups. The Orange, Sugar and Fiesta Bowls have joined with the Atlantic Coast, The Big East Football, Big Eight, Big Ten, Pacific-10, Southeastern and Southwest Conferences and the University of Notre Dame to form the Alliance.

The champions of the Atlantic Coast, Big East Football, Big Eight, Southeastern and Southwest Conferences will appear in one of the aforementioned bowl games. The University of Notre Dame also will be guaranteed a slot in 1995 should its football team be ranked among the top ten bowl eligible teams in either the Associated Press or CNN/USA Today final regular season polls.

Should Notre Dame not be ranked in the top ten, the one remaining at-large position may be filled by any Division I-A college football team eligible for post-season competition, excluding the Big Ten and Pacific-10 champions, that meets any one of the following requirements:

1) has won at least eight college football games during the most recently completed regular season; or

2) is ranked by the AP or the CNN/USA Today poll among the top 12 teams eligible to participate in post-season competition; or

3) is ranked no lower in either the AP or CNN/USA Today poll than the lowest-ranked team selected by a bowl from the conference champions.

In the event that two or more teams tie for the championship of the Atlantic Coast, the Big East Football, Big Eight, Southeastern or Southwest Conferences and remain tied for the championship after all tie-breaking procedures employed by such conference have been exhausted, the tied team with the highest ranking in both the AP and CNN/USA Today polls shall be included in the conference champions pool. If the tied teams have the same ranking or should the polls disagree as to the highest-ranked team, then all such tied teams will be eligible and the selecting bowl shall have the right to select which team it desires.

Team selection shall occur no later than Sunday, December 3, 1995. The selection order shall be as follows:

Selections 1 and 2	Fiesta Bowl
Selections 3 and 5	Orange Bowl
Selections 4 and 6	Sugar Bowl

The game dates are as follows:

Sugar Bowl	Dec. 31, 1995
Orange Bowl	Jan. 1, 1996
Fiesta Bowl	Jan. 2, 1996

Mandatory 1 vs. 2 Pairing: The Fiesta Bowl shall select any team ranked number one in the AP poll and any such team ranked number one in the CNN/USA Today poll if the teams so ranked are different and two such teams are available. In any other case, the Fiesta Bowl shall select any team ranked number one in either the AP or the CNN/USA Today poll and any team ranked number two in either poll if two teams so ranked are available.

All other team selections shall come from the pool of teams specified above and will be at the discretion of the participating bowls.

1950 Cotton Bowl
January 1, 1950
Rice 27, Carolina 13

DALLAS, TEXAS — Charlie Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but it just wasn't enough as the Tar Heels fell to fifth-ranked Rice, 27-13. The Owls had a 9-1-0 record, while Carolina came in at 7-3 and was ranked 16th.

Rice and Carolina played to a scoreless draw in the opening quarter, but Rice opened the scoring in the second quarter when quarterback Tobin Rote hooked up with Billy Burkhalter for a 44-yard touchdown. Bobby Lantrip's three-yard run built a 14-0 halftime lead, and once the third quarter got underway, the Owls kept right on rolling.

On its second possession of the second half, Rice traveled 77 yards in six plays, capped by Rote's 17-yard scoring pass to "Froggie" Williams. Burkhalter made it 27-0 with a 12-yard fourth quarter score.

The Tar Heels got two touchdowns in the final eight minutes. Justice hit Paul Rizzo for a two-yard touchdown pass and then Rizzo ran it in from two yards.

Justice managed 59 yards rushing and another 63 in the air, while Art Weiner led the Tar Heels with five receptions for 41 yards. Billy Hayes topped the UNC rushing attack with 107 yards on 19 carries.

The 1950 Cotton Bowl marked the end of the "Choo-Choo" Justice era that began in 1946. The Tar Heels went 32-9-2 in that time and played in three major bowl games.

1963 Gator Bowl

Carolina 35, Air Force 0

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — It had been 13 years since Charlie Justice had led Carolina to the 1950 Cotton Bowl, so when the Tar Heels got a chance to play in the 1963 Gator Bowl, they made the most of it. The Tar Heels walloped the Air Force, 35-0.

Ken Willard was the hero of the day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory. When Willard wasn't running in this rout, he did his share of the offensive blocking.

Joe Robinson scored on a five-yard pass and also caught a two-yard conversion to give the Tar Heels a 20-0 lead at intermission.

Coach Jim Hickey's Tar Heels had 23 first downs to the Academy's 14, and piled up 370 yards in total offense compared to 260 for the Falcons.

Gary Black completed all six of his passes for 71 yards and one touchdown and he rushed for another score. Junior Edge was good on five of his nine throws for 42 yards.

Carolina finished the season 9-2, its best record in Hickey's eight years at the helm.

1970 Peach Bowl
Arizona State 48, Carolina 26

ATLANTA — The Tar Heels exploded for 26 second quarter points but couldn't hold off Arizona State in the final two quarters as the Sun Devils rallied for an exciting 48-26 victory before 52,126 fans at Grant Field.

Carolina spotted unbeaten ASU 14 points on a pair of touchdowns runs, from eight and 33 yards, by Bob Thomas.

Don McCauley got the Tar Heels on the scoreboard with a one-yard plunge set up by a long pass from Paul Miller to Ricky Lanier. ASU scored on its next series, though, on a 67-yard TD catch by J.D. Hill.

Carolina then scored the final three touchdowns of the first half to go into the intermission with a 26-21 lead. First, Miller passed 37 yards for a score to Tony Blanchard. Then McCauley rushed in from 17 yards out. And finally, the All-America McCauley scored again from four yards.

Arizona State dominated a second half which was played in a heavy Atlanta snowstorm and without Miller, who left with an injury.

Monroe Ely scored twice and Thomas reached the end zone for the third time in the Sun Devils' 27-point second half.

1971 Gator Bowl
December 31, 1971
Georgia 7, Carolina 3

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — For the first time since 1950, the Tar Heels were playing in a bowl game for the second consecutive season. This time, the Tar Heels would fall, 7-3, to the Georgia Bulldogs.

The game produced a bowl first — brothers coaching against each other. Bill Dooley led the Tar Heels and older brother Vince coached the 'Dawgs.

The game was a defensive struggle with all the points coming in the third quarter.

In the opening half, Carolina had the best chance as linebacker Jimmy Webster, voted the Tar Heels' MVP this day, blocked a punt out of bounds at the Georgia 24. A fumble, though, denied Carolina any points.

A pair of long runs by Lewis Jolley brought the Tar Heels down to the Georgia 16 on UNC's first possession of the second half. But a procedure penalty forced the Heels to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Ken Craven.

A 31-yard pass play from Andy Johnson to Roy Hunnicutt set up the Georgia touchdown. Jimmy Poulos, on the very next play following Hunnicutt's catch, took it in for a score from 25 yards. Poulos rushed for 161 yards on the afternoon and was named the Georgia MVP.

Carolina 32, Texas Tech 28

EL PASO, TEXAS — Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic brought the Tar Heels from behind with a late scoring drive which he capped by tossing a 13-yard touchdown pass to wingback Ted Leverenz.

That play, with a minute to go in the game, gave UNC a 30-28 lead. Carolina added two points moments later as Ronnie Robinson sacked quarterback Joe Barnes in the end zone.

The Tar Heels led 9-0 in the second quarter on a field goal by Ellis Alexander and touchdown run by Dick Oliver. The Red Raiders rallied, however, for the next 21 points and a 21-9 lead. Vidnovic hit Leverenz for a 62-yard touchdown and Billy Hite carried it in from three yards to reestablish a 24-21 Carolina lead. Tech gained the advantage, 28-24, with 7:41 to play in the game.

Vidnovic completed 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns. Ike Oglesby rushed for 71 yards and Sammy Johnson added 52.

The Red Raiders had a touchdown called back in the second quarter. All-America guard Donald Rives ran a blocked punt back for an apparent score, but Tech was flagged for unsportsmanlike conduct and the points were nullified.

EL PASO, TEXAS — Despite mounting 402 yards in total offense, the Tar Heels dropped a 26-24 decision to Mississippi State in a record-setting Sun Bowl.

Terry Vitrano's two-yard touchdown with 3:41 remaining was the game-winner. That capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive which lasted nearly seven minutes.

Carolina had taken a 24-20 lead with 10:26 to play on an Ellis Alexander field goal.

The Bulldogs totaled a Sun Bowl record 499 yards in total offense — 455 of those yards came on the ground via the veer offense. Walter Packer rushed for 189 yards, Vitrano added 164 and quarterback Rockey Felker gained another 69.

The Tar Heels also got big ground gains from Mike Voight and James Betterson. Voight picked up 90 yards on 19 carries and Betterson chipped in with 84 on 17 rushes. But Voight was stopped a yard shy of a first down on Carolina's last offensive play of the game.

Betterson had two rushing scores and Chris Kupec, who led the nation in pass completion percentage, connected with Jimmy Jerome for 29 yards and a touchdown.

ATLANTA — Playing without an injured Mike Voight, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, the Tar Heels managed just five first downs and 108 yards total offense in a 21-0 loss to Kentucky.

Voight, who had rushed for 1,407 yards, injured his ankle in practice two days before the game when he stepped in a hole going out on a pass play. Ironically, Voight had caught just four passes the entire season.

The teams battled to a tie at the half, but Carolina thought it had put up points in the first quarter. On the Tar Heels' opening drive, Matt Kupec hit split end Walker Lee with a 50-yard touchdown pass, but officials ruled the Tar Heels offside and the play came back.

Early in the third quarter, Kentucky defensive end Bud Diehl knocked the ball from Kupec's grasp and the 'Cats recovered at the UNC 21. That set up the first of three rushing touchdowns by fullback Rod Stewart.

Stewart, who finished with 104 yards and the game's MVP trophy, added fourth quarter scores from 13 and three yards.

Subbing for Voight, freshman Doug Paschal led the Tar Heels with 41 yards rushing.

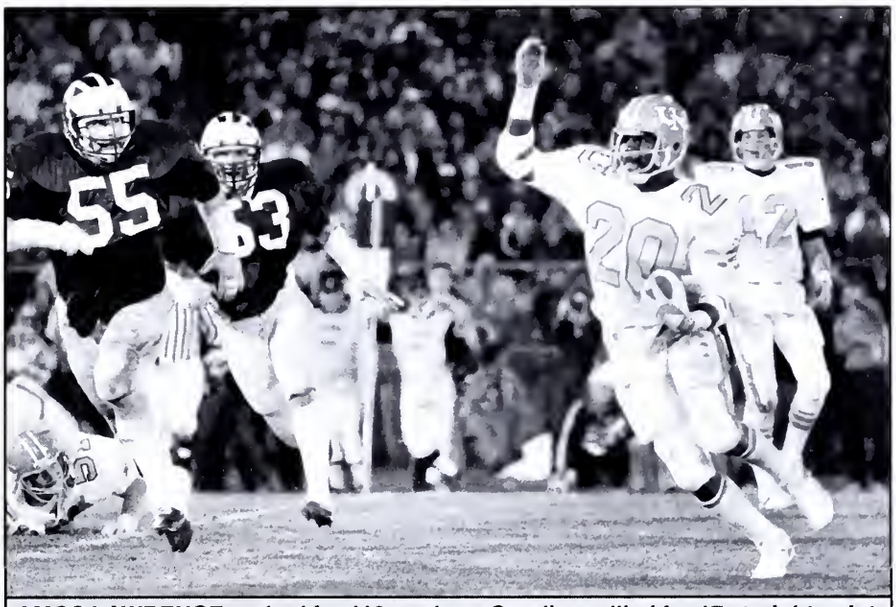
MEMPHIS, TENN. — Thirteenth-ranked Nebraska scored two fourth quarter touchdowns and rallied for a 21-17 victory over 13th-rated North Carolina.

Reserve quarterback Randy Garcia came off the Cornhuskers' bench in the final period to toss a pair of touchdown passes, including a 33-yard game-winner to Tim Smith with 3:16 left in the game. That came six plays after Nebraska recovered a fumble at the UNC 43.

Tar Heel quarterback Matt Kupec, voted the game's Most Valuable Player despite the loss, had led the Tar Heels to a 17-7 lead in the third quarter. Kupec, who connected on seven of his 11 passes, threw touchdown passes to Brooks Williams and Bob Loomis. Tom Biddle added Carolina's final points with 4:17 left in the third on a Liberty Bowl record 47-yard field goal.

Carolina led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, allowing just 7.4 points per game through the regular season. Nebraska was the only team to score more than 14 points against the Tar Heels all season.



AMOS LAWRENCE rushed for 118 yards as Carolina rallied for 17 straight points to knock off Michigan, 17-15, in the 1979 Gator Bowl. (Dorow)

Bill Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual position of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — Matt Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown and Amos Lawrence rushed for 118 yards to lead North Carolina to a 17-15 win over Michigan.

Trailing 9-0, the Tar Heels rallied for the next 17 points and then held off a Michigan threat late in the game to post the first of Dick Crum's four consecutive bowl wins.

Carolina had two chances early on to score first, but high winds knocked down a pair of Jeff Hayes field goal attempts. Michigan did score first following a turnover and added a 53-yard touchdown reception by Anthony Carter to move ahead 9-0.

Doug Paschal put the Heels on the board with a two-yard touchdown. Early in the third, Kupec engineered a 16-play, 97-yard touchdown drive which culminated in a 12-yard pass to Phil Farris. Hayes added a 32-yard field goal in the fourth for a 17-9 UNC lead.

Michigan, thwarted once already in the fourth when Lawrence Taylor scooped up a loose ball, did manage another Carter touchdown with 1:28 left, but the two-point conversion pass to Carter fell short.

Kupec and Lawrence were named co-Most Valuable Players.

HOUSTON, TEXAS — Amos Lawrence rushed for 104 yards and one touchdown and the Tar Heel defense allowed just two first downs and 36 total yards in the second half as Carolina played error-free football to defeat Texas, 16-7, in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Lawrence, the game's Most Valuable Offensive Player, scampered 59 yards for a touchdown on the Tar Heels' fourth play from scrimmage for a 7-0 lead. Following a Texas touchdown in the second quarter by Mike Luck, Carolina regained the advantage for good on a one-yard run by Kelvin Bryant.

Jeff Hayes converted a fumbled punt snap by the Longhorns into a 31-yard field goal with 2:03 to play in the third quarter.

The defense, which allowed 224 yards and 11 Texas first downs in the opening half, dominated the second 30 minutes. UNC safety Steve Streater was named the defensive MVP as he had an interception, recovered a fumble and also boomed a 63-yard punt, longest in Bluebonnet Bowl history.

Carolina's 11-1 record matched the best season in UNC history and the Tar Heels finished ranked eighth in the nation by the Associated Press and ninth by United Press International.

Carolina 31, Arkansas 27

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — Kelvin Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Ethan Horton added 144 to lead the Tar Heels to a 31-27 victory over Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

Bryant and Horton shared Most Valuable Player honors, but it was a key defensive stop by seldom-used freshman Ronnie Snipes which saved the night for Carolina.

ETHAN HORTON and Kelvin Bryant combined for 292 yards rushing in Carolina's 31-27 win over Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl. (James)

After building a 31-10 lead midway through the fourth quarter, Carolina watched as Arkansas rallied for two touchdowns and had the ball again inside Tar Heel territory with less than a minute to play. But on third down, Snipes, who had played just two previous downs in the contest, sacked quarterback Brad Taylor for a 17-yard loss.

The game was deadlocked at 10-10 at the half, but Carolina came right out to open the third quarter and put together a 13-play, 85-yard drive which was capped by Horton's one-yard scoring run.

UNC quarterback Rod Elkins scored on a one-yard sneak on the Tar Heels' next drive. He was set up by a 21-yard run by Horton and a 13-yard scamper by Bryant.

Horton then churned out 42 yards on six plays and went in from four yards out to give the Heels a 31-10 lead with 7:29 to play in the game.

The Razorbacks scored with 5:05 to play, recovered an onside kick and scored again with 2:44 left. UNC punter Jeff Hayes took an intentional safety with 1:44 to play. That gave the ball back to Arkansas and set up Snipes' defensive gem.

Carolina closed the season with a 10-2 record and became the first team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire services in successive years. Carolina finished the year rated eighth by United Press International and ninth by Associated Press.

ETHAN HORTON battled his way thorough the snow and the Texas defense to rush for 119 second-half yards in the Tar Heels' 26-10 win in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

EL PASO, TEXAS — North Carolina scored the final 23 points of the game in the final quarter and held seventh-ranked Texas to 48 total yards in the second half as the Tar Heels won their fourth consecutive bowl game, 26-10.

Ethan Horton was the offensive star of the game, rushing for 119 yards in the second half. He replaced injured starter Kelvin Bryant, who totaled 45 yards before leaving the game with an injured ankle.

Trailing 10-3 after three quarters, the Tar Heels vaulted into the lead via three consecutive field goals. Sophomore walk-on Rob Rogers, who had connected from 53 yards in the second quarter, hit a 47-yard field goal with 14:51 to play to narrow the Texas lead to 10-6. Brooks Barwick was then successful from 24 and 42 yards, the latter putting the Heels into the lead at 12-10 with 4:56 left.

Horton tacked on a three-yard touchdown with 2:17 remaining and Mike Wilcher fell on a loose ball in the end zone for another touchdown with 1:35 to play.

The defensive series of the game came five minutes into the third quarter with Texas leading 10-3 and with the ball, third-and-goal at the Carolina one. Two times, Texas fullback Ervin Davis tried to find the end zone, but twice he was hurled back. First, it was Wilcher who made the hit and then on fourth-and-goal, Greg Poole made the stop which changed the game.

The Christmas Day affair was played with intermittent snow flurries and a wind-chill reading that hovered around 12 degrees.

Florida State 28, Carolina 3

ATLANTA — Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and penalties and turnovers cost the Tar Heels dearly, as the Seminoles whipped Carolina 28-3 in a miserably cold and half-empty Peach Bowl.

Played before only 25,648 fans in low-20 degree temperatures, the Peach Bowl loss snapped the Tar Heels' consecutive bowl-game winning streak at four.

The Seminoles held the Tar Heels' running game to just 32 yards and three first downs. One thousand-yard rushers Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony were held to 30 and 27 yards, respectively.

Florida State quarterback Eric Thomas, making his first start, connected with Weegie Thompson on touchdown passes on the 'Noles first two series.

Midway through the second quarter, the Tar Heels fumbled away a punt at their own 16 and FSU converted via a one-yard touchdown run.

Early in the fourth quarter, UNC quarterback Scott Stankavage hit tight end Arnold Franklin with a fourth down, 10-yard TD pass, but the play was called back due to a holding penalty. Carolina elected to kick for three and put up its only points of the day on Brooks Barwick's 36-yard field goal.

The loss was the fourth in the final five games of the season and ended a season in which Carolina had been ranked third in the nation.

Arizona 30, Carolina 21

HONOLULU, HAWAII — The University of Arizona converted four North Carolina fumbles into 20 points and then held off a furious Tar Heel rally in the fourth quarter to win the 1986 Aloha Bowl, 30-21.

Carolina dug itself a 30-0 hole and did not put points on the board until freshman tailback Torin Dorn broke a 58-yard touchdown run with 2:19 left in the third quarter.

The Tar Heels fumbled five times in the first three periods and the Wildcats turned them into two touchdowns and two field goals.

Following Dorn's electrifying run, the Tar Heels quickly moved back within striking distance with two more touchdowns in the next seven minutes.

Mark Maye hit Randy Marriott with a six-yard touchdown pass after a Norris Davis interception and then followed a Davis punt block with a two-yard scoring run of his own to narrow the margin to 30-21 with 9:10 to play.

That, however, was as close as Carolina could challenge. A couple of dropped passes thwarted two more Carolina drives.

Dorn was the game's leading ground-gainer, rushing for 101 yards on only seven carries. Maye completed 17 of 34 passes for 171 yards; he hooked up with Eric Starr a game-high seven times for 53 yards. Carolina had 375 yards in total offense, compared to 342 for the Wildcats.

1993 Peach Bowl
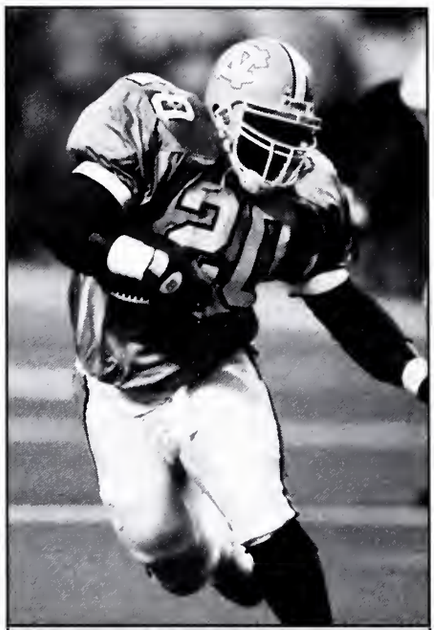
Carolina 21, Mississippi State 17

ATLANTA — Bracey Walker blocked consecutive third-quarter punts, returning one of them for the tying touchdown, and forced a fourth quarter interception which Cliff Baskerville returned 44 yards for a touchdown to lead Carolina to a 21-17 win over Mississippi State in the 1993 Peach Bowl.



NATRONE MEANS rushed for 128 yards and a touchdown in the Tar Heels' 21-17 win over Mississippi State in the 1993 Peach Bowl.

Walker's heroics capped a fierce second-half comeback in which the Tar Heels came from 14 points behind to score three times, although just once on an offensive possession.

Mississippi State took a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter and had two more scores in the second quarter called back due to holding penalties.

Mack Brown's squad regrouped at halftime, however, and cut the lead to 14-7 just six plays into the third quarter. Mike Thomas connected with Bucky Brooks for a 53-yard completion on the fourth play of the half and Natrone Means scored from a yard out two snaps later.

Means led the Tar Heel offense with 128 yards rushing and was named the game's Offensive MVP. Walker was the Defensive MVP.

Later in the third quarter, Walker blocked a punt but Carolina's field goal try was unsuccessful. On the next series UNC again forced the Bulldogs to punt and this time Walker blocked the kick, picked up the loose ball and raced 24 yards untouched for the tying score.

Early in the final quarter Walker forced a midair loose ball with a jarring hit and Baskerville plucked the ball out of the air and sprinted 44 yards down the left sideline for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Carolina held off two late MSU rallies to hang on to the lead. Linebacker Kerry

1993 Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl December 31, 1993 Alabama 24, Carolina 10

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — Quarterback Brian Burgdorf threw for two touchdowns and ran for another to lead 18th-ranked and defending national champion Alabama to a 24-10 victory over 11th-ranked Carolina in Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

Burgdorf, selected as the Crimson Tide's Most Valuable Player in the game, directed a second-half surge in which he threw both of his scoring passes to break open a 10-10 halftime deadlock.

Wideout Corey Holliday, in his final game as a Tar Heel, was named MVP for Carolina after catching nine passes for 125 yards.

After a scoreless first period, Alabama took the lead on a 22-yard field goal by Michael Proctor. Carolina quarterback Jason Stanicek then led a seven-play, 80-yard touchdown drive in just 1:36 to take the lead, 7-3, on the ensuing possession. Stanicek hit Holliday with completions of 29 and 22 yards and executed one of his trademark option pitches to freshman tailback Leon Johnson for an 18-yard gain. William Henderson plunged in from a yard out for the lead.

The Crimson Tide went up 10-7 after three key plays by Burgdorf. He scrambled for 19 yards, hit Chad Key for 13 and scored from 33 yards out on a quarterback draw.

With 1:44 left before intermission, Stanicek led what would be the final Tar Heel scoring drive. He hit Holliday with passes of 12 and nine yards and Curtis Johnson ran twice for 20 yards before the drive stalled and Tripp Pignetti hit a 23-yard field goal to tie the game at 10.

The Alabama defense was the key to the game, holding UNC to a season-low 42 net yards rushing on 25 carries. Carolina could only muster 40 total yards and four first downs in the second half.

Meanwhile, Alabama regained the lead with a 12-play, 65 yard touchdown drive on the opening possession of the second half. The Tide also scored on another 12-play drive in the fourth quarter, this one for 66 yards.

Justice Prevails in 1950 College All-Star Game

When Charlie Justice was selected to the 1950 College All-Star team to play against the Philadelphia Eagles, Justice was chosen only to return kickoffs. After the first return however, Iowa coach Dr. Eddie Anderson instructed Justice and Eddie LeBaron to remain in at back and run the first series.

Justice ran wild, carrying the ball nine times for 133 yards and caught five passes. He had two long runs of 47 and 31 yards and caught a 60-yard touchdown pass from LeBaron. Justice was an overwhelming choice for Most Valuable Player honors. In making the MVP presentation, Wilfred Smith of the Chicago Tribune remarked, "No halfback has ever done better against the pro champions in the history of the game."

Talbott Outshines Big Stars at '66 Shrine Game

There were eight All-Americas on the East team at the 1966 East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco, but the man who shone the brightest was a Carolina quarterback who had led his Tar Heels to two wins the previous season — two-sport star Danny Talbott.

Talbott tied the East-West record for touchdown passes with three and led the East to a record 513 yards in a 45-22 victory. Talbott was a surprise starter, but quickly proved his worth by completing each of his initial 11 passes. Talbott connected on scoring strikes of 25 yards to Gene Washington (Michigan State), nine to Ken Last (Minnesota) and 14 to Jack Clancy (Michigan). Talbott was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

Fourteen former University of North Carolina football players have been honored in special fashion as their names and jersey numbers have been placed on the facade of Kenan Stadium's upper deck.

Athletic Director John Swofford announced in August 1994 that the University's Athletic Council had approved a request to pay tribute to some of the school's greatest players.

The men being honored are the five who have already had their jersey numbers retired, Carolina's consensus first-team All-Americas and anyone who was named Atlantic Coast Conference Football Player of the Year. Consensus All-Americas are those players who made the majority of the first-team selections in any given year.

"We have been looking for a way to pay special tribute to those players who have been so instrumental in our football success over the years," said Swofford. "We felt this was a way to make people more aware of the great football tradition that we have here.

"Of course, it would be impossible to honor all of our outstanding players. So we had to have some sort of criteria to go by in coming up with a list of names. The retired jerseys gave us a start. After much discussion with a lot of people, we decided the highest honors any of our players have had were being named consensus All-Americas and chosen the best player in our league."

GEORGE BARCLAY (99), a guard and linebacker from 1932 to 1934, whose number has been retired. He was the school's first football All-America and is a member of the state of North Carolina's Sports Hall of Fame. A guard and linebacker at 5-11, 185 pounds, Barclay was a standout for three seasons under coaches Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A tremendous blocker and ferocious tackler, he was captain of the 1934 team that went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as UNC's head coach from 1953 until 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK (59), a great two-way end from 1935 to 1937, who was a consensus All-America in 1937. His number has also been retired. Bershak was a brilliant defender and his team's top receiver. He also was a starter on the basketball team and an honor student. Bershak was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

BILL "COTTON" SUTHERLAND (46), a blocking back on the 1946 Sugar Bowl team, whose number has been retired. He died in an auto accident after his freshman year, stunning his teammates and Coach Carl Snavely. Sutherland was named one of the Tar Heels' three captains for what would have been his sophomore season and Snavely worked to ensure that his number would be retired.

CHARLIE "CHOO CHOO" JUSTICE (22), arguably the most famous and popular athlete in the history of the state. Justice was a consensus All-America and twice runnerup for the Heisman Trophy. During his four seasons, 1946-49, Carolina went to the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. A single-wing tailback, he still holds many of the school's total offense records. In addition, he was a sensational punter and a brilliant kick returner.

ART WEINER (50), an outstanding two-way end from 1946 to 1949, whose number has been retired. Weiner won All-America honors in 1948 and 1949 and was the nation's leading receiver as a senior. He teamed with the legendary Charlie Justice to form perhaps the most potent offensive duo in school history. Voted the top lineman in the Senior Bowl, Weiner is a member of the National Football Hall of Fame.

ART WEINER is the third-leading receiver in Carolina history. Weiner is a recent inductee into the College Football Hall of Fame. Teammate Charlie Justice and UNC athletic director John Swofford were on hand when Weiner was introduced to the Kenan Stadium crowd in September 1992.

CAROLINA'S HONORED & RETIRED JERSEYS

1965 ACC Player of the Year Danny Talbott and Carolina head coach Jim Hickey.

DANNY TALBOTT (10), a star quarterback from 1964 to 1966 and the 1965 ACC Player of the Year under Head Coach Jim Hickey.

Talbott led the league in total offense and scoring that season. He had 318 yards of total offense in one game against Georgia, at the time a school record.

DON MCCAULEY (23), the ACC Player of the Year as a junior and senior and a consensus All-America in 1970, his final season. McCauley was the first of Carolina's NCAA-record 23 backs to rush for 1,000 yards. He twice led the ACC in rushing with 1,092 yards in 1969 and 1,720 in 1970. That latter total at the time broke O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA record. He also led the nation in all-purpose running as a senior and his 126 points that year still is the league record.

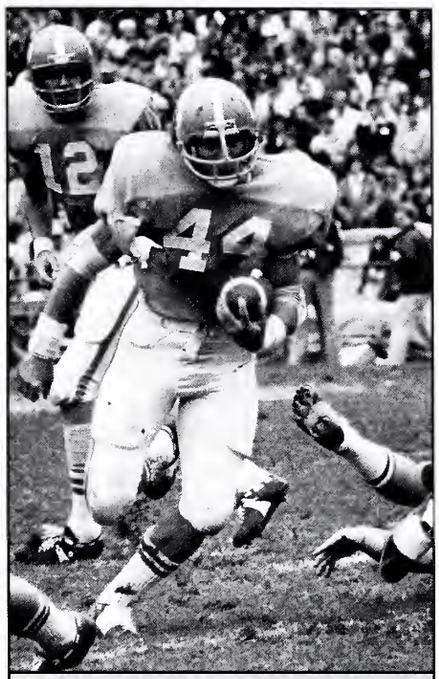
RON RUSNAK (62), an offensive guard on three bowl teams from 1970 to 1972, who won unanimous All-America honors in his senior season. At 6-2, 220 pounds, Rusnak wasn't as big as some linemen, but had great technique. He was the cornerstone of the offensive front on the 1972 team which went 11-1. Rusnak was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. He won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1972 as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF (68), a three-year starter at offensive guard from 1972 to 1974 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Huff was a dynamic blocker at 6-4 and 250 pounds. He was the key figure on the 1974 line which helped Carolina boast a pair of 1,000-yard backs and lead the ACC in total offense, rushing and scoring. Led by Huff, UNC accumulated 4,691 yards, at the time a school record. The Tar Heels were fifth nationally in total offense and ninth in scoring that season. Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference and was the third player selected overall in the 1974 NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

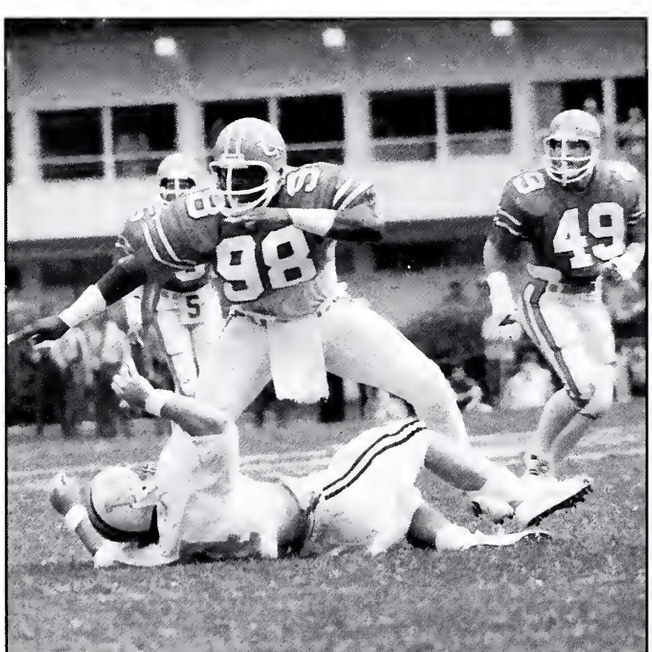
MIKE VOIGHT (44), a hard-running tailback from 1973 to 1976, who was the ACC Player of the Year as both a junior and senior. Voight is Carolina's all-time scoring leader with 254 points and ranks second in career rushing with 3,971 yards. He had three 1,000-yard seasons and twice was the top ground-gainer in the ACC. In 1976 he scored 110 points and ran for 1,407 yards, including 261 in his final game— a dramatic 39-38 shootout with Duke.

DEE HARDISON (71), a defensive tackle from 1974 to 1977 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Hardison was the star of one of Carolina's greatest defenses in his final year. He dominated the line of scrimmage all season long as the Tar Heels led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. Carolina also topped the ACC in total, rushing and pass defense that year. No team would lead the league in all four again until Florida State in its 1993 national championship season.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR (98), an outside linebacker from 1977 to 1980, who is regarded as the greatest player of all time at that position. Taylor was a consensus All-America and the ACC Player of the Year in 1980. He had a Carolina-record 16 quarterback sacks that season for losses totaling 127 yards. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels went 11-1 in 1980 and won the ACC championship.



MIKE VOIGHT is the second-leading rusher in school history and fourth in ACC history with 3,971 yards.



LAWRENCE TAYLOR earned All-America honors and was named the ACC Player of the Year in 1980. Taylor had 16 quarterback sacks that year and led the Tar Heels to the ACC title.

WILLIAM FULLER (95), a defensive lineman from 1980 to 1983, who was a consensus All-America as a senior. Also honored as a first-team All-America as a junior, he is one of only five Tar Heel players to be named first-team All-America twice. Fuller, who utilized his tremendous quickness to slice through offensive lines, had 22 tackles for losses in both 1981 and 1983. He is one of only three defensive linemen ever to make the All-ACC team three times.

ETHAN HORTON (12), who was the Associated Press ACC Player of the Year as a senior. Horton rushed for 1,247 yards in 1984 after a 1,107-yard performance in 1983. He was named the game's co-MVP in Carolina's 1981 Gator Bowl win over Arkansas and was the MVP of a 1982 Sun Bowl victory over Texas.

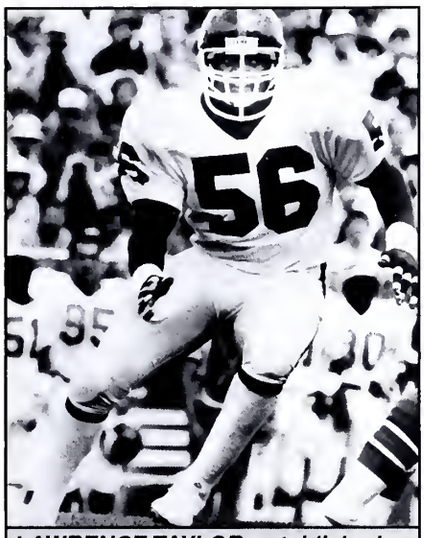
Started every game for the Bills in 1994...Intercepted his first NFL pass against the Colts...Had 38 solo stops and six assisted tackles...Had a solid all-around game against New England as he recorded two tackles, forced a fumble and defended three passes...Has 51 total tackles for his career...Played in all 19 of Buffalo's games, including three in the postseason, as a rookie...Saw extensive time in the AFC title game vs. Kansas City and in the Super Bowl vs. Dallas...Was second on the team with 12 special teams tackles in 1993...Had three tackles and defended four passes as the Bills won the AFC East vs. Miami in December, 1993...Was the 29th player selected in the first round of the 1993 NFL Draft.

BRACEY WALKER • Cincinnati Bengals (2nd year)

Played in nine games during his rookie season...Mostly saw action on special teams...Was acquired by the Bengals off of waivers during the season...Played in two games with Kansas City...Was drafted in the fourth round of the 1994 draft by the Chiefs.

When Lawrence Taylor played outside linebacker at Carolina as a freshman, the Tar Heels did not even chart defensive statistics. Similarly, when he arrived with the New York Giants as the second pick overall in the 1981 draft, the quarterback sack was not yet an official National Football League statistic.

After a career as perhaps the finest defensive player in football history, Taylor forever has changed the game. His unique size, speed, strength, intelligence and tenacity as a pass-rusher revolutionized his position. The defensive end/outside linebacker is now one of the most crucial building blocks at the base of any defense.



LAWRENCE TAYLOR established an NFL record by being named to 10 straight Pro Bowls. Taylor was a unanimous choice to the NFL's Team of the 1980s.

In the fall of 1977, Taylor arrived at Carolina weighing only 200 pounds. He was considered too small and too slow to play linebacker and did not see much playing time as a freshman or sophomore. He burst into the Tar Heel defensive attack as a junior and by his senior campaign he had his weight up to a sleek but solid 245 pounds.

Taylor was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1980. He finished with 55 solo tackles, six tackles for loss and an amazing 16 sacks. He forced three fumbles and recovered three more. But Taylor's domination of college football that season transcended statistics. He terrorized opponents and seemed to make huge plays every Saturday afternoon.

Taylor made perhaps the biggest play of Carolina's 1980 season in a win at Clemson late in the year. With the Tigers trailing UNC, 24-19, and facing a third consecutive third-and-goal play from the Tar Heel one-yard line, Taylor sacked Clemson quarterback Homer Jordan for a nine-yard loss with under 30 seconds remaining in the game. Carolina seized the victory and went on to an 11-1 record, matching the most wins in a season in school history.

TAYLOR earned All-America honors and was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1980. Taylor set a school record that fall with 16 quarterback sacks.

Tar Heel fans may also remember a few other plays from the 1980 season. In a win over N. C. State in Chapel Hill, Taylor jumped over one blocker, then grabbed another and threw him into Wolfpack quarterback Tol Avery. He also caused a fumble and then recovered it inside the Carolina 10-yard line in the fourth period of a 9-3 win at Texas Tech.

Taylor only got better in the professional ranks. As a rookie in 1981, he earned every defensive and rookie post-season honor possible. He established an NFL record by appearing in 10 consecutive Pro Bowls and was one of only three unanimous choices to the NFL's All-1980s team chosen by the NFL Hall of Fame selection committee.

In 1994 Taylor was named by the Football Writers Association of America as one of the best players of all the All-America selections over the last 25 years.

Taylor had the best year of his career in 1986, earning unanimous selection as the NFL's Most Valuable Player, the first defensive player to be so honored in a decade. He had a career-high 20.5 sacks, 105 total tackles, five passes defensed and two forced fumbles in that regular season. Taylor finished as the all-time NFL sack leader with 142.

He had nine career regular-season interceptions, including one in 1982 which he returned 97 yards for a touchdown. He also had a 34-yard interception return for a touchdown against Joe Montana and the 49ers in the 1986 NFC Playoffs.

Taylor led the Giants to the Super Bowl on two occasions and both times the Giants came away winners. In 1986 the Giants defeated Denver to win New York's first title since 1963. Four years later, Taylor won his second ring as the Giants edged Buffalo.

"There may be some stronger linebackers," said Jim Williams, former strength coach of the New York Giants, in 1982. "There may be some quicker. There may even be some more intelligent, but there are none who combine his strength, speed and smarts. And no one knows how to stop the guy."

Simply put, few would argue that Lawrence Taylor is the greatest linebacker and perhaps the greatest defensive player in NFL history.

LT STAT FACT: Lawrence Taylor registered 142 quarterback sacks. He sacked 49 different quarterbacks, including Philadelphia's Ron Jaworsky and the Eagles' Randall Cunningham, whom he sacked 12.5 times apiece.

CHARLIE JUSTICE PROFILE

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar...a hero...a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowls. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

"A teacher asked his pupils to write on a slip of paper the most important man in the country. Twenty-six slips of paper were passed out, marked and returned.

The principal of the institution received one vote. The President of the United States, Harry Truman, received two.

The other 23 went to Charlie Justice."

— from Choo Choo: The Charlie Justice Story (by Bob Quincy and Julian Scheer)

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to help them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made the Bell Tower Chime, the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succinctly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course.

The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy Squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

Justice was all his press clippings indicated—and more.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech opener, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled and vowed it would never happen again. It didn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a shocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played at Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back to punt. The Hurricanes came hard with an all-out rush to block him. He faked the kick and ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40, and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing on the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been at tailback in pre-war years.

Research compiled by Bernie McCarty of University Park, Ill.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by players' ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo", documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All The Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record of 4,883 yards lasted for 45 years until quarterback Jason Stanicek broke the mark in 1994. Justice, graciously, was on hand to congratulate Stanicek.

Justice's punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. He also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runnerup for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Booming punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

TAR HEEL SPORTS MARKETING

Tar Heel Sports Marketing, a division of The Village Companies of Chapel Hill, produces all University of North Carolina football and basketball media entities, including television, radio and game program products.

Included under those entities is all advertising for The Tar Heel Sports Network, Mack Brown Live, Carolina Blueline with Dean Smith, The Mack Brown Carolina Football Show, the Dean Smith Carolina Basketball Show, the UNC football and men's basketball programs, and Carolina Court Magazine.

Tar Heel Sports Marketing, a full-service marketing agency, also handles promotions for football and men's basketball. The agency is a multi-media partner of the University, something unique in the world of college athletics.

For the seventh consecutive year, WOODY DURHAM (left) and MICK MIXON will bring you the action of Carolina football live on the Tar Heel Sports Network. Durham is in his 25th year as the play-by-play voice of the Tar Heels.

Village has produced the Tar Heel Sports Network play-by-play for the past 19 years, began producing the Carolina game programs two years ago and began producing other properties in 1993.

Woody Durham and Mick Mixon will again team up to bring Carolina fans the live radio coverage of every UNC game on the Tar Heel Sports Network. Durham and head coach Mack Brown will also give fans an opportunity to phone in and talk to the head coach every Thursday evening during the football season on the Mack Brown Call-In Show.

Durham will also visit with Coach Brown on Inside Carolina Football, a daily, five-minute program featuring conversations with the Tar Heels' head coach. Each of these shows are heard on stations throughout North Carolina and beyond.

The Mack Brown Carolina Football Show, hosted by Durham, is a half-hour television program seen each week on a network of six stations in North Carolina and on cable networks throughout much of the United States. The show features highlights of the previous game, interviews with current and former Tar Heel players and a preview of upcoming action.

Durham is beginning his 25th year as the play-by-play voice of the Tar Heels. A native of Mebane, N.C., Durham grew up in Albemarle, N.C. and began his broadcasting career at age 16 at WZKY Radio. He graduated from UNC in 1963 with a degree in Radio, Television and Motion Pictures.

In 1981, Durham was named vice president and executive sports director at Village. He has become a permanent fixture behind the microphone of Tar Heel football and basketball since taking over the play-by-play duties in September 1971. Durham has been named North Carolina Sportscaster of the Year nine times.

Last May during graduation ceremonies, Durham was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal by the General Alumni Association.

Woody and his wife of 32 years, Jean, are parents to two sons, Wes and Taylor.

Wes took over play-by-play duties for Georgia Tech last June after handling the same duties for three years at Vanderbilt University. Taylor is a senior at Elon College.

Mixon is in his seventh year as color analyst and production manager and his second as the local producer of the Mack Brown TV Show. A Chapel Hill native, Mixon graduated from UNC in 1980 with a degree in broadcast journalism.

Mixon came to the Tar Heel Sports Network in 1989 from Columbia, S.C., where he was sports director at WIS Radio. He has also served as play-by-play voice of the Maine Guides of the Class AAA International League and as sports director of WGSC Radio in Belmont, N.C. Mick also does play-by-play for UNC baseball.
